Neighbour Appointed City Water Superintendent

NEW SET-UP IN EFFECT ON JUNE 1

Hugh Neighbour, assistant city engineer, will be elevated to the post of water superintendent on June 1.

Confirmation of the appointment was made today by Councilman Ernest Layton.

The appointment of Neighbour will in no way affect the status of City Engineer J. L. McBride, according to Layton, who said the move was being made in the interests of efficiency and to lighten McBride's duties.

At the present time McBride, as city engineer, is water and sewer superintendent in addition to supervising all street and outfall sewer work.

Under the new set-up, which, according to Layton will not mean reduction in rank or pay for McBride, he will have charge of the outfall sewer maintenance and city streets. Neighbour will confine his activities to the water department and city sewer maintenance.

"The growth of the city," said Layton this morning, has been so rapid that the duties of the city engineer have multiplied until now they are more than one man can handle. It is for this reason that the council is taking Hugh Neighbour from the city engineer's department and placing him in charge of the water and sewer departments. It is no reflection whatever on McBride."

NEW MILK PLAN IS ESTABLISHED

With Director A. A. Brock of the State Department of Agriculture presiding, a new market stabilization plan was established for the dairy industry of Orange county at a hearing conducted at the courthouse today.

Under the new set-up, distributors will be required to pay producers 69 cents per pound for milk fat contained in class one milk, delivered to distributors' plants.

More than 65 per cent of the milk producers of the county had signed petitions asking the hearing, which was conducted under provisions of the Young milk-control law, which likewise is authority for designating Orange county as an area for establishment of the market stabilization plan, as amended by the 1937 legislature.

No protests were received against the plan when Brock conducted the hearing today in the supervisors' chamber at the courthouse. This absence of protest was unusual, Brock stated, having occurred at only one previous hearing in the state.

OAKLAND NEGRO HANGED SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif., May 28.—(UP)—John Woods, Oakland Negro, was hanged here today for the murder last winter of Harry Shepard, another Negro, in a fight over gambling. The Negro was dropped through the trap at 2 1/2 minutes after 10 a. m. and was pronounced dead at 10:11.

F. D. R. Enters Fight On Relief Bill

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today entered the serious congressional controversy threatening to upset his $1,500,000,000 work relief program for the 1938 fiscal year.

Mr. Roosevelt said that if congress persists in earmarking $505,000,000 of the relief bill the government will be unable to care for 530,000 of those now on relief. He said that the $505,000,000 set aside for public works, flood control and road building would give direct jobs to 100,000 unemployed on relief.

If the Works Progress administration is given the $505,000,000 as the administration intended, the money could be made to provide jobs for 630,000 needy, he said.

PREDICT CUTS IN WPA WORK

Federal work relief projects in Orange county are facing the possibility of a drastic reduction in personnel, according to word received here today.

Indications were that the reduction, if it actually materializes, will hit hardest at the Federal Music project, under direction of Leon Eckles.

Notice Received Dan Mulherson, WPA manager in Orange county, said that he received a communication today from National Relief Director Harry Hopkins, for transmittal to Eckles, instructing him not to add any more to the pay roll until further notice.

Mulherson said similar notices were sent to all music project directors in the state.

Hopkins instructed them, Mulherson said, to make no replacements of those leaving the projects with the exception of certain unusual cases. At present there are 190 persons employed in the music project with an approximately $8400 pay roll.

Mulherson said that if the reduction in workers is ordered the labor division of WPA probably would not be affected as it is already operating below its quota.

2236 Employed The quota for all relief projects in the county at this time calls for 2843 workers, including those on federal projects, recreational and other "white collar" jobs, administration and labor division. Under this quota, Mulherson said the labor or construction division is allowed a quota of approximately 2600 workers. At this time there are only 2236 persons.

$10,000,000 PAID FOR NEVADA MINE

WINNEMUCCA, Nev., May 28.—(UP)—Three Texas oil men have purchased a lease and option to purchase the sensational Jumbo gold mine, in the Slumbering Hills north of Jungo, for $10,000,000, George Austin, Jungo storekeeper, who bought the claims for $10,000, announced today.

The purchasers, J. K. Wadley, Sherman Hunt and H. L. Hunt, have made a down payment of $250,000, Austin announced.

H. B. Trailer Convention Under Way

From the four points of the compass trailers were converging on Huntington Beach today for the first annual Pacific Coast Tourist Trailer convention which opens in the beach city this afternoon. More than 100 trailers had registered at noon today.

Register Official Paper With the arrival of the trailers, William Gallienne, secretary of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce, announced the appointment of the Santa Ana Daily Register as official newspaper for the convention.

In order to accurately report all doings of the convention, which continues through June 6, The Register has placed a trailer in a central location in the municipal trailer park. Mrs. Marah Adams, veteran Register reporter, will live in the trailer during the entire convention and will report all activities and gossip of the group.

A Covered Wagon, one of the deluxe models, has been turned over to The Register for the duration of the convention by R. L. Peterson, county dealer for Covered Wagons. Peterson's sales rooms are located at 1211 South Main street in Santa Ana. The Covered Wagon is the latest word in trailers and is fully equipped for Mrs. Adams to make her home one of luxury for the next 10 days.

Parade Scheduled Ten days of activity have been mapped out for the convention. Tomorrow will be featured by a trailer parade in the morning. Colorful bands, drum corps and floats will add to the attractiveness of the event, it is reported. In the evening members of the convention will be entertained with a Mardi Gras street dance.

OBSERVE POPPY DAY TOMORROW

Santa Anans are prepared, along with every other city in the United States, to observe Poppy day, tomorrow, when millions of bright red poppies will be worn in America's annual tribute to the World war dead.

Women of the Santa Ana American Legion auxiliary and the auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be on the streets early with baskets of the memorial flower. Proceeds of the sale will be used in the relief programs conducted by both organizations for the aid of families of needy veterans, widows and orphans of veterans.

Sale of the poppies by the Legion auxiliary will be under direction of Mrs. Florence Robinson, general chairman of the Poppy day committee. She will be assisted by 40 women and girls. A similar group of women will distribute the "Buddy Poppies" of the Veterans for Foreign Wars.

"The little red poppy worn above our hearts tomorrow is the truest symbol of our remembrance for those who gave their lives in the nation's service during the World war," Mrs. Robinson said. "It is their flower. It grew on the fields where they died and it was the only floral tribute on the bare graves where they were buried. We of the auxiliary are hoping that everyone in Santa Ana will understand the poppy's significance and wear one with pride tomorrow."

CABINET OF BRITAIN IS REORGANIZED

LONDON, May 28.—(UP)—Stanley Baldwin resigned as prime minister today. Neville Chamberlain succeeded him, and the British cabinet underwent an extensive reorganization.

Baldwin, the country squire who has guided Britain through a critical period, retired to the house of lords as an earl and was also created a knight of the garter, an extraordinary honor. His wife was made a dame grand cross of the British empire.

Refuses Earldom J. Ramsay MacDonald, the veteran Laborite, who retired as lord president of the council, refused an earldom.

Premier Chamberlain presented his new cabinet to the king at Buckingham palace this afternoon.

Viscount Halifax, who was lord privy seal, succeeded MacDonald as lord president of the council.

Capt. Anthony Eden was re-appointed foreign minister.

Sir Samuel Hoare moved from first lord of the admiralty to home secretary.

COAST STRIKE PARLEY SLATED

BULLETIN

DEARBORN, Mich., May 28.—(UP)—Harry Bennett, head of the Ford Motor company's service department, today denied reports from the west coast that "important officials" of the company were en route to Richmond, Calif., to attempt settlement of the strike there.

RICHMOND, Calif., May 28.—(UP)—Important officials of the Ford Motor company are flying here from Detroit in an attempt to negotiate a settlement of the strike that has closed the local Ford assembly plant since Wednesday, Frank Slaby, strike leader, said today.

Slaby, president of the local unit of the United Automobile Workers of America, said that he was informed of the new development in a telephone conversation with Homer Martin, international head of the U. A. W. A.

Slaby reported that he expected to confer with the Ford officials from Detroit within 24 hours and that the results of the conference would be made known at a mass meeting "probably late tomorrow afternoon or tomorrow night."

The strikers demand recognition of their union, a wage scale of $8 for a six-hour day and various other demands. The Ford company has offered a settlement of various local, minor disputes.

Union demands will be presented to the Ford officials and the results will be made known at the mass meeting, he reported.

Should terms offered by Ford be unsatisfactory, he said, strike leaders will close the Ford assembly plant at Wilmington, Calif.

Meantime, the Automotive Employees Association of Richmond, a group not associated with the strikers, planned a mass meeting tonight to consider affiliating with the American Federation of Labor.

CHAMBERLAIN PRIME MINISTER

Left, Stanley Baldwin, who resigned as Britain's prime minister, today in favor of his colleague, Neville Chamberlain, right, chancellor of the exchequer. The pipe smoking Baldwin let it be known soon after the death of King George V early in 1936 that he would resign after the coronation of the new king.

FIRST LADY IN OCCULT DENIAL

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declared she does not believe in astrology and other forms of occultism, in a letter to E. M. Nealley, Santa Ana Junior college psychology instructor, it was revealed today. She denied seeking advice of any fortune teller twice in the past year, as stated in a recent newspaper article.

Nealley Sends Inquiry When Instructor Nealley read an article making Mrs. Roosevelt and other prominent Washington women appear to be sponsoring certain forms of occultism, he immediately inquired of the First Lady whether this were true.

In his letter to Mrs. Roosevelt, Instructor Nealley said in reference to the newspaper article: "My purpose in writing is to ask, if I may, whether this article correctly represents your attitude in this matter? It may be possible that your interest is merely that of entertainment, but the article seems to give the impression that you are taking it seriously. My students are asking me this question."

Story Is Denied In her reply, signed "Eleanor Roosevelt," she stated: "I have, certainly not called in a fortune teller twice in the past

ONE KILLED, FIVE HURT ON SPEEDWAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 28.—(UP)—A spectator was killed and five other persons injured today when a race car struck a pleasure car on Indianapolis' motor speedway. The victim was identified as a George Warford.

Those injured were Overton Phillips, Los Angeles, driver of the race car; Jimmy Lowden, Indianapolis, his riding mechanic; Vern Ornduff, Philadelphia, a driver; Otto Rhode, Detroit, chief engineer for the Champion Spark plug company, and Tony Caccia, brother of the former race driver, Joe Caccia.

PLAN ACTION ON TAX VIOLATORS

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(UP)—President Roosevelt said today he would press for action at this session of congress against what he called immoral and unethical avoidance and evasion of federal income taxes in the higher brackets.

The action—Mr. Roosevelt said it would come fairly soon—involves millions of dollars, according to evidence put before the president by U. S. treasury officials.

Mr. Roosevelt used strong language at his press conference to criticize individuals who, he said, are immorally and unethically fiddling loopholes in the government revenue laws through which they escape income taxes.

The action Mr. Roosevelt said he intended to take probably will come in a special message to congress.

The president will make the request after he and Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. complete a study of individual cases being compiled by the treasury department after a field study by Undersecretary Roswell S. McGill.

Asked if the action would result in prosecutions, Mr. Roosevelt said that question must be decided by government lawyers on a case-by-case basis.

Auto Deaths in State Increase

CHICAGO, May 28.—(UP)—The National Safety council today reported 2730 automobile accident fatalities last month, an increase of nine per cent from April, last year, but four per cent below the March, 1937, total.

Deaths for first four months this year totaled 11,360, contrasted to 9419 in 1936.

California, with 944, had more deaths in the first four months this year than any other state. Pennsylvania had 908, New York, 824, and Illinois, 820.

Nevada reported a drop of 27 per cent, Washington 21, Arizona 20, Wyoming 18. Decreases were indicated in incomplete reports from New Mexico and Montana.

Candy, Cake Denied Quins On Birthday

CALLANDER, Ont., May 28.—(UP)—The Dionne quintuplets celebrated their third birthday today under the watchful eyes of nurses who said "No" whenever they reached for a piece of cake.

The National Broadcasting company arranged a "nursery broadcast" for Marie, Emilie, Cecile, Annette and Yvonne from 6:30 to 7 p. m. EDT.

Dr. Allen Roy Dafeo, the country physician, who arrived at the farm home of Oliva Dionne on May 28, 1934, to take part in a medical miracle, issued the "no sweets" order. He said candy and cake weren't good for little girls—not even on birthdays.

As a special treat, the quints were permitted to indulge their love for fancy bows and laces, bright socks and new shoes. Their dolls were dressed up, too, in bracelets, necklaces and bright-colored coats.

Mama and Papa Dionne were expected to visit the nursery with their other children. Oliva Jr., who was born last July, probably will be left at home because the quints weren't very lady-like during the last visit. They gave him a "going over," Dr. Dafeo reluctantly admitted that the girls were "a little rough" at times.

The quints won't be permitted to kiss their mother or father or their brothers.

"It isn't very healthy with children of this age," said Dr. Dafeo. "As part of their early training, we are teaching them to shake hands."

There weren't so many birthday gifts as there were a year ago. Dr. Dafeo said the quints were getting "a little old," and that most of the presents were for their "babies"—the dozens of dolls that occupy almost every corner of the nursery. The quints received picture books, paints and artists' tools.

100 LOSE LIVES AS DYKE BREAKS

EL ORO, Mexico, May 28.—(UP)—Soldiers, policemen and volunteers worked at urgent speed today to strengthen dykes and prevent millions of tons of muddy earth from obliterating the mine village of Talapahuja.

The little school house of the village already was filled with bodies of men, women and children caught when one dyke burst yesterday and sent a landslide crashing down to bury some 300 houses.

Telephonic advices from the village said that more than 40 bodies had been recovered. Sixty persons were missing and feared dead.

Gen. Gilardo Magana, governor of Michoacan state, hurried to the village to direct rescue work.

Two of the three remaining dykes that held back cyanide and water soaked earth from the village were reported weakening, one seriously. Rain which fell for the fourth straight day made the situation a desperate one.

Talapahuja is a village of 10,000, site of the famous "Dos Estrellas" gold and silver mine, one of the country's richest. For several years, as the mine was worked, earth had accumulated in gigantic heaps, looming over the adobe-stone-walled homes of the miners and their families. The earth had been processed with cyanide.

Wednesday engineers saw that there was grave danger to the four dykes that held back the earth. They gave the alarm and most of the villagers sought refuge in the hills.

Among those who emerged into the streets in their night clothes were Norman Thomas, the American Socialist leader who is visiting Spain; Mrs. Thomas and Stephen O. Fuqua, United States military attaché. They watched the tri-motor planes sweep low over the city before dropping their bombs.

The top floor of the French bank building was burned out. The smell of burning timber and fumes of explosives pervaded the streets, which were filled with curious people after the bombing ceased, and were still crowded at dawn.

DEPUTIES CONTINUE NIGHT CLUB RAIDS

HOLLYWOOD, May 28.—(UP)—Raiding deputy sheriffs continued their forays into ultra swanky filmland night spots early today.

Led by Deputy Sheriff George Contreras, a squad moved quietly into the midst of a group of fashionably gowned and tuxedo-clad men and women stars at the exclusive Club Esquire on Sunset boulevard.

"Please finish your drinks and leave quietly," said Contreras to the screen notables, and they left.

Allen Smiley, operator of the club, was arrested on suspicion of violation of the alcohol and beverage control act and operating without a license. A large stock of expensive liquors was confiscated.

A recent similar raid today had resulted in sentence of six months in jail or a $500 fine for Dominic Ferrero, proprietor of a fashionable cocktail on North Vine street in Hollywood. Dominic pleaded guilty to adulterating and mislabeling liquor.

LEGISLATORS URGE ACTION BY U. S. WEBB

Accusations by Sen. Culbert L. Olson that bribery was involved in the handling of the Welsh tideland oil bill in the assembly resulted in a legislative demand today that Attorney General U. S. Webb and district attorneys investigate the reports and "bring to justice" any legislator or other person "who may appear to have committed such an offense," according to a United Press dispatch to the Register from Sacramento.

Claims $10,000 Offer Olson's statements in the senate that he understood one assemblyman had told another "money could be received for a favorable vote on the Welsh bill" and that "monopolistic interests" had offered him $5,000 or $10,000 if he would "go along with them" and not introduce his own bill, which conflicted with the Welsh measure, led to the request for an investigation.

Both houses passed the bill introduced by Assemblyman Ralph L. Welsh, Los Angeles, despite the fact the Olson tideland oil bill already had been approved and signed by the governor. Both referred to it.

BOMBS DAMAGE CONSULS HOME

VALENCIA, May 28.—(UP)—The apartments of Milton Wells, United States consul, were damaged today during a terrific air raid on the temporary loyalist capital.

Many were killed and wounded. A British ship in the harbor, the Poinzon, was damaged. None of the crew was injured. The Paraguayan legation was wrecked.

An unofficial check showed 42 persons killed ashore, 67 gravely injured, 45 others less seriously injured, and at least 30 buildings wrecked.

Three bombs fell within 10 yards of Wells' apartment and another apartment occupied by United States embassy and consular employees, shattering the windows.

Two other apartment houses were blown to the ground by the explosion, killing or wounding 49 sleeping occupants. It was the first of approximately 190 explosive and incendiary bombs dropped on the sleeping city by six rebel planes which flew over the harbor and city.

Among those who emerged into the streets in their night clothes were Norman Thomas, the American Socialist leader who is visiting Spain; Mrs. Thomas and Stephen O. Fuqua, United States military attaché. They watched the tri-motor planes sweep low over the city before dropping their bombs.

The top floor of the French bank building was burned out. The smell of burning timber and fumes of explosives pervaded the streets, which were filled with curious people after the bombing ceased, and were still crowded at dawn.

ple employed, including those on all projects.

It was expected, however, that if a reduction is ordered for the music project in California the Orange county project will be slashed by, probably 25 per cent.

New Quota 89,000

This reduction, it was said, would be in line with the proposed reduction of the entire quota for WPA in California. The present quota permits employment of approximately 113,000 on all projects in the state. It was indicated that the new quota will be approximately 89,000 people.

Mulholland said today that while the reduced quota, if ordered, would not affect the construction division of WPA at this time it probably would prevent the return to WPA projects of workers who have returned to private employment in the agricultural and citrus industries.

BEACH TRAILER CONVENTION OPENS

On Sunday church services will be attended in the forenoon and concerts will be given at the beach grand stand in the afternoon and evening. Memorial day will be given over to sports, speeches and concerts, with a Townsman club rally and picnic at seven o'clock in the evening at Sea Breeze village.

To Name Queen

Crowning of the "Queen of the Trailers" will be held on Tuesday, June 1. Any single girl arriving in a trailer is eligible for the honor. It was stated by William Gallienne, director of the pageant, and an elaborate coronation ceremony will be conferred upon the winner. A merchants' exposition and outing show will also be held.

Saturday night, June 5, will be the final street dance and celebration. On Sunday, the last day of the fiesta, the program will include kayak races, paddle-board races, swimming, band concerts, fishing on the pier and on the deep-sea barges, fly casting at the municipal pool, pistol and rifle shooting, tennis, volleyball, badminton, ping pong, basketball, baseball, horseback riding, golf, and the theater.

As Coal Strikers Struck Up a Tune 300 Feet Down

Beating out "Ach, du Lieber Augustine," with their German "swing band," as pictured above, pitching horseshoes, playing cards and singing, 457 coal miners deep in the Superior Coal Company's diggings at Wilsonville, Ill., defied union and owner orders alike in their strike against mechanization and for the sharing of jobs. The strikers had formed the Progressive Miners of America union, were bitterly opposed to the John Lewis mine union, which ordered them out, and had applied for affiliation with the A. F. of L.

TRIO TO FACE TRIAL JUNE 22

Trial of three alleged kidnapers and highwaymen, James Rhodes, Kenneth Cairnes and William McInnes, was set for June 22 today when they pleaded not guilty to a trio of felonies filed against them, including highway robbery, grand theft and kidnapping.

Their plea was entered in answer to arraignment today before Superior Judge James L. Allen. The prisoners are accused of kidnaping R. L. Talley after robbing him of $2.80 and stealing his car, while he was taking them from Santa Ana to Costa Mesa.

UNION LEADERS IN CONFERENCE

DETROIT, May 28.—(UP)—Leaders of the United States Automobile Workers' union, twice repulsed in efforts to organize 140,000 Ford Motor company employees, met today for "strategic discussions" while federal and state authorities investigated clashes between union agents and Ford workers.

"The demonstration on Wednesday against Ford workmen on Ford property was staged by newspapers which, for the last six months, have demanded the production of a 'Ford strike story,' and by the U. A. W., which required some dramatic occurrence to cover up its conspicuous failure to influence Ford employees," the company said in a statement issued through its advertising agency.

"The raiders were accompanied by government men from Washington whose utmost efforts of several months have failed to involve the Ford Motor company in irregularities affecting labor or otherwise. An attempt was made to attack the peaceable body of Ford workmen, and was repelled."

Homer Martin, president of the union and chairman of the Ford organizing committee, which is conducting the membership campaign, said the "attack upon union representatives by henchmen of the Ford company is a public admission that Ford workers want their own union and that Ford's one last hope of preventing the workers from building their union is the use of brute force through paid thugs and mobsters."

SIDNAM RITES TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Winbigger Mortuary chapel for Elmer E. Sidnam, 74, who died yesterday at Whittier. The Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church will officiate. Private entombment will follow at Fairhaven cemetery. Later the body will be removed for burial in Lakewood cemetery, Minneapolis, Minn.

Mr. Sidnam, a retired citrus rancher, had lived in Santa Ana for the past 10 years, making his home at 519 North Parton street. In addition to his widow, Mrs. Emma P. Sidnam, he is survived by a brother William O. Sidnam, Santa Ana; four nephews, Claude, Harry, Vernon and Howard Sidnam, and one niece, Mrs. W. W. Hyde, all of Santa Ana and a granddaughter, Betty Ann Stowe of New York.

Special Services To Be Held By Free Methodists

ORANGE, May 28.—Sunday promises to be another day of inspiration, according to the announcement of James B. Abbott, pastor of the Free Methodist church, Lemon street and Almond avenue, when two visiting clergymen will occupy the pulpit. At 11 a. m. Rev. I. W. Mann, Baptist holiness preacher, formerly of Eureka, Kansas, will bring a Memorial Day message. The pastor and his mother, Mrs. W. H. Cull of Highland, will bring a special number in song.

At 7:30 p. m. Rev. Howard H. Wagner, missionary to Japan, will give one of his illustrated lectures. Rev. Wagner has spent some 19 years in Japan in school and evangelistic work. He will present stereoscopic pictures giving high lights of the manners and customs of the Japanese and tell of their spiritual needs, and will deal with the political situation and the attitude of the Japanese toward our nation in particular. The missionary also will show the method of using and teaching Christian songs to the Japanese.

"I have been invited out on a number of occasions in the past year when the hostess has had some one in after dinner and everybody was told things, some of which were true and some of which were not. I think these things are largely looked at as a form of mild entertainment and I do not quite see why there should be any excitement about it."

PSYCHOLOGIST DIES

ABERDEEN, Scotland, May 28.—(UP)—Prof. Alfred Adler, world famous Vienna psychologist, collapsed in the street today and died in an ambulance. Dr. Adler, who reputedly coined the expression "inferiority complex," had not complained of being ill, his secretary said.

In China, the folding fan is considered the last word in fans because of the convenience in carrying them.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., May 28.—(UP)—Squads of police, aggregating 50 men armed with tear gas bombs, backed union members and sympathizers off Harbor boulevard today, where they were stopping motorists and pedestrians to pay tribute to William Gregg, 38, longshoreman, shot dead in a brawl last night by Patrolman William Redding.

Flowers on Death Spot

The demonstrators were gradually herded into the short block off Fifth street between Harbor boulevard and Beacon street, where flower-layers lay on the spot where Gregg died and around which were grouped bareheaded longshoremen in a guard of honor.

The block filled with demonstrators as another large gathering came together some distance away in the Wilmington bowl. At that meeting place longshoremen had been summoned to voice their protest against the slaying of Gregg and to demand the arrest and trial of Officer Redding.

Assistant Chief George Allen said that a preliminary inquiry indicated Redding had shot in full duty and that his action was justifiable.

Trouble Feared

Fearing possible trouble both on Fifth street and at the Wilmington Bowl, Allen at the request of Capt. William H. Bachman, of the San Pedro division, rushed a squad of 20 officers from the Metropolitan division to the port, where they formed part of the detail which cleared Harbor boulevard.

Police reported that union sympathizers were stopping all who passed along Harbor boulevard opposite the Fifth street intersection and demanding that pedestrians and motorists alike remove their hats in token of tribute to the dead longshoreman.

Bus Traffic Suspended

For one hour this morning all local bus traffic was suspended, which was declared to be another gesture of sympathy with the longshoremen's demand that Redding be arrested for the Gregg killing.

Nearly all the docks along the waterfront were deserted by cargo handlers as longshoremen obeyed the call of their leaders to attend the bowl mass meeting. Roy L. Donnelly, president of the Longshoremen's Association, said he called the meeting to protest against what he termed "police brutality."

Earl Stanhope became president of the board of education and Dr. Edward Burgin minister of transport.

Sir Thomas Inskip was reappointed minister of co-ordination and defense.

Lord Swinton was reappointed air secretary.

Earl De La Warr became lord privy seal, succeeding Viscount Halifax.

GUNS USED IN STEEL CLASHES

CLEVELAND, May 28.—(UP)—

Guns were used in two clashes today on picket lines in the steel strike, while the C. I. O. union forces obtained support of some additional workers in their campaign to force three companies to sign contracts.

At Warren, O., Alvin Morton, who said he had been beaten by pickets at a Republic Steel corporation plant, returned with a pistol and, according to the police, fired into a group at the picket line. One shot struck John Baugh, a bystander, in the ankle. Both Morton and Baugh said they were not employees of the Republic corporation.

Guards at Youngstown Sheet and Tube company's Birr hill plant in Youngstown fired several shots while rescuing two employees who had been seized by pickets outside the plant. No one was injured.

James Dewey, U. S. labor department mediator, came to Cleveland from Youngstown. Republic's headquarters are in Cleveland and it was believed he probably intended to sound out officials on the possibility of beginning conciliation conferences. A company spokesman said no arrangements for such conversations had been made and that ranking executives had not yet returned from the New York meeting at which Chairman Tom Girdler of Republic was elected president of the Iron and Steel institute.

Joining the 60,000 to 70,000 already idle in a three-day strike, 900 employees of two Republic Steel corporation subsidiaries in Beaver Falls, Pa., and Cumberland, Md., walked out.

Clement; father of Mrs. Maxine McKague, Santa Ana, brother of Mrs. Bertha Bowers and Miss Corinne Clement of Santa Ana and Mrs. Grace Combs Los Angeles. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from Smith and Tuthill's chapel.

In measuring time on earth, we have several natural units. One is the time required by the earth to turn on its axis, or the day. Another is the time the earth takes to travel around the sun, or the year, and a third is the time between successive appearances of the moon in the same phase, or the month.

GERMANY WILL SERVE AS "AID" UNTIL JULY 1

Besides adopting the new emergency slaughterhouse ordinance, the county supervisors, in special session late yesterday, apparently reached an amicable compromise with the county juvenile committee, with respect to change in management at the juvenile home.

Fred Germany, recently installed by the juvenile committee as superintendent of the juvenile home, was approved by the supervisors yesterday as assistant superintendent, at the same salary as the superintendent.

Issues Hang Fire

It was understood that this arrangement would hold until Miss Boroff completes her term of appointment, which ends July 1.

Supervisor John Mitchell, board chairman for the juvenile home, and certain other supervisors, previously had expressed disapproval of the changes in both management and procedure at the home, as announced by the juvenile committee, the supervisors now have been consulted.

Whether the supervisors now have approved the plan to install vocational and agricultural work at the juvenile home, as well as the appointment of Germany, was not made known at the meeting.

"Eye-Witness" There

The slaughterhouse ordinance, which requires permits for such establishments, as in the case of hog ranches, and contains similar provisions zoning slaughterhouses 1000 feet away from highways and residential areas, was adopted with Joe Betschard, slaughterhouse owner, looking on.

Betschard's proposal to move his slaughterhouse from the Talbert district to a location near West First street and Harbor boulevard, near Santa Ana, brought a protest that resulted in the present ordinance.

Halts Questioning

Mrs. Roy Corry, of Santa Ana, who led a delegation protesting the Betschard slaughterhouse, also attended the meeting yesterday. Betschard, at one point during the meeting, attempted to cross-examine her regarding the controversy, but was informed that their disagreement did not concern the board.

The board yesterday granted a 30-day leave of absence from the state to Justice D. T. Hayden, of Tustin justice court, the leave to start June 10. Judge Hayden and family expect to visit Cedar City, Utah, then with a friend, County Assessor James Barnhart, of Twin Falls, Idaho, and after some fishing along the Snake river, a trip along the Oregon coast en route home.

TEACHERS ENTERTAINED

SAN CLEMENTE, May 28.—The members of the teaching and maintenance staff of the elementary school were entertained with a dinner at the Wayside Inn on Tuesday evening. Those present were Miss Edith Coveney, Miss Pauline Neddermeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Divel, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Strang and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Oathout.

BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION REPORTS GREAT GAIN IN LOCAL BUSINESS DURING LAST MONTH

Business in Santa Ana is on the upgrade, according to records of the Business Men's Association of this city.

Phil Brown, secretary-manager of the Association, said that May books of his organization were closed yesterday. A check revealed that during the month that organization handled the greatest volume of business in its history. The books revealed that business handled was 35 per cent greater than was handled during May, 1936.

Staff Addition

"This business," Brown said, "represents reports on credit ratings requested by Santa Ana merchants and is indicative of increased business for the retailers."

Brown also announced that Paul B. Roberts, formerly in the credit department of the Excelsior Creamery company has been added to the staff of the Business Men's Association as field representative.

Increased services demands made upon the association's reporting department, due to the continued increase of membership and business has made it necessary for the organization to increase its quarters, equipment and personnel, Brown said today.

New Equipment

Recently the association took over a portion of the space formerly occupied by the Orange County Builders Exchange and vacated when that organization remodeled its quarters. The addition of this space now gives the Business Men's Association approximately 2000 square feet of floor space.

The additional space was added to the reporting department and made possible the installation of additional telephone equipment and an increase of the personnel in that department.

The increase of equipment and personnel now gives the association seven trunk telephone lines, and three unlisted telephones. At the same time new filing equipment was added giving the organization a battery of 11 certified fireproof safe files for the protection of records relating to 125,000 individuals living in Santa Ana and Southern Orange county. The increase in personnel brings the total number of employees up to 13 with seven of them working in the reporting department gathering and compiling data for use of members.

U. S. NAVY SHIPS IN S. F. HARBOR

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—(UP)—Forty thousand officers and men of the United States navy arrived in San Francisco harbor this afternoon when the battle fleet steamed in from mid-Pacific waters after completion of war games.

Heading the great fleet was Admiral A. J. Heppner, commander-in-chief, with Admiral C. C. Bloch, commanding the battle force.

The fleet will remain here several days with visiting hours scheduled between 1 and 4 p. m. daily.

Accidents claimed 111,000 lives in the United States during 1936. In addition to the deaths, about 400,000 persons were permanently disabled and 10,300,000 temporarily disabled.

Heading the party of 11 Russian aviators who shared in the latest conquest of the North Pole was Dr. Otto J. Schmidt, above, picturesque pioneer of many Soviet projects in the Arctic regions. Schmidt's plans called for four of his men to remain on an ice floe near the pole for a year, preparatory to setting up a permanent airbase as a takeoff site for a projected Moscow-San Francisco airline.

M. C. Residents Leave For East

MIDWAY CITY, May 28.—A local group including Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rumbold and Mrs. Rumbold's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Skinner, left Wednesday for a month's eastern motor trip. The party goes first to Louisiana where they will visit their son and brother, Loyal Skinner and family, then on to North Carolina to visit other relatives.

Robert Rumbold is staying at the Rumbold home in the absence of his parents, while Mrs. Skinner's sister, Mrs. Fitz of Redondo Beach, is at the Skinner home.

If potatoes, as tubers, are exposed to frost, their small sugar content will increase, though otherwise there may be damage.

INQUESTS TO BE HELD IN FATAL ROAD MISHAPS

Inquest for Joe Sanford Jr., 30, Orange high school senior, killed in an El Modena grade automobile crash Wednesday night, when his T-model Ford car, occupied by himself and four companions, sped down grade, struck a guard rail and was dashed to pieces in a ravine 100 feet below, will be held this afternoon at Shannon's chapel, Orange. Coroner Earl Abbey will be in charge.

Ralph Carnes, 19, classmate of Sanford, still is in critical condition at St. Joseph hospital today. He may not live. Three others in the car escaped with minor injuries.

Gets Testimony

In the second Orange county traffic accident reported yesterday, Walter S. Clement, 51, 408 Garfield, Santa Ana, truck driver on a road job at Olinda, was killed when two heavy trucks collided head-on at Rose drive and Carbon canyon road. John L. Power, 34, Orange, driver of the second truck, who suffered minor injuries, said he was going around a curve with his truck on the wrong side of the highway and his brakes failed to hold, according to information given Highway Patrol Officer Horace Inge. Inquest is pending at Smith and Tuthill funeral chapel where Clement's body was taken.

Clement, native of Garden Grove, was the husband of a former desk sergeant at the highway patrol office, Mrs. Jessie M. Clement; a daughter, Mrs. Maxine McKague, Santa Ana; sisters, Mrs. Bertha Bowers and Miss Corinne Clement, Santa Ana, and Mrs. Grace Combs, Los Angeles, also survive.

Has Premonition

Funeral services will be held from Smith and Tuthill's tomorrow at 2 p. m.

Frank Cleveland, 7131-2 East Fourth, Santa Ana, told officers Clement said he had a premonition of his death about 10 or 15 minutes before it occurred.

"This is my last trip," Clement was quoted as saying. "We're liable to get killed on this job if we stay with it." Power and Cleveland worked on the road repair job with Clement.

ATTEND CONVENTION

WESTMINSTER, May 28.—Mrs. Mae Finley, now president of the Westminster Parent-Teacher Association, is representing the local organization throughout the entire annual P.-T. A. convention now in session at Pasadena.

Other local officers and members are going distant days, aording a fine representation for the society.

Saturdays 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Claremont Plans 50th Anniversary Artists' Course

Next season's Claremont colleges artist course of six events at Bridges auditorium, Claremont, will be in commemoration of Pomona college's 50th anniversary.

On October 18, preceding the 50th anniversary day, the young violinist, Yehudi Menuhin, will be presented. Thereafter, in November, the Danish tenor, Laurits Melchior, of the Metropolitan Opera company, will appear. Jose Iturbi, Spanish pianist, in January; Shan-Kar Hindu ballet, February; Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, March, and Helen Jeyson, Metropolitan Opera company soprano, April.

"Reservations for the season already have been made by many music lovers," said Robert J. Baird, committee chairman on arrangements. "Many Orange county residents attended last season's artist course events."

Consumption of silver by the arts and industries in the United States and Canada during 1936 totaled 26,500,000 ounces, an increase of 3,000,000 ounces or nearly 15 per cent over the 1935 figure.

WHERE BASQUES BATTLE TO SAVE BILBAO

Near its last stand as insurgent troops battered at the final iron ring of defenses and rebel planes rained bombs daily, Bilbao and its environs are mapped in detail. Shown in the harbor from which refugee ships frantically removed women and children before rebels carried out their threat to "make Bilbao a cemetery." Shown also are old town and suburbs where daily battles rage.

ROWELL NAMED PRESIDENT OF UNDERWRITERS

Marked by the presence of officials of the Los Angeles Life Underwriters association, election and installation of officers of the Orange County Life Underwriters association was held last night at the annual dinner meeting at the Green Cat cafe.

New officers of the Orange county association are: Lloyd G. Rowell, president; W. B. Moore, Jr., vice president; Orlyn Robertson, secretary-treasurer, and George Fairles, A. O. Hatfield, Paul W. Neff, Chester Del George, Grant L. Kyle and Guy Gilbert, advisory board members. Installation was conducted by Phineas Prouty, president of the Los Angeles Life Underwriters association, and a member of the million dollar round-table club, who also was the principal speaker of the evening.

Many compliments were paid retiring officers, especially George Fairles, president, and Rolla Hays Jr., secretary-treasurer, for "fine work during the last two years." It was pointed out that the association membership has increased from 7 to 22 since 1935 and plans were made last night for an extensive membership campaign and a definite advertising program in behalf of association members.

In addition to the principal address of the evening in which Prouty pointed out the advantages of membership in the association and suggested certain procedure for life underwriters to follow in better serving the public, talks were made by the incoming president and vice-president, and by Joe Charlesville, secretary of the Los Angeles association, Rolla Hays, Sr., Ralph Irwin, of Fullerton, and Gene Hays of Los Angeles. A report on the observance of Life Insurance Week was made by Neff, chairman of the committee.

Police News

John F. Vidosh, 35, truckdriver, of 718 East Pine street, was taken last night to the county jail on a drunk driving charge. A medical report asserted he had been moderately drunk.

C. E. Stewart, print shop owner, of 701 Kilson drive, yesterday reported the loss of his car from Fourth and French streets. Police later recovered the car.

C. M. Bright, 417 E. West Pine street, reported boys had destroyed fresh plaster in his house at Washington and Towner streets. Bright said culprits had left initials in the plaster and caused other damage.

TITLE SUIT FILED

The Lomita Land and Water company today had a suit on file in superior court against Alvin P. McIntyre, to quiet title to lands in southwestern Orange county.

GIRL, LOVER CONVICTED ON MURDER COUNT

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 28.—(UP)—Gladys MacKnight, 17-year-old high school girl and her former sweetheart, Donald Wightman, 19, were under sentence today to prison for the hatchet murder of her mother.

A jury saved them from the electric chair by returning a verdict of second degree murder which carries a maximum sentence of 30 years and a minimum of one year. It deliberated only three hours.

The former principals in puppy love, were unrepentant as attendants led them out of the courtroom. Wightman, who testified that he had confessed the crime to police "to prove his love" for Gladys, shouted at her:

"You have made a murderer out of me!"

The boy, less than four hours before, after Prosecutor Daniel T. O'Regan had branded both "brutal killers" and pleaded with the jury "not to set them free to kill again," had asked permission to wish Gladys "good luck."

The tomboyish Gladys accepted the verdict with more restraint. The only evidence of emotion was a single tear that trickled down her cheek.

Edgar MacKnight, Gladys' father, received the verdict stoically. Wightman's parents, who have attended each session of the 10-day trial, were unable to restrain their emotions. The mother became hysterical and collapsed.

The jurors said, after their dismissal, that if the defendants had been older, "we would have given them the chair."

Escalators capable of handling 8000 persons an hour have been installed in the interior building of the U. S. federal government, the first government building to be equipped with escalators.

Woman Pays $25 Fine for Speed Trip In City

Maya Rand of La Jolla was fined $25 by City Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday after pleading guilty to a charge she drove her car 65 miles per hour in the 45-mile zone at Santa Ana boulevard and Flower street, May 1. She was arrested by Officer William Nielsen.

Others fined for speeding, yesterday, included Elmer Jackson, Glendale, $6; Murray Weaver, Ontario, $8, and Matsuo Yoshida, San Diego, $8. Arnold Sine, Costa Mesa, was fined $4 for cutting in; Raymond Allen, Route 2, Orange, was fined $4 for two boulevard stop violations. Allen Marks, Orange, paid $1 for using glaring lights.

City police yesterday ticketed nine illegal parkers; four speeders, a boulevard stop jumper and a motorist who had no operator's license.

SUDDEN DEATH DEFIES AUTOISTS

"UNLUCKY 13" DENOTES RISE OF FATALITIES

Orange county's traffic death record was keeping pace today with records of California in general, a checkup by Capt. H. C. Meehan, head of the Orange county highway patrol. A conference with Ray Ingers, director of the state motor vehicle department shows 964 persons lost their lives in California during the first four months of 1937.

In 1936, 24 persons had died in Orange county traffic up to May 28. The bloody record for 1937, same date, shows 37 have died in traffic accidents, increase of 13. In May 1936, four persons were killed in Orange county traffic; last year, two were killed in May, and the record for May, 1937, to date, is 10 dead in traffic.

High Speed Blamed

"Of fatal accidents in California during the first four months of 1937 in which approximate speed was reported, it was revealed that every one of those in which more than one person was killed, high speed was involved," Captain Meehan reported.

In the first four months of 1936, Meehan said, 886 persons were killed in collisions, while the same period this year shows an increase of 8.8 per cent.

Accidents and their concomitants, injuries kept pace with deaths, 8972 accidents in 1937 accounting for 11,946 reported injuries, as against 3058 accidents and 10564 injuries last year.

Drive On Faulty Lights Nets 738 Drivers In Month

In April, 178 motorists were arrested for use of faulty lights in California and 11,133 others were given non-arrest warning cards, according to Capt. H. C. Meehan, head of the Orange county California highway patrol, today, after a checkup with E. Raymond Cato, state head of the patrol.

During the month, 4916 cars were tested by the patrol for faulty brakes; 507, or 10.32 per cent, were found to have faulty brakes. Of 1920 arrests for truck violations, 80 were for speeding and 213 for defective brakes.

Captain Meehan said 112 persons were given re-examinations after being reported physically or mentally unfit to drive. Of those previously called in, who were re-examined during April, 11 were found operating without necessary restrictions on licenses, and were issued properly restricted licenses. Four were unfit to drive; 28 licenses were suspended because their owners failed to appear for re-examination.

In April, 27 persons involved in accidents had physical disabilities, it was learned. "Stops" were placed in the files against seven of them.

GARNER GETS 10-GALLON HAT

Vice President John Nance Garner got fitted into a 10-gallon hat by Sen. Tom Connally in a ceremony during the annual Press vs. Congress baseball game at Quantico, Va. The hat was the gift of the National Press club of Washington, D. C.

Petty Theft Charge May Cost $1,525

Action of Mrs. Bella Allen, Laguna Beach landlady, in filing a petty theft charge against her ex-tenant, J. W. Crocker, last October, was a mistake that will cost her $1,525, if a judgment for that amount, awarded to Crocker by Superior Judge H. G. Ames late yesterday, is collected.

Crocker sued for $5025, charging malicious prosecution. The petty theft charge was filed against him in Laguna Beach justice court by Mrs. Allen, after he had moved out of a cottage he had rented from her. She did not appear in court to press the charge when it was called for trial, and it was dismissed.

Crocker then retaliated with his damage action. Attorney Leslie F. Kimmel, Laguna Beach, represented him, with Attorney Joseph Frenette, also of Laguna Beach, defending Mrs. Allen.

Boy Loses Rifle After Complaint

Carl Esau, Twentieth and Poinsettia, called police to report boys were shooting rifles on Santiago street. Detective Hunter Leach found two boys with a .22 caliber repeating rifle and one with a single-shot rifle. The latter was turned over to the boy's mother, and the repeater taken to police station to await call of the boy's father.

FILES DIVORCE PLEA

Mrs. Anna Harms today petitioned superior court for a divorce from George Harms, accountant, of Orange, whom she charged with cruelty. She asked custody of their son and $50 per month alimony, besides $100 for counsel fees and $15 costs. The couple married at Turlock, November 3, 1926, and separated April 7, this year.

VIEW GERMAN PICTURE

FULLERTON, May 28.—German classes of Fullerton district junior college, accompanied by their instructor, Miss Martha Ehlen, spent Wednesday evening in Los Angeles where they attended a German motion picture, "Mutter und Kind." In addition to the feature, there were a number of other short reels of Germany.

Approximately 25 were in the party which preceded the evening's show with a dinner at a German restaurant.

Nashville, Tenn., had the highest infant mortality rate among 86 American cities during 1935 with 19.2 deaths per 1000 of population; Washington, D. C., came second with 18.7 deaths.

Two Youths Are Apprehended In Car Theft Cases

Everett Yates, Fullerton truck driver, yesterday escorted a youthful hitch-hiker from South Pasadena to the local police station after the boy led Yates to believe he had been involved in the theft of a car.

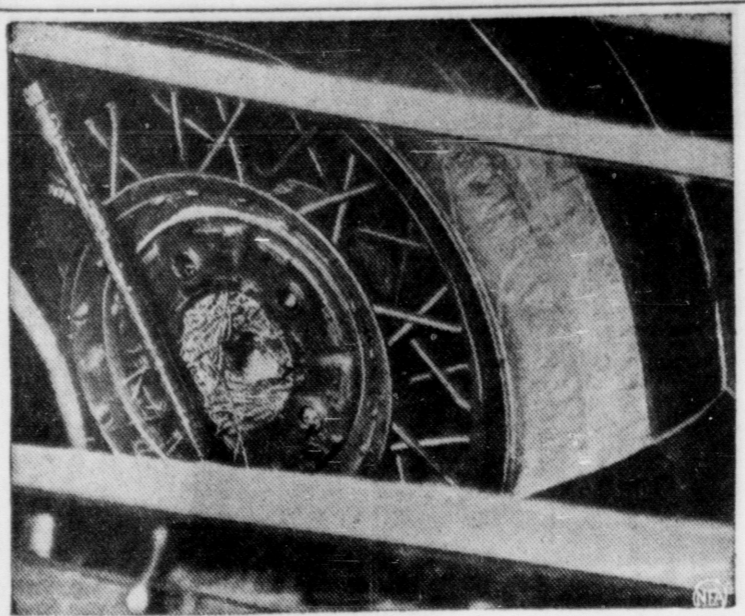

After a call from Long Beach police regarding a stolen car, the boy admitted here he was one of three boys wanted for questioning by Long Beach authorities. He was taken to the local detention home by Officers Paul Cozad and Ralph Pantuso.

A Fullerton boy was apprehended by Officer William Heard for going 55 miles an hour on North Main street. The youth, who had no operator's license or registration for the car, said he had "borrowed" it from a used car lot in Anaheim. A call by Assistant Chief Harry Flink to the Anaheim police revealed the car had been stolen. The boy was released to Anaheim police.

HUB OF WRENS' UNIVERSE

The hub-bub raised by a pair of wrens every time he approached his car led an Atlanta, Ga., salesman to the discovery that the little feathered homemakers had built the nest (below) in the hub of the spare wheel fastened on the running board. That the wrens hadn't been just practicing nest building was attested by the presence of four eggs.

EMPIRE STATE MORE LIBERAL IN LEGISLATING

By KIRTLAND I. KING

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ALBANY, N. Y., (UP)—The New York legislature is becoming more liberal annually, political leaders agreed after studying legislation passed by the 1937 session.

Leaders cited the fact that scores of laws, rejected each year in the past, finally had received approval of both houses. Labor, social, financial and anti-crime legislation was among the important bills sent to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman for signature.

Probably the most "about face" taken on issues by the legislature was its approval of a bill permitting women to serve as jurors. Women organizations had fought for the bills for years.

When the number of women legislators grew to three several years ago, however, hopes of proponents of women jurors brightened. Assemblywoman Doris I. Byrne, Democrat, and Jane Todd, Republican, joined with Sen. Rhoda Fox Graves, Republican, in pressing the movement.

Twice bills passed the assembly, only to be shelved in senate committees. This year Miss Todd again obtained passage of her bill and it was sent to the hostile upper house.

Senate leaders announced their opposition and rejected the bill, because it made jury service mandatory for women. Later another measure making it permissive was approved and returned to the assembly.

The women legislators were not quite satisfied with the permissive clause, but accepted it as a step nearer their goal.

Financial legislation included approval of the state's $400,000,000 budget for the fiscal year 1937-38. It was the highest in New York's history.

Labor legislation included enactment of a "Little Wagner" labor relations act and creation of a board of mediation to handle labor disputes.

Lehman suggested those laws as a step toward preventing industrial strikes. The legislature defeated an amendment which would outlaw "sit-down" strikes, however.

A state Social Security program also was written on the statute books, enabling New York to participate in the Federal plan. Another bill passed prohibits bus or railroad companies from preventing blind persons with "seeing eye" dogs from riding on their lines.

The assembly approved a bill granting expectant mothers a grant of $75 but it was turned down by the senate. Upper house leaders approved the principle but said it would cost "too much."

Aided by President Roosevelt, the governor gained some ground in his long fight for ratification of the Federal Child Labor Amendment. In a surprise move, the senate approved the amendment and sent it to the assembly where it was defeated again. In past years a ratifying resolution was killed in committee.

As a compromise, the assembly and senate both passed a bill banning sale of goods made with the aid of child labor.

FUEL ALCOHOL FOUND COSTLY

ATCHISON, Kas. (UP)—Attempts to find a new market for farm products by manufacturing wheat and corn into alcohol for industrial use have been disappointing, according to officials of the Chemical Foundation here.

Last October the foundation spent $400,000 in building a plant to carry on a search for means to transform wheat and corn into articles which could be used in industry.

Chemists were hired to conduct scientific experiments, and there was talk of transforming corn and wheat into alcohol to be used as a blend with gasoline for motor fuel. Now, after seven months of experimentation, chemists at the foundation have found that a bushel of corn will produce 2.4 gallons of alcohol and bushel of wheat 2.5 gallons. With both corn and wheat selling at high prices, however, the cost of producing the alcohol is prohibitive for its use as a motor fuel. Chemists said that gasoline, mixed with 10 per cent alcohol, makes a superior motor fuel, and they still hope to discover a cheap way of producing alcohol for fuel—against the future when the country's petroleum reserves may be depleted. It would take about 700,000,000 bushels of corn annually—25 per cent of the normal yield—to produce enough alcohol to supply 10 per cent of the motor fuel used in this country, the foundation's chemists reported.

Artichokes, sweet potatoes and other starch-bearing products also can be used to manufacture alcohol, chemists said, and experiments are now being carried out to determine which plants are most suitable for this purpose.

SAFETY EXPERT WORKS

CLEVELAND (UP)—Vernon L. Johnson, young engineering graduate of the University of Minnesota, has been appointed by Safety Director Eliot Ness as traffic engineer, in an effort to solve the accident death problem.

WHERE CLAN MET TO BID "JOHN D." FAREWELL

The Rockefeller clan, made rich by the amazing business genius of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., sorrowfully assembled at the late oil magnate's magnificent home (seen above in an air view), near Tarrytown, N. Y., to pay tribute to him at funeral services. The Pocantico Hills house had been Rockefeller's residence in the balmy months for many years.

Townsend Topics

By W. F. Rockwell

(Editor's Note: The comment and opinions of W. F. Rockwell, as appearing in this column are not necessarily those of The Register.)

The first day of the Big Fair and Bazaar at Townsend Hall promises to be a grand success. The beautiful booths filled with beautiful articles in charge of charming women is an altogether beautiful sight to behold.

The whole place is charged with a delightful atmosphere of friendship and good will, which is the effect on people who are thoroughly familiar with the Townsend plan.

Mentioning some of the Santa Ana booths, we noted that club is artistically decorated and has for sale fine home made cakes, pies, doughnuts, cookies, candies and everything good to eat. Club 2 is specializing on beautiful pillows—together with many other articles needed in every home.

Club 3 also has a large display of hand made articles that make you want them, they are so attractive. Club 5 has good things to eat, and to wear; fancy work, aprons, potted plants, door mats, etc. Club 6 booth is decorated in red, white and blue, very patriotic colors. Mrs. Phillips is taking charge of its meetings during the absence of President Mapes and vice president Fuller, both of whom are out of the state, for several weeks. They specialize on home made candy every day and home made cakes on Saturday. They are receiving donations on a beautiful oil painted picture painted and donated by Mrs. W. F. Rockwell.

A very pretty quilt will be awarded to its final owner Saturday night. Club 7 handles ice cream, cakes, pies, cookies, marmalade and fancy work. Club 11 has miscellaneous articles of fancy work including cut work pillow cases that took the prize at the County Fair in Pomona. Their club will meet tonight at 1512 W. 4th street for a few minutes, then adjourn to attend the bazaar.

Among the out of town clubs, Tustin No. 1 has quite a line of cut lemon trees, artificial flowers and lemon trees, artificial flowers and useful articles. Order flowers for Memorial Day. They also take orders by a special method of chiropractic treatments by Gatzlaffs.

Yorba Linda club 1 has hot doughnuts, coffee, tamale pie, and pop corn "while you wait" made on an electric popper. M. E. Martin is president of this club. C. L. Shannon of this club gave us a poem written by him entitled "Boost the Townsend Plan." Corona Del Mar club shows burnt wood pictures of Dr. Townsend made by "Buddy" Igoo, a 12 year old boy from Fontana, that are very good. Garden Grove club 1 is doing good business with their candy, ice cream, fancy work and "grab bag." Costa Mesa No. 1 attracts much interest in their "fish pond" besides their display of home made eatables, aprons, rugs, pictures, etc.

Costa Mesa No. 2 sells caps, pillows, aprons, dresses, shirts, towels and displays a pretty quilt that is hunting for its rightful owner. Newport-Balboa club specializes on smoked fish, besides a "department" store handling candy, groceries, dry goods, hardware, etc. The Los Alamitos club is the youngest club in Orange county, only 8 months old. They display combining jackets, sweaters, pillows, towels, rugs, and a quilt that wants a good owner. Anaheim club shows a Hudson Bay blanket made in England, the same kind used by Admiral Byrd on his polar expeditions. They also have a "Tree Leaf" game that "tells fortunes."

Fullerton club 1 sells lemonade and will have cooked foods Saturday. Mrs. Ota Everett is president of this club which will have a patriotic program Monday, May 31, 7:30 p. m. in the Ebel Club House with an hour long entertainment by school children. On June 14 this club will have a fine turkey dinner with everything included for feast. Joe Nation will be the speaker. The La Habra club of which Mr. Prout is president, sells a variety of foods and fancy work. Costa Mesa No. 3 club, Mrs. K. C. Burdick president, have chicken sandwiches, coffee, pies, cakes, doughnuts, beans and fancy work. Huntington Beach club, Mr. Hosmer president, have a line of foods, etc., also "Are White" shoe polish donated by that good Townsendite B. Mollica, who runs a shoe repair business.

Feller Graduates

Bob Feller took time enough off from the Cleveland Indians to run out to Van Meter, Iowa, strike out psychology, physics, English, and American history, and receive his high school diploma at graduation exercises. The phenomenal 18-year-old right-hander looks over the shoulder of O. E. Lester as his principal signs the most widely publicized high school diploma in memory.

Educator Sees Poorer Class Rising To Rule

CHICAGO (UP)—America within the next few generations may be ruled entirely by persons coming from what are now the underprivileged classes, according to a survey made by Dr. Newton Edwards, University of Chicago professor of education.

"Americans who have the highest occupational status and enjoy the richest cultural resources are failing to replace themselves from one generation to the other," he reported.

"In contrast," he said, "the underprivileged elements in American life supply the chief source of population increase."

A disproportionate percentage of the population, Dr. Edwards said, comes from among farmers on marginal and sub-marginal lands and from unskilled and semi-skilled laborers.

Falling behind, he said, were business and professional men and the skilled laboring classes.

"We can only speculate on the political and economical consequences of class differentials in reproduction," the educator said. "But it is certain that for some decades the future voters of this country will come in disproportionate numbers from the underprivileged elements in American life."

Schools, he said, would have to take up the burden of spreading culture where homes had failed.

"In some manner, the school must make good the deficit of home and community," he concluded. "The future holds the answer, and the answers may be in part determined by what takes place in American schools."

Native of Australia, a spider measuring only one-fourth of an inch is said to be the smallest of its class.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 2 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills. Used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MacMullen Gives Loud Speaker for Bowl Horse Show

Announcement was made today that the B. J. MacMullen company will donate the public address system to be used at the horse show, to be held June 5 under sponsorship of the Santa Ana unit, Assistance League of Southern California.

A private broadcasting system will be installed from the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl, where the afternoon and evening shows will be held, direct to the stables to be located north of the Bowl. This will prevent delay in the various events as it will permit the ringmaster's to advise riders and others at the stable of the progress of events.

A traveling microphone will be used in the arena for the announcement of judges' decisions and other information in connection with the show. The broadcasting system will be in charge of Charles Leveran.

It was also announced that special tankbark is being prepared for use in the arena during the show.

LABOR BOARD BILL PASSED BY ASSEMBLY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 28.—Outstanding developments in the assembly last night were passage of a labor mediation board bill and refusal of members to approve a measure continuing the 5 per cent limitation of expenditures act.

Assemblymen took the Critten-den labor relations board bill, passed by the senate, amended into it many features and sent it back to the upper house for concurrence.

Plan Defeated

The assembly defeated attempts to continue in effect the law requiring that political subdivisions limit their expenditure increases to an amount not exceeding five per cent of the previous year's expenses.

Because of refusal of members to agree on various amendments to remove the urgency clause making the bill effective immediately, proponents agreed that the measure was dead.

The present law—already declared unconstitutional by the third district court of appeals because of technical errors—becomes inoperative June 30. Under its terms, political subdivisions—including cities, counties and school districts—may not increase their expenditures more than five per cent above the amount spent the previous year without permission of the state board of equalization.

'Loan Shark' Bill Loses
Another important issue which appeared defeated as a result of inability of legislators to agree on provisions was the proposal to limit 'loan sharks' to a profit of 12 per cent per year, including interest and carrying charges.

The senate stopped 12 per cent bills recently, and last night refused to agree with assemblymen that 24 per cent was sufficient profit. The senate, according to a bill on the subject, wanted to allow small loan companies 36 per cent interest annually. The senate bill was amended in the assembly, where the rate was trimmed to 24 per cent. Senators declined to accept the amendment, and the bill went to "free conference" of a committee representing both houses.

Oil Bill Approved

Other action last night included assembly approval of Sen. Culbert Olson's bill reserving to the state all rights to oil and gas discovered on public lands; a measure to increase Sonoma county superior judges' salaries from $6,500 to $7,000; a proposed constitutional amendment to prevent diversion of the state gasoline tax to any purpose other than highway construction and maintenance.

REPORTS ON TRIP OF DUKE DENIED

PARIS, May 28.—(UP)—Herman L. Rogers, official spokesman for the Duke of Windsor, denied by telephone from the Chateau de Candé, Monts, today reports published abroad that the Duke and Mrs. Wallis Warfield might visit the United States on a "second honeymoon" after their expected sojourn in Austria.

PRAIRIE DOGS KEEP LOW
PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Six prairie dogs at the Philadelphia Zoo apparently believe in starting at the bottom. They were born in a burrow three feet underground a month ago and it was three weeks later before they came to the surface.

INTERESTING BEACH POINTS

Below is Mt. Patterson, a mound south of the upper bay on Newport Beach, which has been of interest to many who have traveled the road to the beaches. The mound is a natural one and is topped by a power pole. The elevation is marked zero, which Newport's city engineer, R. L. Patterson, says is an exaggeration as the mound is several feet above sea level. The salt works along the road are of interest. Salt is taken from sea water by evaporation. Below is a view of the superstructure of the plant.

Places to Go In Orange County

By MARAH ADAMS

The back bay, or upper bay area, of Newport bay is a potential Riviera and the next decade may find this beautiful stretch of land with a developed shore-line, inlets where smart craft ride at anchor and beautiful summer homes. This is the belief of many who have studied the upper reaches of the bay where a winding road reveals new beauties at each turn.

To reach the back bay area from Santa Ana take the road on South Main street, passing Eddie Martin's airport, then on the first road to the left beyond the airport. This will take you back of the Santa Ana country club over little traveled roads where you may judge for yourself what the development of the area would mean to Orange county.

It is no far stretch of the imagination to vision the upper bay development. Those who have seen Newport Beach and Balboa Beach grow into important summer resorts and business centers during the last two decades, can easily visualize the expected change in the area.

Shark Fishing
You will see yellow cliffs which slope gently or sometimes may make a precipitous descent to the green salt marshes edging the blue waters of the bay, elderberries which have grown into trees, and cranes feeding along the banks.

There are places along the upper bay where shark fishing always has been good and the sport is relished by many Orange county fishermen. As you leave the bay district to circle back to Santa Ana you will pass Mt. Patterson, a mound formed by erosion of the bay waters and which stands high above the filling made recently in harbor dredging operations. The "mountain" was named after R. L. Patterson, city engineer of Newport, and the sign which marks it was erected by a group of visiting engineers in observance of Patterson's activities in development of the bay region. Shells of all sorts may be picked up in this locality.

The bay extends nearly four miles inland toward Santa Ana, the upper area being about the same as that of the lower bay. At present a bill authorizing a survey of the bay is being considered by Congress. The survey will include soundings, width of channels and establishment of harbor lines and other work to lay plans for future development.

Future Park
At the right of Mt. Patterson is an area of about 40 acres which is owned by the county and which in time probably will be a beautiful park with picnic facilities, basins for swimming and places where boats may be moored.

The wildness of the country side is realized when you see a flock of buzzards wheeling high above a spot in the hills where you know some pitiful little animal is struggling for its life. One of the buzzards may swoop down and if you are quick and lucky you may secure a fine camera shot of wild life as the great bird wings past your car.

The Irvine salt works lie along the road and can't fail to interest the sightseer as salt water is pumped into the big plant to be evaporated and eventually in a huge drift below a black bridge like structure. Looking back as you emerge on the main highway you will find a beautiful view behind the fields of barley now cut and ready for harvesting.

$4500 IS AWARDED IN AUTO ACCIDENT
F. L. Sherman of Santa Ana won a $4500 damage judgment against Robert Clark, the Excelsior Creamery company and one of its drivers, Arthur Nichols, when a jury in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court late yesterday decided his $30,700 suit.

The judgment was based on injuries received by Sherman last September 9 when his car collided with a creamery truck at West First street and Harbor boulevard, near Santa Ana.

The creamery truck was driven by Clark, not an employee of the creamery company. Nichols, in charge of the truck, had temporarily turned it over to Clark, it was said.

Attorney L. W. Blodgett represented Sherman at the trial, Attorney Fred Forgy appearing for the creamery company. Members of the jury were Frank Bishop, John H. Johnson, Victoria Ball, W. A. Smith, Cordelia C. Phegley, Neil D. Winslow, Nellie A. Law, Mae Proud, May C. Carter, Jesse Stump, Jannie Ahlman and Fred Atkins.

TOASTMASTERS' GREET PROGRAM OF SATIRE, FUN

Laughter rewarded the program offered by Nolan Doss when the El Camino Toastmasters met at the A. M. E. church on West Second street last night. Doss called it the consolation contest, claiming his speakers should have been in the cup contest held last week.

First place was won by E. M. Sundquist, who read Longfellow's poem "Excelsior." Sundquist asserted the verse was a selling campaign, and pointed out the weaknesses of the youth who bore the banner.

Glenn Tidball, with "Criminals" as his subject, related an incident of combination in restraint of trade in the liquor traffic in which a temperance speech played an important part.

Introducing most of the imperfections against which Toastmasters are supposed to be on guard, W. R. Croddy carried on a dissertation concerning "Personal Testimonials."

The only serious talk of the evening was given by Glenn Woolley. He described a routine treatment of a phase of physics.

Dr. Merrill W. Hollingsworth and Robert Hockaday followed the trend of the majority of speakers in which the announced subject was satirically avoided.

As a departure from the usual order of criticism, Doss retained the sole right of criticism. Harry Noble and D. R. Armstrong are new members.

FLOOD BOARD BILL PASSED BY ASSEMBLY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 28.—(UP)—Activities of the state reclamation board would be made statewide and the membership increased from seven to 11 under provisions of a bill passed by the assembly early today.

As sent to the governor, the measure would change the name of the present agency to the California flood control board and extend its duties to include procuring of data, surveys and reports on flood waters and authorize activities for their control.

The lower house tabled a resolution memorializing congress to enact legislation for the regulation of radio programs dealing with crime. Other measures acted upon included:

Placing toll bridges under jurisdiction of the state railroad commission for rate regulation and valuation purposes. It was designed to effect toll reductions on the Carquinez bridge.

Authorized the San Francisco harbor commission to make expenditures on advertising for the solicitation of business.

Requires all highway carriers of passengers to put up a bond with the railroad commission and setting fees. Designed to bring "wildcat" carriers under jurisdiction of the commission.

It takes four to eight times as much soap to make a satisfactory cleansing lather when hard water is available, depending on the degree of hardness of the water.

Forest Fires In California Break Record

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (UP)—The worst forest fire season in history, attributable principally to careless smokers, incendiaries and debris-burners, devastated 946,850 acres in California during 1936, according to a compilation by Merritt B. Pratt, state forester.

Pratt's survey estimated financial loss from the conflagrations, some of which ate into the state's most beautiful redwood forests, was $3,173,705. During the year, 6,113 fires were reported, with a majority believed to have started from cigarette butts or matches thrown carelessly aside. Such thoughtlessness was responsible for 1,364 of the 3,805 fires which swept over lands directly under the protection of the state division of forestry, Pratt said.

More than half a million acres of brush and grasslands were blackened, while 111,292 acres of lumber timber, valued at $1,083,119, were razed. Losses from blazes which burned over 40,000 acres of young timber stands were estimated at $137,977.

Agricultural lands were damaged to the extent of $1,041,462. Watershed losses totaled $610,091, with range damage amounting to $301,026.

While nature was starting only 139 fires, arsonists touched off 724 blazes.

We, THE PEOPLE by JAY FRANKLIN

THE STRANGE CASE OF FLOYD ODLUM

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A few days ago, it was stated in this column that the Wall Street crowd is promoting Mr. Floyd Odlum, head of the great Atlas "holding-company" or "investment trust" (it is difficult to say which), for the job of Chairman of the Securities & Exchange Commission, in an effort to prevent Professor William O. Douglas from stepping into Jim Landis' shoes as regulator of the great national lottery.

Almost at once, it was discovered that there is something cock-eyed about this picture. I have been solemnly assured in writing by two exceptionally well-informed people—high-minded men, both of them, and personal friends of many years standing—that Mr. Odlum does not want the job, would refuse it if offered, has heard nothing of the use of his name by the Washington lobbyists, and, far from being in a position to run the SEC, is actually under investigation by that body.

They further assure me that Mr.

Odlum is not a representative "Wall Street man" but is an economic statesman of the order of the late Dwight Morrow, and that somebody has given me a bum steer.

Soundings in progressive political circles at Washington check with these statements and it is obvious that Mr. Odlum's name is being used without his knowledge or consent.

Further investigation confirms the fact that the Odlum "boom" for the SEC chairmanship is actually being pushed here in Washington by several important political, administrative and financial figures whose views count heavily at the White House. That this is being done at a time when Mr. Odlum, with the consent of the SEC, is absent on a short business trip to Europe makes it all the more peculiar. But there seems to be little doubt that his non-existent "candidacy" is being used as a stalking-horse by groups which favor or resent Professor William O. Douglas' claims to inherit Mr. Landis' chairmanship.

That the old "Wall Street crowd" is against Douglas is taken for granted but that they should urge the appointment of a man whose company is being investigated seems ridiculous. They may be dumb but they have no right to be that dumb. On the other hand, since the alleged Odlum "candidacy" might prejudice his position before the SEC, its promotion might well emanate from the very financial groups who resent his success as an "outsider" (if they are that clever, which is also doubtful) or from those promoting the Douglas candidacy.

Whatever the basic facts, there seems to be a pretty smelly sort of intrigue going on in Washington and/or Wall Street.

The real question is what type of man is needed to keep the brokers and investment bankers in order. Should Roosevelt "set a thief to catch a thief?" Should he appoint a well-informed and aggressive reformer? Or should he appoint a man who knows the stock exchange thoroughly and has proved his integrity over years of experience?

If the latter is true, I believe that President Roosevelt would be overlooking his best bet if he failed to consider Mr. Allan Lindley, former president of the New York Stock exchange. Mr. Lindley preceded the amiable Richard Whitney in that post during the crash and first part of the depression. Fearless, honest, conservative, Scotch and ruthlessly tough, he liquidated his own firm on general principles and did as much as any one man could do to weed the Street of its weak or shift members. If Lindley ran the SEC, you would get a commission that knew its margins and could regulate the brokers the way a traffic cop handles automobiles. Although Mr. Lindley is a Republican, such an appointment would have the further advantage of side-stepping the whole tangle of intrigue and skulduggery in which the New Deal's economic appointments are generally entangled.

Although I have no axe to grind, I feel that it is against sound public policy to appoint any active operator to the chairmanship of the SEC whether he be a Joe Kennedy or a Floyd Odlum. The choice should lie between a man like Professor Douglas, who has no chestnuts in the fire, and a past master of Stock Exchange procedure like Mr. Lindley, who has already shown his ability to regulate our perpetual "bank night" on Lower Manhattan.

WITH HOMER CANNFIELD

"The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here—"

GATHER ROUND, MY FRIENDS,

let's see what's on the cuffs for tonight.

What's what with the airlines practically exhausted with the joins of the Dionne sisters and the Golden Gate bridge dedication, and a big day planned for tomorrow, a busy plan reveals that

Friday has settled back into its usual evening stride.

Which isn't so hard to take.

For one thing, the Nestlé-Pastor fight at Wright Field will NOT be broadcast.

Why? The management wanted an ocean-to-ocean sponsor. No go; no broadcast.

So.

Inasmuch as the usual Hollywood Legion bouts were moved up earlier, the demand of the sound of leather and the smell of resin via radio will have to be content with a half-hour report on the international Golden Gloves tournament from the Chicago stadium.

This tournament is an annual affair wherein the top-ranking amateurs from the Chicago region mix with the pick of Europe's fighters.

Both Mutual and NBC will tell what's happening. (KHJ, KECA, 8)

The Friday Night, which usually interests a little, bids strongly for attention. There's nothing like a down-to-earth human yarn to stimulate audience results.

Their story, in dramatized form, will tell how Joseph Strauss, engineer of the Golden Gate bridge, built success on failure.

It seems that in his university days, Strauss tried in every conceivable way to make the football team. Because he was small, he was always turned down.

With the stung of failure burning deep in his soul, young Joe started the study of engineering, vowing that some day he would show the world that a little man could do big things.

This morning, forty-seven years later, he witnessed the dedication of the largest suspension bridge in the world—the bridge on which he couldn't be built. And he had built it.

There's plenty of drama for anyone's money in this. (KFI, 7:30)

guests—Loretta Young and Tyrone Power. (KNX, 8) ... Edwin

masked Detroit High school bands. (KHJ, 6:15) ... For light music and some of the best in the Pacific Northwest, Hal Kemp and Kay

Thompson. (KNX, 7:30) ... "Stop Miss Adams" is the first Night's original radio play. (KFI, 6:30) ... Colby M. Chester, president of General Foods, speaks on "The Public Comes First." (KNX, 6:45)

Edith Wilson, a featured

Negro singer for several years at the Cotton Club, joins Louis Armstrong's band. (KECA, 5) ... Having completed four, the Philadelphia Orchestra is again heard on the association of bands' program. (KNX, 6) ...

As usual on Saturdays, there's much ado during the daytime.

Headliners tomorrow are track and the opening of the Great Lakes Exposition.

Because it's near home, I guess we're more interested in the Pacific Coast Conference inter-collegiate track and field meet at the Los Angeles Memorial coliseum. Frank Bull will be on the grounds to report the finals of this two-day meet. (KHJ, 2:30 p. m.)

In the morning, NBC will have Clem McCarthy out at the Randall's Island stadium in New York to tell an event-by-event story of the sixty-first annual T. C. 4-A track and field championships. (KFI, 11)

Ted Husing will devote approximately four hours to the Davis cup tennis matches. (KNX, 10:15 a. m.)

For the formal opening of the Great Lakes Exposition at Cleveland, James Roosevelt will speak, representing his father, President Roosevelt. (KECA, 1 p. m.)

Later on, NBC will also have a half-hour of the opening ceremonies (KFI, 4) to be followed by Mutual with a like interval. (KHJ, 4:30)

The interesting subject, "Private Monopoly of Natural Resources or Freedom," will be up before the People's Lobby Luncheon in Washington, D. C. Along with these present, Mutual will listen as the following speakers and their subjects are presented:

Rep. John M. Coffee, "What Private Monopoly of Oil Costs."

Dr. Broadus Mitchell, economics department of John Hopkins University, "What Private Monopoly of Coal, Iron and Copper Costs."

Rep. Herbert S. Bielew, "Making Beneficiaries of District Government Pay for It."

Robert Marshall, of the bureau of Indian Affairs, "What Private Ownership of Forests Means."

(KHJ, 10 a. m.)

Programs are compiled from daily reports provided by stations. We assume no responsibility for last minute changes. (c) indicates chain program; (t) transcription. The stations are listed by quarter-hour in respective positions on dial.

FIELD MAN OF RED CROSS TO BE HERE JUNE 2

Harold Terwilliger, field representative for the American National Red Cross in first aid and life saving service, will visit Orange County Red Cross chapters next Wednesday to Saturday, inclusive.

Terwilliger's visit at this time is in the interest of first aid on the highway and also the water safety program of the Red Cross. Highway stations will be visited, and re-check examinations given to red cross life-saving examiners.

Schedule Listed
The re-check of examiners in the Santa Ana chapter will be given on Thursday and Friday evenings, beginning at 7 p. m. at Huntington Beach high school pool. Re-check examinations for examiners in Anaheim and northern Orange county chapters will be on Wednesday afternoon in the Fullerton high school pool.

Red Cross life saving examiners needing a re-check are asked to get in touch with the following chairmen of life saving service: Miss Margaret L. Glenn, Santa Ana high school, Richard Glover, Anaheim high school, and Arthur Nunn, Fullerton Union high school.

FIRST FISH A WHOPPER
SILVERTON, Ore. (UP)—Mrs. Eliza Hathaway, 86, had never fished in her life, but she tells a fish tale as unique as those told by veteran sportsmen. Hearing a thrashing in the creek near her home at Silvertown, she investigated and found a 15-inch trout impaled on a willow limb. She picked up the trout—her first and only catch.

General Hugh S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The wages and hours bill doesn't correspond exactly with its advance latter, said yesterday, that it does not apply to agriculture or to employers of fewer than twenty persons. The bill does not say that. It leaves it to a board to say that.

Indeed if anybody of less dexterity with obscure wording and obtrusive rhetoric than an Egyptologist can tell exactly what this bill does say, it is because he is a congenital clairvoyant.

Section 2a 16 says that the minimum wage shall be cents an hour except as a different minimum shall be fixed by the board under section 4. The latter section says that the board shall vary the minimum established by 2a 10 upward or downward "to prevent the depression of general wage levels below those consistent with the maintenance of a minimum standard of living . . . without unreasonably curtailing opportunities for employment."

What does that mean? This and a mess of other legalistic jargon mean that this act could have been written thus: "The board shall have authority to establish maximum hours and minimum wages for all employees or for any class or craft or special group of employees, except that it shall not establish any minimum wage higher than eighty cents an hour or $1200 a year, or any work week of less than . . . hours."

Why was the act written in such obscurity? To give the impression that congress has not passed the buck to the board to legislate but had really set up fixed standards, leaving the board only to say within which standard any given set of facts resides.

This is mostly bunk. The board has almost complete discretion to fix any wages and hours anywhere for any class at any time. Whenever it thinks that collective bargaining isn't doing the job, it can move in and set up an entire wage scale in any factory. That isn't fixing minima. That is outright wage fixing.

The bill has teeth. It makes it a crime to ship goods made in violation of the hours and wages it fixes, a crime not to grant the hours and wages it fixes, a crime to violate any order of the board. Any contract in violation of an order of the board is null and void, any act in violation can be enjoined, and any lower compensation than provided by the board can be recovered by the employees in civil suit.

The bill is being commented upon as very mild and not at all arbitrary. N. I. R. A. compares with it in ferocity about as Little Red Riding Hood with the Big Bad Wolf. It is an outright delegation of almost unlimited wage-and-hour-fixing power to an executive board of five with penalties so severe that violation is a sentence of economic death.

This column does not criticize that. It thinks, as it has repeatedly stated, (1) that such a law is necessary to keep degraded labor conditions in one area from degrading labor conditions generally and to prevent such downward spirals as ruined labor in the depression, (2) that American conditions are too varied to do that by legislative fiat or otherwise than by administrative action on the broadest possible discretion, and (3) that it can't be done at all without adequate power to discipline chiselers.

This bill does all that and don't let anybody tell you anything different. This column's only regret is that it couldn't do it frankly in barnyard language. Its only prayer is that the board will be neither such a corpse as the one that smothered N. I. R. A. nor such a Simon Legree as the Labor Relations Board. Either extreme would wreck the whole bright

Name Trade Urged For Village After 225 Years

PORT FORTUNE, Mass. (UP)—For 225 years this town has been known as Chatham.

Its original name, however, was "Port Fortune," bestowed by the French explorer, Samuel Champlain, in 1606. In 1712, the British substituted "Chatham" in honor of William Pitt, Earl of Chatham.

Now, artist-writer Harold Dunbar, wants town fathers to resume the original name. The reversion would be part of his proposed Cape Cod Island Republic to be established after United States. The Cape Cod secession of the Cape from the canal has severed the section from the mainland.

SOVIET TO FILM ATLAS
LENINGRAD (UP)—A Leningrad studio has been making a series of cinema pictures on the geography and economics of the Soviet Union. This will be the first step in the production of a large Soviet cinema atlas.

Power production in the United States during the year 1936 exceeded the 100,000,000 mark for the first time in history.

The law is of slight importance. Everything depends upon that board.

"THE VACANT CHAIR," NEW "SONG" IN CAPITAL AFTER BIG, BALD GEORGE LEAVES

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(UP)—The office of coordinator for industrial cooperation—a one man Phoenix which rose from the ashes of the Blue Eagle—vanished so far into the limbo of the forgotten today that nobody could remember what happened to it.

That includes President Roosevelt, who said he didn't know, and Stephen Early, his assistant secretary, who said he'd try to have somebody find out. He hasn't yet—and the clerks in the coordinator's luxurious Tower building suite, where the rent is $14,200 a year, are beginning to seek new jobs.

Had Intentions
It was in 1935 that big, bald, bluff George L. Berry, southern industrialist, union leader and ardent new dealer, conceived the idea of trying to continue industrial practices of the defunct N. R. A. on a voluntary basis. Major Berry said he believed maybe he could get big business and labor chieftains around a table and persuade them to invoke wage and hour rules satisfactory to all hands. President Roosevelt told

The council held its first meeting soon thereafter in the magnificent federal auditorium, but before it had been well started, it ended in a near fight. A furniture man from Chicago started the fracas with a remark which caused the major to call him a liar.

Thereafter industry did little cooperating with the cooperation coordinator. Berry called a second conference a couple of years later, but hardly anybody came. For all that, Berry did his best, making speeches, issuing statements and attempting constantly to bring labor and industry together.

He also took on another job during President Roosevelt's campaign for reelection, organizing "labor's non-partisan league," with himself as president. Berry and his organization supported Mr. Roosevelt.

That Vacant Chair
Then Sen. Nathan Bachman of Tennessee, died. After conferring with President Roosevelt, Gov. Gordon Browning of Tennessee appointed Berry to succeed him. The new senator moved his personal effects from the Tower building to Capitol Hill—leaving the coordinator for industrial cooperation coordinatorless.

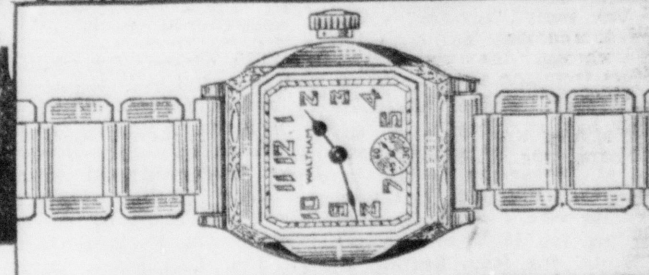

President Roosevelt has made no move to appoint another. The girl at the coordinator's switchboard still answers all calls with a voice that smiles, thus:

"Major Berry's office."

But he isn't there, the money runs out on June 1 and all the coordinator's clerks are looking for work somewhere. The press agent is taking his vacation, while there is yet time.

BY RICHARD McCANN

NEW YORK—There is something of a squabble going on among baseball men about what to do with Carl Hubbell's winning streak. Truth to tell, it has caused as much worry among these experts who dote on records as it has among the demoralized National league batsmen.

As you know, Hubbell, who is sometimes referred to as the New York Giants, has won more games in a row without defeat than any other pitcher of modern times. But the hitch is that he has carried his streak over from last year when he won his last 16 starts, while "Rube" Marquard won his 19 straight all in one season.

Now some of the experts—wont might call them the liberals—allow as how they think Hubbell should, without further ado, be duly dubbed the Winner-of-the-Most-Consecutive-National-league-Pitching-Victories. What if it has taken him two seasons, they reason, he's won the most games in a row, hasn't he?

But the more conservative experts—those who are called gentlemen of the old school—though most of them never went to school and some of them aren't gentlemen—contend that the record should be confined to most consecutive games won in a single season.

Ford Frick, the president of the National league, is of this opinion. Things got so bad in the debate over the matter that Frick was forced to issue an official statement the other day in which he said that he did not believe Hubbell was entitled to Marquard's record.

Frick's statement was longer than the one he issued after the Cardinal-Giants trip, which only goes to show how serious the Hubbell-balloos has gotten. Hubbell is a riot in himself.

SCHEDULE STOPPED HIM

Well, it would seem to us that Hubbell ought to be given credit in the record books in some way or other.

After all, the only thing that stopped him from winning more games in a row last year was the schedule wouldn't break up his record. But the schedule wasn't.

Certainly, it's not his fault that he wouldn't let him keep on pitching against the National league teams through October, November, December, January, February and March. You notice as soon as they let him get going again he took up right where he left off.

Marquard did the smart thing, however, and you've got to give him credit. He made sure the schedule wouldn't break up his record. He started winning on opening day and didn't stop until July 8.

The more you look back on Hubbell's string of victories the more you must marvel at the man. The pressure on him was fierce. Eight of the games were won by skinny one-run margins, meaning that he had to be going down all the way, and don't forget he knew that the Giants' pennant drive depended on him.

In only two games did he allow more than two runs. Each time he started, during this streak, he completed the game—until this season when he was given a pretty good going over in one affair. And "Dizzy" Dean has been his victim three times (twice by 2-1), while Mungo, Davis and Derringer, three of the National league's mightiest moundmen, have gone out to duel with him only to be sent to the showers, muttering in their beads.

JOHNSON, GROVE UNLUCKY
Truly, it is a pity that Hubbell did not have more time last year to go on with his amazing exhibition. But, then, his case is no more unfortunate than were the cases of Walter Johnson and Lefty Grove. They share with Joe Wood and "Schoolboy" Rowe the distinction of winning the most consecutive games in the American league—16—but both Walter and Moses deserved a longer string.

Certainly Johnson. The Big Train came to the end of the road when he was rushed into the game as a relief pitcher one day. There were men on bases and Walter permitted one of them to score with what proved to be the winning run before he retired the side.

He was charged with the loss. You see, the rules then did not hold the retiring pitcher responsible for the men he put on the bases. Today the man Johnson relieved would be debited with the defeat and Walter could have continued to stride along the victory trail.

The pity of it was that he won at least a half dozen games more in a row right after that. Grove's streak was ended at 16 by the St. Louis Browns with the assistance of one Jim Moore, a reserve outfielder on the Philadelphia team who had replaced Al Simmons. Moore dropped an easy fly ball to allow the only run of the game to score and Lefty was the loser, 1-0.

To make things all the more bitter, the man who blanked Grove's teammates that day was Dick Coffman who never pitched a major league shutout before or since.

Grove was most put out by the defeat. He tore up several uniforms, broke a half dozen bats and smashed every drinking glass and soft drink bottle in the clubhouse. Suppose he figured he'd break something if he couldn't break the record.

But, the point is, Grove won his next start and the seven others immediately following. So if a rival pitcher hadn't suddenly been wooed by Lady Luck and a substitute outfielder hadn't accidentally stumbled into the ball park, Grove might very well have a record of 25 straight victories today.

So don't shower all your sympathy on Hubbell.

CARL HUBBELL BAGS 24TH AS RELIEF HURLER

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 28—Puzzling results of the second east-west interseasonal series, which ended yesterday, furnished plenty of food for thought in the major leagues today.

The big surprise was in the National league, where the eastern clubs who were buffeted from pillar to post by the invading western clubs in the first east-west games, made a triumphant western invasion. Only the fast stepping New York Yankees saved the eastern prestige in the American league, giving the east the edge in both interseasonal series.

King Carl Hubbell and Mel Ott, boasting a batting average of only .182, gave the New York Giants their sixth straight victory and a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati. Hubbell, who came in as a relief pitcher, and retired the six men who faced him, was credited with his 24th consecutive league victory (16 last year and eight this year). Ott's homer in the ninth decided the game.

The victory elevated the Giants within a game of first place as the league-leading Pirates were rained out in the third inning of their game with Brooklyn. Pittsburgh led, 2-0, at the time.

A ninth inning rally failed and the St. Louis Cardinals lost to the Boston Bees, 8-7. Gene Moore and Roy Johnson hit homers for the Bees and Don Gutteridge and Don Padgett hit two for the Cards. "Bucky" Walters held the Chicago Cubs to nine scattered hits and pitched the Phillies to a 11-2 victory. "Pinky" Whitney made four hits and Dolf Camilli hit a homer.

Detroit snapped the Yankees' six-game winning streak by winning 4-3. The Yankees had won 10 of 11 games since they were rained out.

The more you look back on Hubbell's string of victories the more you must marvel at the man. The pressure on him was fierce. Eight of the games were won by skinny one-run margins, meaning that he had to be going down all the way, and don't forget he knew that the Giants' pennant drive depended on him.

In only two games did he allow more than two runs. Each time he started, during this streak, he completed the game—until this season when he was given a pretty good going over in one affair. And "Dizzy" Dean has been his victim three times (twice by 2-1), while Mungo, Davis and Derringer, three of the National league's mightiest moundmen, have gone out to duel with him only to be sent to the showers, muttering in their beads.

Judge T. E. Price of Miami, Fla., had a brassie second on the 345-yard first hole of the Miami Biltmore course for what probably was the longest double eagle of the 1936-37 winter season.

The hips are a source of great power. They should lead the action of the turn back to the ball.

If the hands and arms lead the downswing the hips cannot catch up.

In the end there must be a movement of the hands across the body, but this must not take place too soon in the downswing.

If the hands and arms get ahead of the hip turn, all effect of body power is lost.

Solis Happy; He Whips Old Enemy, Then Becomes Daddy

Raoul Solis 'cup was filled to overflowing today.

Last night the Delia lightweight punched out a four-round victory over his arch enemy, cocky "Frenchy" Jure, at the Orange County Athletic club.

And today, at 6 a. m., Mrs. Solis presented her husband-fighter with a bouncing baby daughter that weighed in at 5 pounds and four ounces. The child was born at the Orange county hospital, and like her mother is doing well.

By far the best fight on a card was between "Baby Face" Shaw and burly Eddie Moore, the latter getting the nod after winning all the way. Moore nearly knocked Shaw's jaw off in the third and had him staggering around, all but out, in the last round.

Al Grayson, who challenged the winner of the Solis-Jure fracas, won over Ray Paddock. The edge was slight. He dropped Paddock for a short count in the fourth.

Nobody could figure out why Referee Whitman stopped the bout between Newport's George Horner and Jim Martin, of Glendale. Horner was outclassed, but was still going strong in the second when Whitman raised Martin's hand.

Charlie Pressler decided Uley Davis, Whitsett of Glendale lost to Eddie Cafe.

The Solis' reside at 2309 South Main street.

Solis had hardly gotten home from his affair with Jure than Mrs. Solis notified him the stork was on the way.

The Jure fight was typical of past meetings between the pair. Jure tried to make Solis lose his temper—as he did last time, time he tangled—but Raoul wouldn't go haywire. He just kept sawing wood, making Jure miss with his SACRAMENTO, May 28.—Allocation of the state's "take" from pari-mutuel betting on horse races would continue under the system now in effect by terms of a bill given final passage in the assembly early today.

The revenue, amounting to approximately $2,000,000 annually, would be distributed as follows: To racing board for expenses of operation, $30,000; California State Fair, $125,000; Los Angeles county Fair, Pomona, $125,000; sixth agricultural district, $15,000; department of finance for auditing district fairs, $10,000; balance of fund, 5 per cent to citrus fruit funds, no fair to receive more than $65,000; 33 per cent to University of California.

Next Thursday's game between Irvine and Brea may go a long way in determining the first-place team in the Orange County Night Ball league this year.

These two clubs are setting a terrific pace, and showed their class again last night by bowling over two contenders. Behind Ray DeBusk's one-hit hurling, the champion Beanepeakers disposed of Tustin, 10-0. Rudy Montgomery held Yorba Linda to three bingles as Brea won at will, 8-0. The strong Holly Sugar company team shut out Fullerton, 11-0. San Juan Capistrano won from Olive.

Ray Hapes, the Mississippi football star, returned home just in time to watch his kid brother, Morrie, connect for a dusty homer with two on, and get two other hits. He was not Irvine's top hitter, at that. Horace Sears got four blows. The Beanepeakers knocked Winkler out of the box.

U. S. GOLFER NEAR AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP

SANDWICH, Eng., May 28.—Robert Sweeney, Jr., formerly of New York and now of London, reached the final round of the British Amateur golf championship today by defeating Wilfred Wehrle of Racine, Wis., 3 and 2, in the quarter-finals, and then trouncing Charles Stowe, former English national champion, 6 and 5 in the afternoon's round of four.

Lionel Mumf, veteran Irish linkman, won the other finalist's berth. He beat J. J. Pennink, present English national champion, 2 up, in the round of eight, and followed with a 4 and 3 triumph over Count Alric Bendern of England.

Bendern had moved into the semi-finals by beating Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., 1 up, 19 holes, while Stowe was advancing over Gordon Peters, English Walker cupper, 3 and 2, in the other quarter-final.

It took a punk kid like Louie (Neva) Novikoff to ruin the National Night Ball league. And ruin it he did.

Louie was head and shoulders above any pitcher in the circuit, that the teams with which he was affiliated invariably won the title hands down.

First it was Torrance. Then it was Huntington Beach. With Neva doing the pitching and most of the hitting when the going was tough, neither Torrance's Bluebirds nor the Others had very much difficulty in winning their pennants.

Joe Rodgers made a habit out of winning the pennants at Huntington Beach. He won, largely through the efforts of his pitching star. This became apparent last year when Neva jumped to the San Joaquin valley.

Huntington Beach didn't do so good after he left. It was something like the present race. The Others, with all their potential hitting power, are not much better than any other club. With Novikoff on the firing line, however, they would have had a championship assured.

Now while Santa Ana and Huntington Beach are battling for top honors in this nocturnal league circuit, the Mad Monk of Moscow is doing his stuff on the baseball diamond....

For Los Angeles at Ponce City. It took James S. Boldin a lot of time trying to convince Los Angeles that he had a potential diamond star in young Novikoff, who was a married man. They couldn't see him. Neither could San Diego.

Nor St. Louis scouts. Nor the Boston Red Sox.

"Yes," they all said, "He looks good, but he is too heavy and he's a sucker for a curve ball on the inside corner. And he can't throw."

It seems that they all missed their guess. Novikoff may be a sucker for an inside ball, shoulder high, but the pitcher who feeds him one is a bigger sucker.

And he will.

Are their faces red? Novikoff, is the prize rookie of the Angels' Ponce City crop. He hits well, is plenty fast and fields like a veteran. There is no danger that he'll return to the nocturnal pastime to help Huntington Beach with another championship.

Neva—or Novikoff, if you prefer his real Russian, Communist, Siberian, Bolshevik name—is a ball player with plenty of what it takes. He made up his mind to succeed. And he will.

He spent last winter playing with Francis Lemon's Fullerton Firemen trying to pick up as many pointers as he could. He reported to Portland for spring training, but they couldn't see him as a potential star.

So he went to Wrigley Field.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT NESTELL'S CAREER

Rugged and good-looking, the 192-pound, 6-foot-1½-inch Nestell lives with his wife of a year and infant daughter.

Nestell is extremely modest, almost shy. He would rather draw pictures of friends than sit around and chin with members of his profession. He draws very well, shoots golf in the low 90s, and is a crack shot with a rifle. He also can do tricks with a rope which have led to pictures in a cowboy's outfit. He likes to be in the woods, hunting and fishing. He introduces something new to the bank-bus business—long bicycle rides in addition to road work.

During high school vacations he worked as a lumberjack in Oregon, and there is a tale of his bowling over the toughest bloke in camp with his bare fists when he was kidded a bit too much for liking dainty salads, which he prefers to juicy steaks. He's a small eater.

In his inaugural as a money-getter, Nestell took a six-round decision from Jack Darby. No one has gone the limit with him since Frankie Hammer, Levinsky and Ramage went out in the closing seconds of 10-round engagements. Hammer twice toppled Charley Coates. Peppy del Rio, the Mexican champion, who went 10 heats with Phil Brubaker, succumbed in the second. Nestell got off the floor to flatten "Butch" Rogers and Ramage.

Nestell has plenty to learn. He must develop his left hand and acquire the habit of holding his hands higher. There is sufficient power in his left hook to hurt anybody and he is a sharpshooter with his right. He upercuts with this weapon as well as shooting it as straight as a string. He is at the right-hand-crazy stage, but is vicious and knows what to do when the other fellow is in trouble.

He has all the physical equipment, is tremendously strong, retains his punch, and does not tire. One trained observer who has watched Nestell closely says that he has Tunney's ideas. He means that he hadn't lost like the best—he has gone the limit with him, but he has a good job than to stand mugs. But I wouldn't discount Nestell's chances on that account. The great majority of fighters would choose some other avocation if they could do anything about it.

Tonight's Games
San Bernardino at Santa Ana; Orange at Huntington Beach; Colton at Westminster.

Their pennant possibilities no longer an idle dream, Santa Ana's Stars try to lasso the Ponies of San Bernardino in the Municipal Bowl tonight for their fifth National league win in six starts.

Spurred to surprising heights by Manager "Doc" Smith, the Smithies share the top rung with Huntington Beach. Since San Bernardino is just a half-step behind, the contest has more to recommend it than the usual early season set-to. The Stars looked the part of a good, same ball club at Anaheim Tuesday; they'll have to be that to finish in front of the Ponies.

The greatest pitcher ever developed in the old American league is doubling in brass as San Bernardino's manager. Venn Botts, master of the whip-ball delivery, is the active head of the inland outfit now. Santa Ana fans will remember him for the spirited Star-Colton play-offs of 1930 and 1931. Botts is still one of the best in the business; yet there is a chance he'll elect to pitch his protegee, left-handed Bob Fowler, who handcuffed Westminster with two hits and 19 strikeouts Tuesday.

San Bernardino has a well-balanced team that won the American league last season but lost to Huntington Beach in the playoffs. Richardson is the catcher, with Bill Sweet (formerly of Olive) at first base, Doc Strain on second, Ray Shadduck third, Watson at short, and Gilhouse, Kelley and Ed Daley in the outfield.

Tonight's game between Anaheim and Riverside has been called off. Riverside officials said last night's freak rain left their field ankle deep in mud.

HAWAII BLOCKS RABIES DANGER

HONOLULU (UP) — Hawaii, which boasts that it has no snakes, is free of another sometimes dangerous scourge—rabies.

A disease, which has been noted in many sections of the United States and in almost every other nation, never has been found in the "paradise of the Pacific."

Furthermore, it never will be, health experts predict. The most stringent animal quarantine laws enforced under U. S. jurisdiction are administered in Hawaii. No dog or cat brought in from outside points may be taken home by its owner until it has been thoroughly examined by territorial veterinarians and kept in quarantine 320 days.

"This is the only place in the United States where such quarantine laws are in effect," explained Dr. E. A. Gallagher, territorial veterinarian in charge of the station. "While the restrictions may appear severe, we believe them to be entirely reasonable."

Vigilant Watch Maintained
"By vigilant enforcement of the quarantine laws diseased dogs and cats are refused admittance to the territory. No complaints are made by dog owners after the fairness and purposes of the quarantine are explained."

"Owners are permitted to visit the kennels at any time and their own veterinarians may care for the pets if they wish," Dr. Gallagher said.

Not all incoming pets and warm-blooded animals pass through the modernized territorial station. So many dogs were being brought in by army personnel that over-worked territorial authorities persuaded the army veterinary service to assume quarantine responsibility for such animals. Navy pets still go through the territorial station, since their number has proved smaller.

Inspection Is Rigid
Capt. E. E. Hodgson, in charge of the army station, reported that from June 27, 1936, to Jan. 15, 1937, a total of 68 pets owned by army officers were handled through his offices. Other warm-blooded animals are subject to a four-day territorial quarantine

JAYSEE SPORT DANCE TO BE GALA AFFAIR

Upwards of 125 couples are expected tonight at the Santa Ana Junior college spring sport dance at the Rio Hondo Country club, near Downey, Los Gauchos, men's service club at the college, is sponsoring the affair.

Tommy Moreland's 11-piece "swing" orchestra will furnish music for dancing. Added entertainment will be provided by a girl's vocal trio and songs by the "phantom troubador". The mystery crooner was introduced at last week's assembly and will be unmasked during the evening.

Elaborate Plans
Tonight's dance is one of the outstanding social events of the second semester at the college. According to Charles McIntyre, Gaucho president, tonight's affair will be more elaborate than those of past years.

Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock and will continue until midnight. Tickets have been on sale for the past week from Gaucho members. Committees for the dance include Bob Browning and Jerry Roland, orchestra; Phil Dowds and Bob Reif, police; and Bob Forcey, bids. A special invitation has been extended to alumni of the college to attend tonight's dance.

plus a 21-day army inspection period.

During the last five years more highly bred dogs have been brought to the territory than ever before. Extension of American Kennel Club shows to Hawaii has resulted in growing demand for better canine types. A close watch must be maintained over such animals, which are more susceptible to disease than mongrels, due to their breeding.

Feeding is a problem, since the quarantined animals vary widely in size and age. A charge of 25 cents a day is made to cover all food and medical attention. Total cost of bringing a dog or cat into Honolulu, exclusive of steamer fare, therefore is $30.

TWO HEARTS IN WALTZ COSTUME

Properly dashing was the hussar's uniform worn by Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., and appropriately romantic was the century-old mode of Miss Ethel du Pont's bouffant gown as they waltzed together at a recent Viennese Ball in Boston, Mass. The day after the couple appeared in the colorful costumes seen above, formal invitations were issued to their wedding on June 30.

Snorting, puffing steeds of iron which start and stop and groan and moan as they shift their cars about the main line and sidings of the Santa Fe railroad near Fruit street, or the sleek, streamlined "bullets" which shoot through here like they never mean to stop anywhere, or the slower passenger trains which might be shuffling off toward Buffalo, or San Juan Capistrano—they're all the same to Ruben M. Griego.

Maybe He Knew Casey, the Santa Fe depot and told the station agent "someone locked the switch open." His arrest followed. A felony complaint, issued against him, was dismissed and misdemeanor filed, when it was believed he would plead guilty. But he pleaded not guilty. Defense Atty. W. Maxwell Burke entered formal objection to Judge Morrison's postponement of the trial until June 2 at 9:30 a. m., after all-day hearing today, but was over-ruled. The judge said his calendar was crowded until that time. Deputy District Atty. Clarence Sprague is handling prosecution.

"Why, I couldn't have done it!" Griego said at time of his arrest, according to Wolford. "Every time a train goes by, tears come to my eyes. I love them. The finest job I ever had was with the Santa Fe railroad in New Mexico."

Relates Saving Train
Griego, according to allegations, stopped at the switch, near his home, locked it open shortly before a train was due, then hurried to

CONGRATULATIONS! QUINS ARE THREE TODAY!

(Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

Here we are at the gayest birthday party of 1937, which marks the day when the Dionne quintuplets will begin "going on four." Marie, above, has lifted one candle from her cake.

(Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

Cecile, left above, is pleased to have lifted some icing on her thumb. But Emilie, center, seems to have achieved both, while Annette is emulating the rest and is trying the icing too!

(Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

Yvonne, above, is talking with her eyes, as is plain to be seen. If one should ask, she is finding the icing par excellence. "Many happy returns" is the wish they're all sending back to their many admirers.

Temperament Rears Its Ugly Head
As Budding Film Stars Go Upstage

"Fresh Little Darlings" Borrow A Page From
"Grand Dames"

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, May 28.—Temperament is supposed to be a form of emotional instability, or whimsy, or general cussedness, reserved for grand dames of the theater such as Mrs. Patrick Campbell; or for foreign movie actresses who feel professionally obligated to put on an act.

But temperament seems a little out of place among the fresh little darlings of the domestic screen. Especially when the major favorites of the movies—the people who have arrived without benefit of tantrums, the Crawford and Harlows, the Shearers and Bette Davises, the Lombards and Stanwycks—are such regular guys.

Don't Be Silly
Now take Jean Arthur. Nearly everybody admires her work and applauded her success after a couple of discouraging experiences in the flickers. And then what happens? Miss Arthur goes upstage. So much so, indeed, that her sound stages are closed to the press and visitors. Miss Arthur does not grant interviews during production.

From her seclusion, Miss Arthur has sent out word that when her current picture is finished she will grant two interviews. I do not know how Miss Arthur arrived at that arbitrary figure, but it would be all right with me if she granted only one-half of 1 per cent of one interview.

I shall always remember an observation made by an actress named Joan Crawford about a year ago. She had been ill. She was tired. And she was about to begin a long and trying scene. Somebody said there were a couple

Barbara Read

Andrea Leeds

Jean Arthur

Anna Sten

Anne Shirley

These actresses got to the top because they were good, but once there, most of them couldn't resist a flyer in temperament. Barbara Read got ideas after playing in "Three Smart Girls"; Andrea Leeds plunged in over her head and won a suspension; Jean Arthur barred her sound stage to visitors; Anne Shirley wasn't exactly temperamental, but she rated some sound advice: Anna Sten suffered because of her husband's interferences, and Frances Farmer is said to be getting "Exclusive."

more correspondents outside and would she mind awfully if they came in?

She said, "Don't be silly! When I get so I can't work in front of newspapermen I'm going to quit the business."

Fan Mail Dividends

Take Frances Farmer. She was a stock actress at Paramount when Samuel Goldwyn borrowed her for "Come and Get It."

Today, back at Paramount, she is getting top billing in a picture called "Exclusive." And her publicity department is tearing its hair trying to persuade her to co-operate in routine stunts and still-pictures.

When Toby Wing worked at Paramount she had no such opportunities as Miss Farmer has. Nor was she anything like the actress that Miss Farmer is. Yet Miss Wing posed in bathing suits, and with distinguished visitors, and looking at two-headed frogs in no time at all, and before she had appeared in more than 500 feet of film, she was getting more fan mail than anybody else at the studio. It was so embarrassing that the studio let her go.

Goldwyn Liked It

There's Andrea Leeds, another "Come and Get It" actress. Previously she had been an average, popular, good at a local university. Then she appeared in a school-talent 16 mm. film called "The Campus Queen."

Somebody showed the picture to Howard Hawks, who showed it to Goldwyn. Goldwyn signed her and she did very well as Edward Arnold's daughter in "Come and Get It."

Next she was named for the role of the comedy vamp in "The Woman's Touch." She went to Goldwyn and said she didn't like the part; didn't feel that she could give it her all, or something.

Goldwyn said he liked it all right, Miss Leeds said she had some dandy ideas about how it could be rewritten into a better role. Goldwyn said, "You're not telling ME how to cast this picture!" And he suspended her. Starts at Home?

Goldwyn also told off Anna Shirley. (She wasn't exactly temperamental, though.) He said,

39 WOMEN IN
CLASS HONORED

Thirty-nine women in two classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick conducted by the Santa Ana Chapter, American Red Cross, in the local adult education department, completed their work this week.

Certificates issued by the National Red Cross were presented to them by Mrs. Florence Holmes, chairman of the work for the Santa Ana Chapter, at the last meetings of the classes at Julia Lathrop High school.

Awards Certificates

Preceding the presentation, Mrs. Holmes spoke briefly of the value of the course, and the fact that these were the only classes taught in the county this spring.

The following women successfully completed the prescribed course and received certificates:

The Mesdames Frances H. Beeson, Marie Boyd, Mary E. Carlson, Louise Dearth, Ethel Flockton, Elizabeth Hill, A. F. Johnson, Elsie Kittleson, Arthur Meyer, Mildred Matthews, Frances Pollins, Ruby Secret, Esther Smith, Adeline V. Welch, Margaret Williams, Minnie E. Young, and Misses Minnie Hasty, Neoma Knox, Martha Carolyn Mueller, Ruth Mueller and Johanna Shervey, of Santa Ana.

Two Instructors

Mesdames Edna Meador, Esther Miller and Zoe Wright, of Anaheim; Mesdames Thomas Blackburn, Adeline Davis, Rosa Hampton, Della Hilliard, Oslie Green, Edna McDaniell, Emma Madden and Nellie Worden, and Misses Harriet Blackburn and Virginia Worden, of Orange; Misses Mary C. Reza and Donna Feemster, of Olive; Mrs. G. D. Griset, of Tustin; Mrs. Veda Thompson, of Costa Mesa; and Mrs. Floyd Kibler, of Norwalk.

The classes were taught by Miss Gertrude Schroeder, assistant superintendent of nurses at the county hospital, who also is a Red Cross nurse, and the Orange County representative on the Los Angeles committee of Red Cross nurses, was the instructor.

With Summer Ahead, Quins Plan To Doff Their Play Suits, And Turn Into Lovely Bathing Girls

By DR. ALLAN ROY DAFOE, O. B. E., M. D.
(Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

CALLANDER, Ont., May 28.—Five lovely little bathing girls will greet visitors to Quinland this summer.

For the bathing suit will largely displace the sun suit as the costume the well-dressed quintuplet will wear when the summer heat beats down. With their fondness for the wading pool, and the fact that washability is no longer the most necessary quality in the quins' garments, neat woolen bathing suits will be the usual order of the day in the outdoor play space where the children are seen by visitors. Waterproof silk raincoats with fetching little hoods have also been added to their wardrobe for showery weather.

One of the constables, who puts in his spare time with hoe and spade, is setting out rows of small pine trees which will screen the children from the crowds outside the nursery enclosure, and help to keep them unconscious of the fact that they are objects of attention.

Plans are also under way to painting which shows Jesus holding a tiny bird on His finger. Several reproductions of the painting hang in the nursery. The children, after their last summer's experience with birds, were quick to notice the bird in the picture and to point it out with joyful cries. It is quite plain that their religious attachment to the Child Jesus is growing in accordance with the training afforded by the devout nurses. Each morning they greet the religious pictures with a gay wave of the hand and a merry "Bon jour, petit Jesus."

In one picture of Jesus the Carpenter, they noted the hammer in his hand and recognized it as the same instrument they use in the instructive game of hammering pegs through a board. In another, noting His bare feet, they commented sympathetically, shaking their heads over the "pieds froids," evidently concerned for fear that feet less well shod than their own might be cold. No Pets Quite Yet

Though innumerable pets of every kind continue to be offered to the children it is unlikely that any dogs or regular pets will be allowed at the hospital this summer.

One of their favorite religious pictures in the nursery is "Vita Mundi" (Life of the World), a mer. In good time they will be, but the chance of their bringing some infection into the hospital is still too great to counterbalance the benefits just now.

It takes only a moment of watching the children on the playground to see how strong and rugged they are becoming. At a play session shortly before the third birthday, they were riding their kiddie cars steadily about the cement "track" that encircles it, when suddenly Emilie decided to "play horse" with her car.

Gripping it firmly by the handle bars, she made the front wheel "rear up," and bounced it down again on the pavement with a shock that caused its little bicycle bell to jangle and threatened to shatter the frail car. Glee-fully the others joined the new game until all five were bouncing the kiddie cars up and down, bells jangling, and front wheels hammering on the pavement. With shrill cries of glee they all played this delightful new "galloping horse" game until time to return to the nursery.

It remains true that French will be the first and normal language of the quins, and that most of the words and sentences they use up to their third birthday are in that language. But in a bilingual country, like Canada, you must

Speak Here

Miss Charlotte Niven, who retired recently after 15 years as general secretary of the World's Y. W. C. A., will be in Santa Ana Tuesday, June 1, and will be honored guest that afternoon at a tea in the home of Mrs. Charles F. Smith, 1816 Heliotrope drive. Sharing honors with Miss Niven will be Marcia Dunham, member of the national Y. W. board.

Fifty members and guests of Santa Ana Y. W. C. A. have been invited to attend the affair, which will begin at 2 o'clock. Miss Niven will give a short talk concerned with the part the Y. W. C. A. has played in affairs of world-wide significance.

The awakened interest of women and the enthusiasm of youth are described by Miss Niven as two factors which are proving of importance in the march toward world peace.

Miss Niven went to Italy in 1910 in order to get background for settlement work in New York City, but her plans changed when she became connected with the Y. W. C. A. of Florence. War work in France and later appointment as chief executive of the international work in which 50 countries participate, have kept Miss Niven in a world-wide setting.

The former world-secretary is said to be as "international" as any American woman, having held positions in the past 25 years in Italy, France, England and Switzerland. She now is with the national board of the Y. W. C. A. in New York. Since arriving home from Europe in the autumn of 1935, Miss Niven has been traveling extensively throughout the country.

Of her recent impressions of the people of her native America she states, "There is a thing that impresses me about America. That is the interest in international affairs. Americans cannot be said to be isolationists in their thinking whatever else they may be. They ask too many questions about foreign affairs and international cooperation. On the whole, I believe there is a real desire to have America take her full and rightful share in settling the world's very complicated economic problems."

Miss Niven's family home originally was in Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. She is a sister of Thornton N. Niven of St. Louis, general auditor of Missouri Pacific railroad, and of Mrs. Amos P. Wilder, whose husband was editor of the Wisconsin State Journal in Madison for many years. The author, Thornton Wilder, is a nephew of Miss Niven.

MISS NIVEN

Miss Charlotte Niven, internationally known Y. W. C. A. worker, who will be in Santa Ana Tuesday, June 1. She will give a short address during a tea at which she will be honored that afternoon in the home of Mrs. Charles F. Smith. Miss Niven was general secretary of the World's Y. W. C. A. for 15 years.

Engaged Pair Inspire
Luncheon, Shower
In Fresno

Miss Frances Dawson of this city, formerly of Fresno and her fiancé, Ralph F. Osterode of Santa Ana motored to Fresno recently for a party at which they were complimented in the home of Mrs. Osterode's sister, Miss Daphne Osterode.

Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock at a table set all in crystal, with a plaque of pansies and fern forming a centerpiece in crystal holders. Silver bells tied with white satin ribbons marked guests' places, while miniature bride and groom figures were set before Miss Dawson and Mr. Osterode.

Following luncheon, the bride-elect was showered with an array of lines. Guests were Messrs. and Mesdames Saxon Cole, Harold G. Strait, O. R. Osterode; the Misses Joyce Strait, Ruby Barton, Daphne Osterode, Naomi Washburn of Oakland; Messrs. George Weybright, Stephen Strait, Estel Shannon and the honored pair, with the hostess, Miss Osterode.

The marriage of Miss Dawson and Mr. Osterode will take place June 19 at Saint James Cathedral in Fresno. The bride-to-be is employed by Food Machinery corporation and Mr. Osterode is with Hayward Lumber company.

Newly-Married Couple
Honored At Dinner

Employees of Goodwill Industries complimented Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Brooks, newly-wedded couple, at a dinner Wednesday evening in the headquarters on West Fourth street. After dinner, George F. Angne presented the honored guests with a casserole and tray, a gift of the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks were married in Yuma on May 9 by the Rev. Randall Scott in the First Methodist parsonage. Mrs. Brooks formerly was Esther Lopez, assistant in the store department of the Goodwill Industries.

Torosa Rebekahs

Initiation ceremonies for four new members were conducted Wednesday evening at a meeting of Torosa Rebekah lodge in I.O.O.F. hall. Candidates were Mary Greenleaf, Maggie Little, Winifred Kotte and Amanda Poor.

Visitors introduced included Jesse Harlin, Hattie Harlin, past district officer, both of Compton; L. E. Diehl, Eagle, Idaho; Garnet White, Rochester, Minn.; Linnie White, La Verne, Ia.; Alice Duckett, Florence, Colo.

Following the meeting, the group adjourned to the banquet room, where cherry pie and coffee were served under direction of Mrs. Nannie Myers.

Mrs. Stephenson Gives
Ebbel Group

Mrs. T. E. Stephenson gave an interesting resume of books on the history of California and presented a list of books for summer reading at the final meeting of Ebbel Thursday Evening Literature section last night in the home of Mrs. E. D. White, 2115 North Broadway. Mrs. White was assisted by Mesdames Cassius Paul, Clifford Quissell, Earl Elson, Wendell Finley, C. H. Holmes, Robert Biles, Miss Gail Jordan and Miss Dorothy Porgy as hostesses.

Books mentioned by Mrs. Stephenson were the new history of England, "The Miracle of England" by Andre Maurois; Fairfax Downey's "Portrait of an Era," which is a biography of Charles Dana Gibson; Rudyard Kipling's autobiography written just before his last illness, "Something of Myself"; Steinbeck's "Mice and Men"; and the book-of-the-month, "Bread and Wine."

Tea table was decked with a centerpiece of flowers and slim bouquet tapers. Mrs. White and Miss Carolyn White poured tea, assisted by Mrs. Holmes.

Members expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Henry Williams, leader, for her work during the year. Mrs. Stephenson, Mrs. White and Mrs. Edith Cloyes, honorary members, were presented with corsage bouquets.

Present were Misses Helen Glancy, Alberta Greene, Carolyn White, Mesdames Oliver Lindemeyer, R. F. McKee and Crawford Nalle, guests; Mesdames Kenneth Ramsey, Stanley Reinhaus, Antone Segenstrom, Ferris Scott, Joe Hersher, J. L. Bascom, Melvin Bryte, Lynn Crawford, W. F. Party Plans Made As De Molay Mothers
Hold Meeting

Plans for a benefit dessert bridge party to be given by De Molay Mother's circle on June 11 in the home of Mrs. Fred Triplett, 106 East Chestnut street, were made last night at a dinner meeting of the circle in the home of Mrs. E. C. Mann, 527 Virginia street.

Covered dish dinner was served buffet style, after which Mrs. Mann, president, was presented with a salad bowl set from members. Keeno was played during the evening, with prizes going to Mesdames Louis McCowen, E. F. Gaebe, high; Glenn Cave, D. M. Terhune, second; Edna Fowler and Belle Bergsetter, low.

Present were Mesdames Sam Long, Edna Fowler, Fred Triplett, Glenn Cave, Roland Kloess, John Hall, Belle Bergsetter, Edward Gaebe, F. P. Rossell, Roy S. Horton, Bradley Smith, George Wheeler, Willard G. Pagenkopp, Louis McCowen, John Luxembourger, E. C. Mann and Mrs. James Elliott, Mrs. Clyde Cave and Mrs. D. M. Terhune, new members.

Magnolia Circle Has Luncheon Meeting

Mrs. Agnes Buckwalter opened her home at 1227 West Highland street to members of Magnolia Circle R. N. A. yesterday for a pleasant affair at which Mrs. Elizabeth Lavery was co-hostess. All participants contributed dishes to a delicious luncheon served early in the afternoon.

Guests included Mrs. Mary Hartley of Harvard, Nebr., houseguest of Mrs. Nettie Smith and Mrs. Lenore Fletcher, of Long Beach. Others present were Mesdames Nettie Smith, Dora Arnold, Etta Sweet, Laura Warren, Ethel Gross, Grace Gross, Mary Schlasman, Leona Farmer, Frederic Miller, Gertrude Birt, Rose Hall, Gladys Hulme, Jean Tibbetts, Ollie Jacobs, Anna Sward, V. Albrecht and the two hostesses.

The next meeting will be held late in June in the Modjeska canyon home of Mrs. Daisy Scott.

TO CONDUCT RITES
LAGUNA BEACH, May 28.—Impressive Memorial Day services will be conducted on Sunday at the Community Presbyterian church of Laguna Beach, under direction of the pastor, Rev. Raymond I. Brahmans. At 11 o'clock, forenoon, members of the congregation will be in their places in the church, as the American Legion, Post 222, Legion Auxiliary, and Woman's Relief Corps carry their colors into the church. Special music, commemorating the solemnity of the occasion, will be rendered; and Rev. Mr. Brahmans will deliver a special Memorial Day address, extolling and honoring the memory of America's soldiers, who, in many wars, laid down their lives, that freedom might live.

Gift Shower Comes As Feature Of Lowell Group's Party

Adding interest to a picnic dinner given last night by retiring and new members of Lowell P.-T. A. executive board and Lowell faculty, was a pre-nuptial courtesy extended to Miss Lenora Fernandez, who on June 20 will become the bride of Ralph Culp of Fullerton. The gifts, coming from the board members, were presented to the surprised honoree following the dinner.

The affair was held in Irvine park, where long picnic tables were centered with bouquets of blue and yellow blossoms. At each place were small May baskets filled with multi-colored flowers. Horseback riding and bicycling occupied the group during remaining evening hours.

Teachers present were Misses Mildred Mead, Bernice Minder, Ruth Stephenson, Bernice Boyd, Grace Bell, Lucie McDermott, Lenora Fernandez, Natalie Neff, Juanita Pico, Josephine Goodie, Anna Ekdahl, Hubertene Kuenneman, Mrs. Katherine Duke, Executive board members were Mesdames James McWilliams, Carl Du Rall, William Porter, William Eekies, Ralph Davis, J. Announcement Made Of Marriage
Of Former Santa Anan

Announcement has been made of the marriage of a former Santa Anan, Miss Barbara Martin, daughter of Mrs. Louis Martin, 220 West First street, this city, and Harry A. Miner, son of Mrs. Rilla Miner of Anaheim, the ceremony taking place April 30 in Columbia, South Carolina.

The wedding occurred at 8 o'clock in the evening in the bride's home in Columbia. The Rev. C. E. Peele, pastor of Main street Methodist church officiated at the rites in the presence of relatives and a few close friends of the couple.

White flowers were used to decorate for the rites. The bride was attired in a poudre blue crepe suit trimmed in navy blue, with accessories in the same shade. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses.

Following the ceremony was an informal reception. Wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom centered the lace-trimmed table at which the confection was served with ice cream.

The bride has been making her home in Columbia with her father, Dexter Martin, for the past year. She is granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Frames, 220 West First street, Santa Ana.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Miner are making their home in Columbia.

Occasions Celebration

Residents of this community since 1910, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Suddaby of Tustin were joined by a group of intimate friends and relatives in celebrating their 55th wedding anniversary last night in the home of their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Suddaby, Lemon Heights.

Mrs. Suddaby took this important occasion to initiate the new outdoor barbecue room of the pretty home grounds, using gaily painted Spanish gourds and pottery to adorn the table. Arthur Koepsel took charge of grilling the steaks, which were served as the main feature of a delectable dinner menu. Included with the last course was an elaborately decorated wedding cake.

The hostess invited the group indoors for an informal social time during which group singing of many old favorites was led by Mrs. Arthur Koepsel and Mrs. John Sauters, with Mrs. Mary Rowley at the piano. Mr. Suddaby sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

Guests presented the honored couple with gifts including a handsome waffle iron.

Wedding

The marriage of Miss Esther Gatenby and Samuel Suddaby took place May 27, 1932 in West Cedar Valley, Nebr., with the Rev. Henry G. Griffith, Congregational pastor, officiating. The couple made their home on a farm in Antelope county, Nebr., where Mr. Suddaby had homesteaded following his arrival in Nebraska from England in 1881.

In 1885 the couple moved to a cattle ranch near Neligh, Nebr.; in 1888, to Elgin, Nebr., where they lived for 14 years. Later they made their home in Omaha, coming to Orange county in 1910. They have resided here since that time, and for Mrs. Suddaby was the home of Tustin Hills Packing house. Both he and his wife are members of Santa Ana First Presbyterian church. Mrs. Suddaby is a member of Royal Neighbors and of Tustin W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Suddaby was born November 6, 1858 in Selby, Eng. She sailed from Antwerp in 1880 for America, making the trip on the same boat as did her future husband, a native of Seaton, Eng. He was born April 5, 1856.

Guests

Guests at last night's party included Mrs. Louis Richaelieu of Los Angeles, who knew the Suddabys in England before their marriage. Other old friends included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ehlman of Orange, former Nebraska residents. Completing the group with the honored couple, Mr. and Mrs. Suddaby and the hostess, Mrs. Margaret Suddaby, were Mr. and Mrs. George Suddaby, San Bernardino; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Suddaby and daughter, Patricia Ann, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sauters, John Sauters, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hibbet, Tustin; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sauters, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Baxter, Mrs. Mary Baxter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. William Rohrs, Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Koepsel, Lemon Heights.

Shower Hostess Pays Compliment To Her Niece

Presiding at a shower of pretty appointments yesterday afternoon in her home, 1319 North Main street, Mrs. H. P. Witt extended a compliment to her niece, Mrs. Harry Brough of this city. Layette gifts in wide variety were presented to the honor guest.

Following the opening of the many interesting looking packages, an informal program was enjoyed. Miss Evelyn Witt, daughter of the home, screened a number of motion pictures taken of members of Santa Ana parlor Native Daughters of the Golden West while they were assembled at homes of various members. Since the majority of the guest group yesterday was from Santa Ana parlor, this feature proved of special interest.

The hostess spread card tables with dainty linens late in the afternoon, when angel food cake and coffee were served with ice cream and strawberries. Rosebuds formed attractive centerpieces.

Invited to share the affair with the hostess, Mrs. Witt, her daughter, Miss Evelyn Witt and the honoree, Mrs. Harry Brough, were Mesdames Marguerite Mize, Mattie Edwards, Elizabeth Marsile, Elva Selvidge, Olive Rogers, Mae West, Mabel Bray, Rose Ford, Lillian Gant, Ann Head, Muriel Pope, Dessa Wagner, Marie Schroeder, Gertrude Etzold, Hazel Flaherty, Matilda Lemon, Ila Elliott, Myrtle Ellis; the Misses Gladys Edwards, Helen Noe, Patsy Titchenal, Sandra Brough and Master Richard Schroeder.

Moulton Home
Is Scene Of Hospitality

Coming as the first of a series of parties for which the Lewis F. Moulton home in El Toro will be opened to scores of guests, was a luncheon and bridge event yesterday afternoon. Assisting Mrs. Moulton in receiving and in carrying out other party features was her daughter, Miss Louise Moulton, who returned recently from a year of study at California Agricultural college at Davis. She was graduate from Pomona college last year.

Flowers from the gardens of the lovely ranch home formed the keynote for colorful decorations. Added to these were the many pretty blossoms sent in by friends including Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh of this city, Mrs. Harry Gail of Villa Park and Mrs. J. L. Clayton of Orange.

Vari-hued flowers centered the large dining room table, while smaller tables were brightened with bouquets in which pansies predominated. Luncheon served in this attractive setting was followed by card play.

Mrs. Slabaugh, who held high score, was rewarded with a salad set in crystal with chromium handle. Mrs. Sam Nau, with second high score, received a silver sandwich plate, while Mrs. John Wehrly, with third high was rewarded with a jewel case.

Included in the list of guests were Mesdames C. P. Boyer, Maxwell Burke, Ella Campau, J. I. Clark, Chandler, Dr. O. H. Egge, Charles Kendall, Harry Gail, A. M. Gardner, J. L. Clayton, Harry Hanson, Victor Hawk, Loyola King, Ray Lambert, J. E. Liebig, Arthur Lyon, E. T. McPadden, Theo Winbiger, Ernest Winbiger, John L. Wehrly, John Wehrly, Max Reinhaus, Stanley Reinhaus, Adam Zais, Dr. Mary Wright, Miss Bess Wood, Miss Marie Rawlings; with the hostess, Mrs. Moulton and Miss Louise Moulton.

The Moulton home will be scene of another party on Saturday, when Mrs. Moulton and her daughter, Mrs. Glenn Mathis, will join in entertaining.

Bridge Play Follows
Luncheon In Home Of Mrs. Shifflett

Mrs. Basil Shifflett entertained members of her luncheon and bridge club yesterday in her home at 1722 Greenleaf street, serving a daintily appointed luncheon at a large table centered with pastel shaded sweet peas.

Bouquets of red snapdragons and white stocks were used in the living room. Flowers had been sent for the occasion by Mrs. Elmer Sullivan and Mrs. Lyle Anderson.

Present with the hostess, Mrs. Shifflett, were two guests, Mrs. Elmer Sullivan and Mrs. Henry Williams, and Mesdames Fred May, Ernest Gould, Victor Walker, and Richard Ewert, members.

Announcements

Auld Lang Syne group will hold an all day meeting Tuesday, June 1 in the home of Mrs. George L. Wright, 321 Minter street. Members are asked to note the change in meeting from Wednesday to Tuesday.

Members of Sedgwick W. R. C. were reminded today to meet Sunday at 9 a. m. at M. W. A. hall to march from there to First Baptist church for Memorial day services.

Torosa Rebekah Sewing club will meet Thursday with Mrs. W. C. Watkins, 1502 North Ross street for covered dish luncheon at noon.

You and Your Friends

Mrs. Mary Hartley of Harvard, Nebr., who has been spending the past few days with Mr. and Mrs. John C. Smith, 2454 Heliotrope Drive, plans to go to Los Angeles tomorrow to visit with her son, Harold Hartley.

Mrs. W. C. Dunlap, 2143 North Main street, who has been ill at home for the past few days, is reported making a satisfactory recovery.

Mrs. Stauffer
Bridge Today

Mrs. Alvin Stauffer was hostess at a bridge party this afternoon in her home, 1415 North Bristol street, where many bright-hued flowers contributed to an attractive setting. Assisting in receiving guests and in other duties was Mrs. Stauffer's mother, Mrs. E. Waterman.

Dessert was served at small tables early in the afternoon. Cards were played for the remainder of the time.

Asked to share the affair with Mrs. Stauffer were her mother, Mesdames Clarence Ramsey, John Scripps, Q. L. Hardy, Edgar Elstrom, Charles McDaniel Jr., Albert Harvey, Harold Dale, Ray Tarr, Crawford Nalle, Stanley Norton Russell Wilson, Herbert Strachain, Robert Guild, Raymond Terry, Robert Miller, George Spielman, Claude Beckbill and Lee Smith.

Mrs. Richard Pagett
Elected Leader Of Garden Section

Mrs. Richard Pagett was elected leader of Woman's club Garden section Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. R. A. McMahon at 509 South Main street. Mrs. E. M. Waycott was named to serve as secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. James G. McCracken spoke on "Pet Control and What Should Be Done in the Garden This Month." Articles were read by Mrs. F. A. Martin on "Bouquet Arrangement"; Mrs. C. R. Walter on "Rare Species of Heliotrope"; and Mrs. E. J. Grothier on "Flowers in the Arctic Circle."

Mrs. McMahon presented a gift to retiring leader, Mrs. McCracken. In serving dessert course, the hostess was assisted by Mrs. J. D. Watkins.

Present with the hostess, Mrs. McMahon, were Mesdames James McCracken, Richard Pagett, J. D. Watkins, E. M. Waycott, E. C. Wilson, Charles Hoehn, M. C. Williams, G. N. Coons, C. R. Walter, F. A. Martin and E. J. Grothier.

STYLE FOUNDATION

Foundation garments are all important this spring. It's a year of clothes which fairly shout for proper corseting. With your padded-in jackets, slim-waisted dirndl dresses and other form-fitting costumes, try an all-in-one foundation look which makes your waistline look slim and reed-like. Under sports tops, wear a sheer two-way stretch pantie girdle. Authorities agree that every woman needs at least three foundation garments—one for daytime, another for evening and a third for sports. Also that the more you wash them, the longer they wear and hold their shape.

BABY'S FEET

ARE IMPORTANT, SO WATCH THEM CAREFULLY

It is no longer necessary to put your baby's feet in heavy, stiff shoes, such as used on older and more developed feet. Evade all shoes that force the foot into a cramped, unnatural position. Permit true freedom which develops the muscles into a strong support for the arches that every woman needs of artificial supports unnecessary.

Lovely Golden Suntan Wins Favor This Summer

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

The latest news about hot weather makeup indicates that it will not be smart to let your skin become a dark mahogany shade this summer. Several experts are urging women to strive for a lovely golden suntan, then to wear dark but creamy powder over it.

It is a mistake indeed for any girl to expose her face, arms, back and throat to hours and hours of sunshine day after day all summer long. At the beginning of the season, one should take sunshine in small doses until the complexion is slightly brown and from then on, wear beach hat and robe except when actually in the water. Otherwise, long before September, sensitive skin is likely to be dry and leathery looking.

Along with the new sun beige types of powder there are brilliant yet dark rouge and lipstick to wear when your skin is a little darker. Inspired by the interest in our relations with Latin American countries, these are appropriately labeled with a Mexican name. In a season of gauchito sombreros, matador toques, bright embroidery and flamboyant colors, the new rich red lipstick is perfect. Anyway, for suntanned skins, vivid dark red lipsticks probably will be smarter than orange shades.

Once your complexion is darker, look for a creamy powder which matches it exactly and for rouge and lipstick that point up the healthy out-of-doors tones of the skin. The pale red lipstick and pinkish rouge you liked last winter will look like nothing at all after the third week on the beach. It is, of course, an excellent idea to decide as early as possible whether to acquire a coat of suntan or stay lily white, then to buy your summer clothes accordingly. Plain white and very bright colors are perfect for the suntanned, but black, beige and gray are not!

You and Your Friends

Woman's club of Santa Ana members who attended the district convention of Woman's clubs in La Jolla on May 26 were Mesdames F. A. Martin, L. E. Tarbox, Robert Borchard, J. D. Watkins, R. A. McMahon, William Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. MacFarlane and sons, Walter, Richard and Robert MacFarlane, 617 East Walnut street, with Robert MacFarlane's fiancée, Miss Ruth Beemer of this city, plan to spend the weekend holiday at San Juan Capistrano Hot Springs.

DANCE TONIGHT

Among those who plan to attend the informal dance tonight at Santa Ana Country club are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. George Spielman and Mr. and Mrs. eGorge Spielman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller. The group will assemble first at the Miller home, 1412 Louise street, and continue to the clubhouse from there.

Make This Model At Home

WEAR JOLLY FROCK
ALL DAY LONG
PATTERN 4350
By ANNE ADAMS

If you'd like to look pretty as a picture this summer, your wardrobe must include this love of an "at home" frock that will win approval from your family. This adorable Anne Adams creation comes to you in the simplest of pattern pieces, and even inexperienced seamstresses will find it easy to make up in no time. And words can't express our approval of the puffed-up sleeves saucily slashed, the youthful Peter Pan collar, and bright tie-ends. Don't overlook the

Frilly Frock---Party Time!

The formalized chiffon street dress shown, with gay garden figurines on a pale lime green background, will go to a tea dance, dinner in a roadhouse or supper and a dance or two after the movies. It is finished with rows of self material frills. Such a frock is what every woman needs to complete her party wardrobe.

Club Members, Guests Welcomed To Party In Slabaugh Home

Members and guests of S.O.S. luncheon club were entertained Tuesday in the F. W. Slabaugh home at 497 West Santa Clara avenue.

The hostess centered the dining table with a bouquet of lavender lilies and yellow cornflowers and at each place were placecards carrying out a Hawaiian motif. Tallies of blue, yellow and green furthered the chosen color scheme. Prizes for bridge play were won by Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, high, and Mrs. C. S. Crookshank received a guest prize.

Sharing the affair with Mrs. Slabaugh were Mesdames J. E. Liebig, Roy Hall, C. S. Crookshank, Lewis Moulton, Paul Bailey, guests; Mesdames A. M. Gardner, J. E. Gowen, E. E. Keech, E. M. Nealey, Charles Vance and T. E. Stephenson, members.

SOMETHING NEW IN SANDWICHES

I thought every change possible had been run on toasts and sandwiches until this one was served at a party last week.

Use very fresh bread, remove crusts and slice lengthwise into thin slabs. Stack the slices and trim them evenly unless you are using a pullman style loaf. For fillings mash a large can of tuna with a little mayonnaise and whatever seasonings you like (grated green pepper, onion, etc.) Grate yellow cheese, season with what is used with salt and pepper. Blend a quantity of butter until soft enough to spread quickly. Put the rolls together in this fashion using 3 slices to a roll.

All 3 slices of bread used, to be spread with butter. The bottom slice laid flat, spread with thick layer of cheese, middle slice laid with ends overlapping bottom slice by one inch (this is called "staggering" I believe). Cover this middle slice with a thick layer of tuna and top with third slice, slightly staggered, too. Now, carefully start at one end and roll up, to make a thick small roll. Pin neatly with wood picks, brush roll with butter, stand in a shallow pan and brown them in a 550 degree oven. Each roll cuts across to make three piping hot delicious sandwiches. The loaf, sliced, provides slices to make about 2 1/2 rolls.

Thickly creamed chicken, or any of your favorite sandwich combinations fit into this toasted sandwich scheme. Try them for your

Many Couples Plan To Attend Dinner In Advance Of Club Dance

Santa Ana Country club members and guests are anticipating a gala party tonight at the clubhouse, where the first of a summer series of dances will be staged at 9:30 o'clock. Huston Hertz' orchestra will play.

Many members are planning to go to the clubhouse early for dinner in advance of the dance. For this feature, tables will be decorated with magnolia blossoms in low pottery bowls, with yellow and green tapers in pottery holders lighting the scene.

Among those who have made reservations for dinner are Messrs. and Mesdames Dean Collier, E. D.

Holmes Jr., Roy Langley, Robert Fernandez, Richard Ewert, Claude Knox, Fay Hockstrauffer, George Osterman, Ben Osterman, Riley Huber, A. G. Flagg, Ray Chandler, Roy Kennick, Warren Fletcher, Fred May, William Fernandez, Donald Jerome, Harold Wright, Le Roy Burns, George Baker, Milburn Harvey; Dr. and Mrs. C. V. ## NEGRO SOUGHT AFTER "FREE RIDE RACKET"

"Special taxicab service" was ordered yesterday by a Negro who gave the name of Frank Wilson and address of 2640 Commercial street, San Diego. Now he's being sought by Santa Ana police and other officials of Southern California for alleged petty theft of a free ride to the border city.

Walking into the Wright transfer company headquarters, 301 Spurgeon, the Negro, said he had furniture at the San Diego address which he wanted moved to the Wright storage place. An accommodating transfer man got in a truck with the Negro and rode to San Diego. Leaving the truck for a moment, at the Commercial street address, the truck man walked away from it. So did the Negro, who hasn't been seen since. He's described as 25, five feet 11 inches tall and weighing 175 pounds. The company men said the futile trip cost them $20.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE BROADCAST

Local radio listeners may hear an authorized Christian Science lecture tonight, at 8 o'clock, when James G. Rowell, C. B. ## 4-H Camp Plans Completed Here

Plans for the Orange-Riverside county 4-H summer camp program were formulated yesterday when H. B. Richardson and Mrs. Laura Montague of Riverside conferred with Ross Crane and Miss Frances Liles of the Farm Extension Service.

Details for an elaborate program were outlined by the Agricultural Extension service representatives of the two counties.

The summer activities at Camp Radford will begin June 22. A large group of club members from both Riverside and Orange counties will attend.

KEN Murray SAYS:

HOLLYWOOD, May 28.—You must have read it in the papers just like I did. F. D. R. asked for a little economy and Congress jeered. Six months ago we were calling our Representatives rubber stamps. Rubber stamps—heck! They're black-ink erasers. And a lot of us taxpayers are about fed up. The congressional pork barrel is a great thing, but why can't the boys get along on fish a couple of days a week? The rest of us do.

A bunch of those Congressmen who think they're repairing their themselves to get the gate. Don't they understand that the government has already taken the taxpayers' shirt? Slip a few more levers on us and we'll feel like Lady Godiva taking her famous horseback ride with bobbed hair.

As Al Smith remarked, nobody shoots Santa Claus. But ain't it about time somebody put knockout drops in his tea?

WHAT'S A LITTLE STABBING BETWEEN SUCH GOOD FRIENDS?

By MARAH ADAMS

"Because they are such close friends," Eugene Beltrano told Orange police last night, he would not prefer charges against Flaviano Romo, who stabbed him in the stomach.

The stabbing took place on North Cypress street where the two men live. Beltrano was escorting another friend, Ben Martinez, home. Martinez, it is alleged, was intoxicated, and needed aid in reaching his residence in safety. As the two men passed the Chavez pool hall, Romo came out with two other men. Romo called Beltrano "a scab" and made a rather cryptic remark, police said. Then Romo "hit" Beltrano in the stomach, the officers continued.

After Beltrano arrived home, he found he had been stabbed, rather than hit in the stomach. Mrs. Beltrano phoned for a doctor. The doctor took Beltrano to the Orange county hospital where several stitches were taken.

Beltrano decided since he and Romo "were such close friends, there is no need for any legal action on my part." The only arrest that was made was when Martinez, the innocent bystander, was charged with intoxication, and he will appear before City Judge L. F. Coburn today.

BRIDE TO BE

Inez Hendrixson, whose home is in Placentia during the fall months, will tomorrow become the bride of Ernest Uzza, who is head of the music department of the Placentia unified schools. Miss Hendrixson makes her home in China. At the close of school, the newly-weds will tour Europe, returning to Placentia in the early fall.

ARREST 7 AS BRAWL RESULT

NEW YORK, May 28.—(UP)—Adeline Rogers St. John, film magazine and newspaper writer, married into Yorkville court today at the head of several battered men and announced that the free for all in front of the Gay Nineties club last night dwarfed the Hindenburg disaster.

"Boys," the writer assured newspapermen, "I've covered the Hauptmann trial and the Hindenburg but I have never seen anything quite so horrible as this."

Miss St. John is under arrest. So was her husband, Patrick O'Toole, who had four stitches in his nose. Don Higgins, radio publicity man and former Oklahoma City and Kansas City newspaperman, whose face was swollen and discolored, and William Wright, radio commentator, who is in Bellevue hospital with a fractured skull. Three attaches of the gay nineties were also under arrest.

The hearing on assault charges filed against all seven participants was adjourned until June 9. Miss St. John accused the doorman, Charles F. (Sailer) Grande, former pugilist, of starting trouble when the party asked admittance to the club. Henry Tannen, club proprietor, said the party arrived under the influence of liquor and had started trouble. Tannen, Grande, and William Walsh, host at the club, were the others under arrest.

BOYS WORK GROUP TO MEET TUESDAY

A Boys Work committee meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday, Herbert Thomas, boys' work secretary announced today.

This committee includes several of Santa Ana's prominent business and civic leaders who are taking an active interest in the youth of the city.

H. G. Nelson is chairman of the committee. Other members are R. H. McArthur, Judge Kenneth Morrison, E. H. Layton, Joseph Frias, David Hunter, Ferris Scott, John Schrier, Dr. Ralph Raitt, Wendell Finley, J. A. Cranston, Jim Shook and Lyle Mitchell.

Pleasure Autos Grow In Number

Pleasure cars are on the increase in California, Howard E. Deems, state registrar, revealed today. During the first three months of 1937, 2,007,486 automobiles were registered as compared with 1,873,065 for the first three months in 1936. Total fee paid registration increased from 2,072,284 in 1936, to 2,232,415 in 1937.

During the same 1937 period, 46,414 non-resident permits were issued, increase of 21.09 per cent over 1936. Deems said an increase of 36 per cent in number of vehicle chattel mortgages filed with the department of motor vehicles was made over the three-month period of 1936.

BILLBOARD BECOMES 'GYM'

A resident of the 1600-block, West Fourth, learned last evening that people who object to advertising signs along city or country thoroughfares, may have children who don't object so much. The resident told city police some boys were using one of the signs in the 1500-block, West Fourth, as a gymnasium. Sergeant W. E. B. Sherwood advised the boys it might be dangerous to climb all over the sign. The boys went home.

"WEAR POPPY" PLEA SOUNDED BY SULLIVAN

James Sullivan, commander of Ernest L. Kellogg Post No. 1680, Veterans of Foreign Wars, today issued an appeal to every man, woman and child in Santa Ana urging them to wear a poppy on Memorial Day and "thus contribute to the movement which honors the dead by helping the living."

Sullivan issued his appeal in connection with the annual Poppy Day to be observed here tomorrow with members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliaries, selling poppies made by disabled veterans in California hospitals. Returns from the sale will be used in the relief programs of both organizations.

In his appeal Sullivan said: "Each year the poppies bloom again in the fields of France, those blossoms whose scarlet petals were a symbol of high courage, as 'with their poppies in their helmets, the front files held the line'."

"And now each year, through all America, other poppies bloom, touching the mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield, and patriotic grave, to every living heart and hearthstone, all over this broad land."

"These poppies are also a symbol of courage, but courage of a different sort—the courage of those fighting men who returned, disabled, to face an impaired existence. 'Over the top.' The words were filled with significance for our valiant troops when they were fighting the battles of democracy in far-off trenches. The words have a new significance now for many of these brave lads, handicapped by war's aftermath, who are making the millions of poppies which all America wears on Memorial Day."

NEW YORK BANKER ILL ABOARD YACHT

HONOLULU, May 28.—(UP)—The yacht Viking, conveyed by the U. S. coast guard cutter Roger B. Tanney, sped here today with its seriously ailing owner, George F. Baker, chairman of the board of the First National City bank of New York.

Baker reportedly was suffering from peritonitis after an emergency operation performed aboard the yacht several days ago.

Caring for the New York banker was Dr. D. J. Zaugg, of the coast guard service, who was transferred to the Viking from the Tanney.

Dr. Zaugg decided that a blood transfusion was not necessary immediately although he was prepared to resort to a transfusion.

The Viking reported itself approximately 300 miles south of Honolulu.

It was contacted by the Tanney, sent out from here, early today and took aboard Dr. Zaugg and medical supplies.

INSURANCE ACT IS VETOED BY F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today vetoed a congressional act designed to renew expiring five year premium term war risk insurance policies for another five year period.

In a special message to the house, Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that when the government set a limit for the conversion of war term insurance into a permanent form of life insurance, 423,557 veterans had converted their policies valued at $1,773,075,664 to some permanent form of insurance.

"In many cases," Mr. Roosevelt said, "veterans made considerable sacrifices . . . to maintain the original temporary war insurance on a permanent life time basis."

DENNY SHUTE UNDER PAR TO BEAT HINES

PITTSBURGH, May 28.—Denny Shute, the defending champion, moved into the semi-final round of the National P. G. A. championship today with a 4 and 3 victory over Jimmy Hines of New York.

Shute, out to become the first man since Leo Diegel, in 1929, to win the toughest of all championships twice in a row, shot a sub-par 71 in the morning to take a 3-up lead. Harry Cooper plunked in a 20-foot putt for a birdie three to go into lunch with a 2-up lead over Tony Manero.

"Welcome" Mat Gone, So's Welcome

Mrs. Dooley's "welcome" mat was stolen while yet new. The thief has worn the "welcome" out—he got her first mat—too.

That's what Mrs. P. E. Dooley, 602 North Ross street, told city police yesterday, after reporting a thief who stole her door mat recently, returned and stole the one she obtained to replace it.

DEDICATE NEW BRIDGE AT S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—(UP)—California fulfilled a century old dream today when it officially dedicated and opened the suspension bridge across the Golden Gate amid western pageantry celebrating completion of one of the world's greatest engineering achievements.

While the massed U. S. battle fleet—greatest naval armada ever assembled in one port in peacetime—maneuvered in San Francisco bay and navy and army air forces flew in formation overhead, three separate dedicatory ceremonies officially opened the two-mile bridge and furnished the last link in an unbroken coastal highway from Canada to Mexico.

The bridge spans the world famed water channel, portal to San Francisco harbor at a height of 250 feet above Pacific ocean waters. It extends from the northernmost shore of the San Francisco peninsula to Marin county.

At 12 p. m. President Roosevelt, from the White House, switched on a green light at the bridge toll plaza. Chains were lifted from the portals of the six-lane highway and hordes of automobiles—some of which had been waiting all night—started across the span.

Governors of 11 western states and representatives of foreign nations participated in the dedication of the span which took $35,000,000, the lives of 11 men, and four years to build.

FIVE-CENT 'HEROES' STAMPS ARRIVE HERE

Last of a series of five, the new five-cent United States Army and Navy Heroes' stamps went on sale today at the Santa Ana post office.

The central design of the Navy stamp is a replica of the official United States Navy academy at Annapolis, on either side of which are cadets, wearing the early day and modern uniforms of the academy.

Court Notes

Earl Waynick, minor son of the late Dean D. Waynick and Bernice Waynick, today was granted a $200 per month family allowance from the estate of his mother by Superior Judge G. K. Seovel. The court also granted a petition for appointment of Carl J. Klatt as legal guardian for the youth, who was orphaned by the death of his father in a crossing accident, and the subsequent suicide of his grief-stricken mother.

The First National Bank of Orange today petitioned superior court to probate the will of the late Martha E. Taylor, of Orange, who left a $4000 estate to her sister, Minnie Victor, of St. Louis, Missouri.

ALIEN IS ARRESTED

Nicolas Serrata, 25, from Mexico, was jailed here yesterday afternoon by immigration officers, to await prosecution.

PROWLERS ESCAPE

City police were unable to locate prowlers reported active on recent nights near the 700-block, East Second.

Adolf Hitler's father objected strenuously to his art, since he feared it would interfere with the boy's political career.

Oddities In Today's News Items

DENVER, May 28.—(UP)—Paul Bryan Heisel's Oregon wife and his Colorado wife conferred on who was to have him. They agreed that the Oregon claim was the stronger, and the court so ruled. Then the wife and ex-wife, without a glance at Heisel, cordially linked arms and left the courtroom.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 28.—(UP)—Eugene Galloway, Melford Galloway and Thomas Alexander confided to three men they found in a junk house that they had 225 pounds of good copper wire which had been taken from a Vernal, Ut., mine for sale. The three men arrested them. They were deputy sheriffs, checking junk yards for a trace of the stolen wire.

CLEVELAND, May 28.—(UP)—James Buchanan, 28, told Judge Walter McMahon he was on his way to a photographer to have his picture taken in a "real wild west" pose when police arrested him for carrying concealed weapons. James now will have to wait six months for his picture. He'll be in the workhouse that long.

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—(UP)—Clarence Miller has more faith in banks today than he had yesterday. He always said he wouldn't trust banks to keep my money. He had $68 in his pocket when he started home from a beer parlor early today in an automobile with some chance companions. Later he told police they tossed him out half way home and his $68 was missing.

ENTIRE COUNTRY REPRESENTED AT H. B. TRAILER CONVENTION

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 28.—With registrations ahead of time representing almost all sections of the U. S., including Mrs. W. J. Anderson of Washington, D. C.; L. J. Bauer, Dividing Creek, New Jersey; D. Ernsberger, Fort Worth, Texas; Mary McNeil, the Bronx, New York; C. Foster, Dayton, Ohio; people from other states and many Californians, the Pacific Coast Trailerite convention and picnic promises to get off to a good start today.

Official registrations will begin and it is expected that Mrs. Lillian Dixon, official hostess for the convention, and her aides, will be busy. Lieutenant and Mrs. Edwin Murphy are on the grounds to assist. Mr. Murphy is vice president of the American Tourists Association.

A fleet of fishing boats has been arranged to begin operation; all city playgrounds have been put in order; bands have been employed to furnish music, and a public address system has been purchased and installed in Memorial hall, it was stated by Will Gallienne, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce and general manager of the fiesta.

An official trailer convention has been named to assist Gallienne and the hostesses in handling the program. The committee includes Ted Tarbox, chairman; A. W. Frost, Sam Clapp, Dr. D. Hough, J. S. Denny, Tom Talbert, and D. E. Burry, Chief of Police H. L. Grant was asked to arrange for the overflow situation that is expected.

RUSH ACTION ON STATE MEASURES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 28.—(UP)—Crowded calendars confronted California's legislators today as they rushed action on unfinished business on the last official day of the 52nd session.

Clocks will be stopped at 5 p. m., and to legislators Friday may continue until Sunday or Monday before the session actually adjourns. Assemblymen had slightly more than 100 items to consider, and could finish their work by midnight if they desired. The senate, however, still had nearly 300 items to remove from the file.

Refusal of the senate to concur in assembly amendments to the Crittenden labor relations board bill sent that measure to free conference—a hearing before a committee representing both houses.

Included among the outstanding measures awaiting final action—most of them in the senate—were bills proposing creation of a state venereal disease control board, repeal of the three day "gin marriage" law, compulsory military training in state colleges, a pension to needy disabled and reduction of 10 per cent of earned income from the state income tax.

GOEBBELS ATTACKS CHICAGO CARDINAL

BERLIN, May 28.—(UP)—The dispute between the Roman Catholic church and the Nazi government reached a high point tonight in a speech by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, in which Goebbels expatriated Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago.

Goebbels addressed a mass meeting of the Berlin branch of the Nazi party in Deutschland hall. The speech was broadcast nationally.

Goebbels replied in the sharpest terms to the recent speech of Cardinal Mundelein, in which the Catholic prelate referred to Fuehrer Adolf Hitler as "an Austrian paper-hanger," and accused the Nazis of persecuting the church.

Goebbels said he felt obliged to "break the silence" and answer an accusation of "the worst crime with which a government can be reproached namely, open falsification of law and justice for selfish purposes."

DRAW TICKETS IN DUBLIN ON ENGLISH DERBY

DUBLIN, May 28.—(UP)—Comterfoils which represent fortunes for people all over the world were drawn from the great drum at the Mansion House today in the 21st Irish Hospitals Sweepstake.

Holders of tickets on the horses which run first, second and third in the Derby at Epsom Downs, England, next Wednesday, will receive prizes of $150,000, $75,000 and $50,000 respectively, and every person who holds a ticket on one of the other 75 horses listed in the race will get a prize of $2,333.35 each.

The total received was announced as 2,682,566 pounds ($13,412,830 at $5 to the pound)—surprisingly large because there was a sweep on the grand national only two months ago.

Of the total, $5,100,105 was deducted, leaving a prize fund of $8,312,725 for distribution.

The prize fund was divided into 16 units of 100,000 pounds ($500,000) each, which meant that there would be 16 prizes of $150,000, $75,000 and $50,000 each.

There will be 1200 prizes of $2,333.35 each. Only about 20 horses are to run in the derby but this will not affect these prizes.

There will be 1600 consolation prizes of $500 each. These have nothing to do with the race but are awarded outright.

The money left over from the 16 $500,000 units was divided as usual into 10 residual prizes—this time of 6254 pounds ($31,270) each. These, likewise, are not dependent upon horses in the derby.

The first horse drawn was Cash Book, second favorite, and the first six counterfoils were on American tickets.

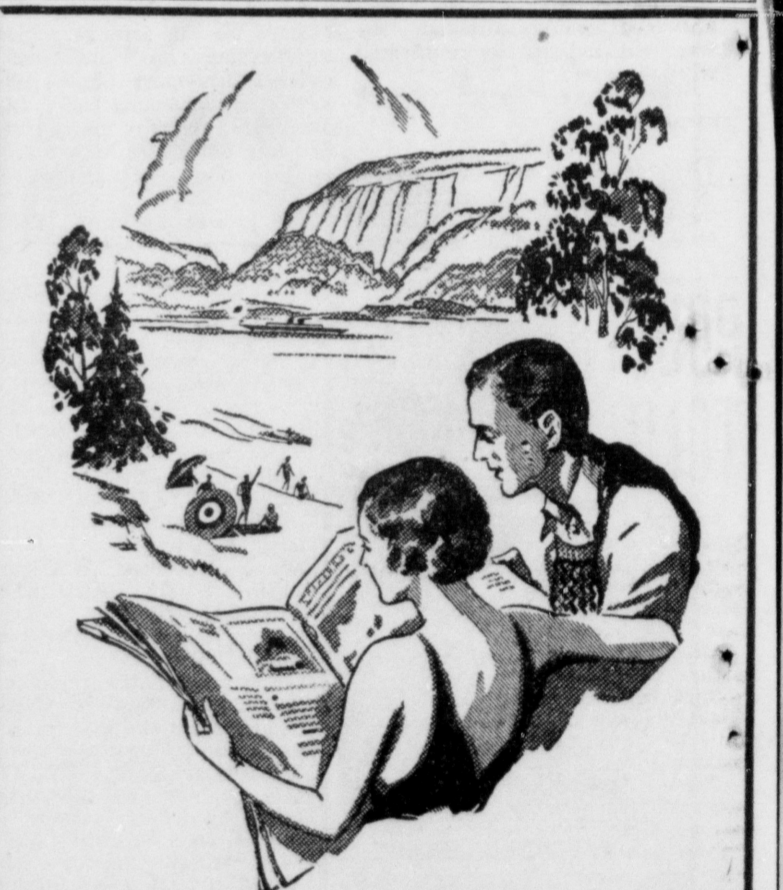

Included among the American ticket holders who drew horses now occupying the first five places in the betting for the Derby were:

Cash Book—"CHI," 809 South Vermont avenue, Los Angeles, and "David," 3438 Clay street, San Francisco; Perifox—"Sal and Ray," 2847 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles.

ROYAL TITLE TO BE DENIED WALLY

LONDON, May 28.—(UP)—The Duke of Windsor will remain "his royal highness" but his wife, Mrs. Wallis Warfield, and any possible children, will not be given a royal title, it was announced officially today.

The London Gazette, which officially chronicles royal family affairs, published the "letters patent" under which the status of the twice-divorced American woman is established.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

TIGERS ARE FOUND IN BOTH HOT AND COLD CLIMATES, BUT NOT IN TEMPERATE REGIONS.

THE ENDING, "WORT," FOUND IN NUMEROUS FLOWER NAMES, SUCH AS BELLWORT, SPIDERWORT, ETC., IS AN OLD ENGLISH WORD, MEANING PLANT, OR HERB.

GOKROACHES ARE KNOWN ALSO AS "CROTON BUGS," BECAUSE THEY BECAME ABUNDANT IN NEW YORK CITY AT THE TIME THE CROTON WATER SYSTEM WAS INSTALLED.

TIGERS are common in the hottest parts of India, Burma, and Sumatra, yet they are found high up in the Himalayas, at altitudes of six to seven thousand feet. And in Siberia they are to be found withstanding the severe cold of that area, wearing thick, shaggy fur.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
PATRICIA WARREN, heroine, secretary to Don Monteray, actor-playwright.
TRISSY WARREN, Pats' cousin and roommate in New York.
DON MONTERAY, Patricia's employer.
ROSAMOND AKERS, Patricia's rival.

Yesterday, Pats spends her first day in Monteray's office, meets him and is convinced he is the most attractive man in the world.

CHAPTER III

IN almost no time Pats Warren became the shield which stood between Don Monteray and his adoring public. The fact that the improvised office soon was a place of efficiency and order proved that she had successfully become the capable Miss Warren. All day the tap of Don's typewriter sounded behind locked doors while Pats tactfully handled beautifully dressed girls, sleek, perfumed women, reporters, and graph seekers, thrill hunters. She had expected to be lonely for Trissy but instead she had only time for fleeting thoughts and momentary gratifications that the beloved cousin and her John were happy.

At five o'clock on her fourth day as Don's secretary, Pats went in to him with her letters. He looked up with a nod and asked if loud voices in the outer office had been an indication of trouble.

"A woman who wanted to paint your portrait," Pats told him in the flat colorless tone so foreign to her own. "She was a bit determined."

Don laughed. When he laughed it always did something to Pats, sent a thrilling wave across her senses. What would happen if he smiled at her she could only imagine. But he never looked at her, never seemed aware of her as an individual. It was what she had wanted, yet it was so disturbing at times. As he rapidly signed his letters, she stood beside him, allowing her shoulders to sag, breaking the line of her lovely figure by an awkward posture. Bitterly, she reflected, "I'm as necessary to him as his tooth brush—and as uninteresting."

"Miss—er—," he began, blotting his signatures.

"Warren," patiently.

"Warren—thank you—how long have you been here?"

"This is my fourth day."

"I have accomplished more in these four days than in the previous six months." His words were casually impersonal. Leaning back in his chair, he stretched luxuriously. Men had always scrambled to their feet when Pats put in an appearance, she had become accustomed to masculine attentions. But Don stretched luxuriously. To him she was nothing more than a smoothly running cog in the machinery of his life. She gathered up the letters.

"How much did the agent say I was to pay you?" he inquired, settling back and lighting a cigarette.

"Fifty dollars a week," Pats answered evenly, although she was still delightfully impressed with the sum.

"We'll make it $75," he said casually.

IN spite of herself, Pats took a little skipping step as she left the hotel. Seventy-five dollars a week! That was more than $300 a month. It meant that she could leave her tiny apartment and find a modern uptown place within walking distance of the Avalon. Pats' beauty loving soul responded to pleasant surroundings and she wriggled with delight as she started the long homeward trip. And two days later she had an opportunity to prove to her employer that she was worth the stupendous amount of $75 a week.

Upon returning from lunch she found Don, who had evidently opened the barricaded door for some reason, surrounded by a bevy of school girls, excited and giggling. His face was scarlet; he was angry and confused. One teasing, beautiful girl held him by both coat lapels. She had just aimed a kiss at his lips and landed it squarely on his chin. She was laughing hilariously while her friends shrieked with sheer excitement.

"I won the bet," she caroled. "Five pounds of candy. You girls bet I couldn't kiss Don Monteray and I did it—I did it!"

Don looked as if he could gladly slay her. He straightened his tie and smoothed his hair. Obviously the wager had not been won without a struggle. He saw Pats and his expression was a shout for help.

"Mr. Monteray," one of the sweet young things gushed, "we are forming a club—it's the Don Monteray club—" Pats got an idea.

"I am Mr. Monteray's secretary," she said firmly and there was an instant hush as they turned to look at her. "I have his appointment book in my desk. Perhaps we can arrange a meeting for your club." She tried to herd his tormentors into the office, but warily they hung back. "And you will want one of his pictures," throwing out fresh bait. "Come and look them over and take your choice."

was a concerted rush for the office. Pat threw a pile of pictures on her desk, dodged quickly behind the intruders and the door swung shut with a comforting click of the lock.

"Oh, Mr. Monteray," shrieked the one who had kissed him, "may I have this gorgeous picture?" She stopped. Her eyes had found the solid panels of the door. Making a rush for it she bumped her nose, screamed Don's name and pounded with her fists. The other girls, as one person, turned their accusing eyes on Pats.

"I'm sorry," she said graciously. One thing she had learned. She must not antagonize Mr. Monteray's public. His box office receipts depended upon just such silly adoration as this. "Mr. Monteray is late for an appointment."

"Maybe we can catch him," suggested one of the avid little admirers. Snatching a photograph from the desk she ran and breathlessly her friends did likewise. "If his car is outside we'll crowd in."

WHEN all was quiet the door behind Pats stealthily opened. The famous Don Monteray peeked dubiously through the crack.

"Come in," he whispered, mopping his forehead. "Oh, Lord," he groaned. "I get so sick of it, Miss—er—"

"Warren," she said absently. "Thanks," also absently. "Is there any reason why I should be subjected to nonsense like that? I wish I'd never seen the theater, sometimes. Girls everywhere. I can't go out on the street without a following. They whisper and giggle and point." He was so absurdly incensed that Pats bit her lips to restrain a giggle. "If I leave my car I find a girl in it when I come back, they pester me for autographs, even tear the buttons from my coat for souvenirs."

Pats said nothing. She simply stood and let him rave. And he raved.

"Is there no justice?" he demanded furiously of Pats.

"No, sir."

Suddenly his eyes twinkled and he laughed. The storm was over. "Thank Heaven you don't admire me," he said.

Pats wondered about this. Was it admiration she felt. Whatever it was it hurt unbearably.

"If that is all, Mr. Monteray—" She felt so unutterably foolish saying things like that. So flat when she longed to meet him half way.

"That is all. What day is this?"

"Saturday."

"Pay day." Rummaging in his desk he brought out a check book and scribbled with a fine hand. "Fill in your name, do you mind?" he asked. "I'm dreadfully stupid about names."

AS she complied, Pats thought, "I think of him every minute of the night and day and he doesn't even know my name."

She dared not look at him but his picture was engraved on her heart; the restrained wave in his hair, his boyish, shame-faced grin, the fine, strong lines of his profile.

That afternoon Pats found a small, very charming apartment. When her belongings had been arranged, the room put in order and softly lighted, she bathed in the shining tub and donned her most alluring pajamas. Her hair curled her cheeks bloomed, her lips relaxed in their own sweet curve. Lounging picturesquely on the couch she waited for dinner to be sent up from the house cafe. But it would be a lonesome dinner—lonesome without Don Monteray.

Quickly she changed her train of thought. "Watch your step," she heard herself saying. "He hates women—he doesn't know you exist. Don't be a softy, Miss—er—Warren." But despite these warnings a thrilled excitement gripped her.

Erwin, Mrs. John Bergen, Mrs. Lloyd Edwards, Mrs. Fern Morgan, Miss Mary Irriart, Miss Nancy Herrington, Mrs. Vern Estes and Mrs. Jess Stanfield.

Colorful Setting Is Background For Banquet

ORANGE, May 28.—In a beautiful garden setting fashioned in the lower auditorium of the Presbyterian church, the annual mothers' and daughters' dessert was held Thursday evening, a program following.

Mrs. E. H. Smith, general president of the Woman's Fellowship, introduced the May chairman, Mrs. M. L. Pearson, who then turned the program over to Mrs. Earl G. Smith, program chairman. Miss Ruth Niquette played two violin solos, accompanied by Percy Green, and Mrs. Joy H. Elder gave several piano selections. Mrs. Robert B. McAluley led community singing.

Little Alice Woods sang "Our Little Girl," accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Wilbur J. Woods. The primary department girls sang, led by Carrie Davis in a solo part. Rosine Roy gave a reading, and Mrs. Orlo Hobbs and daughter, Colleen, played a piano duet.

A clever one-act play, "Mother's Cooking," was directed by Mrs. Ray Price, and included the Misses Maxine Huber, Eldene Watson, Betty Doncaster, Melba Estes and Emily Joost in the cast.

A reading, "Parable of Mother," was given by Miss Shirley Haynes, and Mrs. Lucille Sutherland sang "A Mother's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Ockels. A dessert course was served under the direction of Mrs. George Franzen.

PICNIC PLANNED

ORANGE, May 28.—First Christian church women are to be hostesses at a meeting of Federated church women of thirty to be held at the city park June 4. Each person is to take a covered dish and table service. Each church represented will present work being done in Africa. Mrs. W. C. Armstrong will be in charge of the music.

Toastmasters To Hold Ladies' Night

ORANGE, May 28.—The Toastmasters' club will celebrate ladies' night next Thursday evening at the regular weekly meeting. President Henry Bosch was awarded first place in the speaking, on his talk, "Give Them A Fair Trial."

Second place was given Theron Willis, his topic, "Selling an Automobile."

Other speakers and their subjects were, Kenneth King, "Selling The Toastmasters' Club," and W. C. Armstrong, "The Man's Club." Al Behneman was toastmaster.

Critics were Bert Porter, Art Sipherd, James Goode and Tom Clark. General critic was Dr. C. M. Baker, and diction critic was John D. Hayes.

Open House Is Feature Of P.T.A. Meeting

ORANGE, May 28.—The annual open house and school program of the West Orange P.T.A. was held yesterday afternoon at the school, preceded by a meeting of the P.T.A. Mrs. August Pestolesi, past president, was given a past president's pin by Mrs. Lotta Brandon, on behalf of the association.

The program which followed was given in the patio of the school, and consisted of a flower drill by the second grade, and four first grade girls; original poems, school songs and a play, "The Bird's Nest," by the fifth grade. Mother Goose was offered by the first grade, and Japanese Dolls by the third grade. A puppet play, "The Peppermint Boy," closed the program, and was presented by the fourth grade.

In the exhibit of work in the poems and stories, a house, and

Final Meeting Held By Center Street P.T.A.

ORANGE, May 28.—The final meeting for the year for members of the Center street P.T.A. was held yesterday at the school. Mrs. Norris Allen, vice president, presided in the absence of Mrs. Wilbur Nave, who is attending the state P.T.A. convention at Pasadena. The first part of the program was given by the kindergarten pupils. Four numbers were presented by the Rhythm band and these were followed by three songs.

The second half of the program consisted of an original play, "Helen's Birthday Party," given by the first grade. Songs and folk dances learned in music periods and original poems were included in the play.

The second grade was represented by Freddie Lee Hayes, the third grade by Jeanne Welty, the fourth by Audrey June Peterson and the fifth by Raymond Knight, each telling of room projects. The kindergarten display included handicrafts, such as mat weaving, wood cutting, block building and pillow making.

The first grade had "home" as its projects. They exhibited miniature houses and furniture fashioned from card board and play set in sandboxes where real grass was growing. Animals and fowls modeled in clay were in the yards. The second grade project was the farm. Small barns and silos had been built, also houses, cows and other animals were made from clay.

The third grade room was gay Japanese kimonos, shoes, fans and lanterns. Of special interest was the silk worm collection showing moths emerging from cocoons, eggs of the insects and silk from the cocoons.

The fourth grade room presented an illusion of stepping into an aquarium, the walls of the room being covered with bright colored tropical fish in every imaginable size and color. Hawaiian costumes and ukuleles all made by pupils, were on display.

The fifth grade students chose transportation as their project. They portrayed modes of transportation from the Stone age to the present time by means of clay models, wood cuttings and pictures.

Mrs. Joe Peterson, Mrs. Clayton Scarborough, Mrs. Isabel and Mrs. Norris Allen poured when refreshments were served. Teachers in charge were Miss Matie Danne-man, principal, Miss Marvel Baker, Mrs. Florence Nixon, Miss Margaret Babcock, Miss Pauline Thompson and Miss Emily Seaman.

room, the kindergarten showed a sail boat, with movable sails, fashioned to hold three; original post office. The first grade exhibited an airport, toy shop and jumping jacks. Second grade had a farm, and third grade a sand table and art work on Africa. The fourth grade made puppets and theater, and the fifth grade had a showing of methods of transportation, and nature study. All projects were linked with the reading and other regular school work, it was said by Mrs. Lotta Brandon, principal of the school.

Other teachers are Miss Louise Carhart, Mrs. Madelyn Witmer, Mrs. Vesta Tracy, Miss Margaret Ball, and Mrs. Madelyn Lembecke.

PAST HEADS PRESIDE AT ROTARY MEET

ORANGE, May 29.—When Rotary club members met yesterday noon at the American Legion clubhouse, it was to find not one, but four presidents in charge of the meeting and not one program chairman, but two program chairmen.

President H. D. Nichols discovered on opening the meeting that on the opposite side of the room was a duplicate speaker's table at which were seated three past presidents, Stanley V. Mansur, W. O. Hart and V. D. Johnson. The latter served as program chairman at the past presidents' table.

A. Haven Smith, principal of the Orange Union high school, originally selected to serve in this capacity, was seated beside Nichols.

The additional presiding officers arranged their part of the program as a surprise for other members of the club and its officers. A. L. Tomblin, in fireman's suit and helmet, acted as collector of fines for the past presidents' group, replacing G. W. Coltrane, Orange police officer, who usually performs this duty.

The program was presented by the College Ambassadors of Fullerton Junior college under the direction of Benjamin Edwards, college instructor. The group included Ellen Collins and Katherine Collins, twin vocalists, Wanda Thompson, Ardis Elcher, Barbara White, Helen Davis, Bruce MacKay, Bill Hampton, Bruce Hamilton, Blanche Rounds, Cliff Jordan, Preston Mitchell, Clarence Williams, Robert Aiken and Miss Elizabeth Hunziker, accompanist.

Several amusing Yiddish readings were enthusiastically received.

The Collins twins and Wanda Thompson sang several trios and the twins a duet. The trio responded to an encore when they sang "A Brown Bird Singing," by offering "When Did You Leave Heaven?" As a group the young people sang "Without a Song" and "Italian Love Song." Selections were enthusiastically received.

Of interest was the introduction of Paul Gollin, sophomore of the Orange Union high school, who was awarded a silver cup for placing first in Southern California Commercial Teachers contest in the bookkeepers' division. The cup will be kept at the school for the coming year and if it is won by an Orange student next year and the following year, it will become the permanent property of the school. Gollins was presented with a gold medal by the South Western Publishing company and a gold pin from the teachers' association.

OLIVE

OLIVE, May 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Paschall and daughter Marlene, entertained with a 3 o'clock dinner at their home Sunday afternoon. They had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Upton Pett of Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. Will Wylie and Mrs. Thelma Hunter of San Juan Capistrano.

Mr. and Mrs. Dare Culley have returned from an extended visit with relatives in the East.

P.E.O. EVENT

ORANGE, May 28.—Members of chapter IE, P.E.O., will continue a rummage sale in the Ainsworth building on West Chapman avenue all day tomorrow, it is announced. The sale, an annual one, opened today.

POULTRY FACTS TOLD BY CRANE

Rosa E. Crane of the Agricultural Extension service discussed current feed and egg situations at the regular poultrymen's meeting of the Orange County Farm Bureau last night.

Although Orange county does not realize such a great return from poultry as Sacramento county, Crane pointed out, it would not be fair to Orange county growers to make a direct comparison.

There are two possible reasons why the Sacramento poultrymen realize a greater return, he said. "These factors are the closeness to the grain market and a dry climate which materially reduces poultry disease."

The Sacramento poultrymen also have a better marketing organization than those of this locality.

A. W. Wolfert, chairman of the bureau poultry division, gave a report on the metropolitan market situation as it affects the local industry. He pointed out that considerable poultry meat, with the exception of fryers and broilers, now is in storage plants. The group voted to hold the annual Orange county poultrymen's picnic in June or July and appointed A. H. Hinemann, Ernest Zimmer, Frank Jones, E. J. Campbell and Crane to take charge of the preparations.

THREE INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Three persons were injured at the Old Santa Ana road and Fairview avenue, last night, as cars operated by Albert R. Blickey, 38, Huntington Beach, and Mrs. Lottie Kippel, 58, Route 4, Santa Ana, collided. The cars sideswiped south of the intersection, according to highway patrol investigators, Dan Adams and Ben Craig.

Mrs. Kippel suffered scalp wounds; Amelia Heinze, 25, Costa Mesa, suffered possible right arm fracture, cuts and bruises. They were being treated today at county hospital. Blickey suffered minor injuries.

Judge Morrison Studies Shingle To Reach Ruling

Judge Kenneth Morrison of Santa Ana justice court today was studying a shingle and not a lawyer's shingle, either. The shingle was submitted as Exhibit No. 1 in the suits filed against one another by Robert Garland, 1206 Louise, and H. F. Garland, plasterer, 1030 Custer.

Graham asked $300 damages in connection with alleged faulty work done and Garland counter-sued for $50, alleging Graham owed him that much in wages.

A contract was entered into in November, 1936, according to the suits, oral except for calculations made on a piece of roofing shingle, later discarded.

Graham recently happened upon the piece of shingle, lying on a pile of wood at his home. He made it Exhibit No. 1. Judge Morrison has the case under advisement today, after hearing testimony.

KANSANS TO PICNIC

Former residents of Clay and Clark counties, Kansas, will hold a picnic at the Jack Fisher park, June 8. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m.

PEACE OFFICERS TO MEET

Next meeting of the Orange County Peace Officers' association will be held Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. in Swanson's cafe, 1807 North Main street, Santa Ana, it was announced today by Dave McMillan, president. A "snappy" program is being arranged.

CHANGE BANQUET DATE

Members of the Men's Brotherhood and Dorcas society of the First Methodist church will sponsor a "Father and Daughter-Mother and Son" banquet in the church at 6:30 p. m., June 1, instead of on the following Thursday night as was previously announced.

PING PONG MEET TONIGHT

Eight doubles teams will tangle at the Y. M. C. A. for the Santa Ana ping pong or table tennis title tonight, Ralph Smedley, director, announced today.

The complete list of those entered in the tournament has not been completed.

Burglars Enter Homes In Tustin

Sheriff's officers today were searching for burglars who entered the homes of Fred May, Lemon Heights, and Mrs. August Hineman, Meets avenue, each of Tustin avenue, near Orange, yesterday.

During the absence of the Mays between 10 a. m. and 5:30 p. m., a window screen was cut and the house ransacked, with loss of $275 worth of clothing, according to Deputy Sheriff Herman Zabel, Bob Steinberger and John Ryan, who investigated. Five suits, an overcoat, dozen handkerchiefs, two shirts, three pairs of pajamas, pillows, blankets and a jacket were among the loot. At the Hineman home where a burglar cut a door screen to gain entrance, $650 cash and a $2 compact were stolen.

Douglas Elected To Head Council

Thomas Douglas, president of the Orange Rotary club, was elected chairman of the Orange County Council of the Rotary International at Danagers' cafe last night.

C. H. Robinson, secretary of the Orange club, will serve as secretary of the council for six months, beginning July 1.

Dr. Ralph Waltz, president of the Anaheim club, and Conner Jongeward, secretary, served in this capacity for the past six months.

The remainder of the session was devoted to routine business. Both secretaries and chairmen of the eight clubs of the county attended the meeting.

Grange Expansion Program to Start

Field work will begin Tuesday on a survey to study the grange improvement practices under the range improvement program of the agricultural conservation administrator, W. M. Cory announced today.

A complete check of all grange properties will be made in the survey and practices for the conservation program outlined.

Around the World Trip Described By Missionary

ORANGE, May 28.—Miss Ellen Suffern, missionary teacher in China, gave an interesting talk on a trip around the world at a meeting of Scepter chapter, East Orange star last night. She told of leaving China when it was 20 degrees below zero and shortly afterward of arriving in tropical countries, of seeing 350 varieties of orchids in Singapore and of going through the Suez canal. The party which she was traveling was met by other missionaries at various ports, Miss Suffern stated, and they were taken on tours to out of the ordinary places.

Mrs. Rae Bunch and Ernest Sinson, worthy matron and worthy patron, presided, introducing Mrs. Abbie Gould, a past matron of Laided chapter, Missouri, and Mrs. Mildred Coshum, of Mizpah chapter, Huron, S. D., both of whom made short talks. Mrs. Dorothy Ross headed the refreshment committee.

Announcements included that of Scepter social circle garden party June 28, at the Henry Terry home, a cooked food sale June 19, past matrons and past patrons night June 24 and brothers night July 9.

Final Meeting Of Priscilla Club Ends Year's Work

VILLA PARK, May 28.—The Modern Priscilla club held its last meeting until fall when they met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Arthur Streech. The meeting had been scheduled for Anaheim city park but cloudy weather was responsible for a change in plans. Mrs. H. D. Nichols presided at a short business meeting and chatting and sewing followed.

Present were Mesdames J. N. Adams, J. R. Adams, R. W. Cruzen, H. T. Brewer, A. E. Hughes, W. M. Tipple, H. D. Nichols, Anna Elmer, Lucille Sutherland, J. A. Bergen, Homer E. Baker, H. R. Tritt, Ralph Sussdorf, Miss Margaret Holditch and the hostess, Mrs. Streech.

GARDEN AND HOME

BEAUTY SPOTS IN ORANGE COUNTY

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Danielson, 209 Sixth street, Balboa, determined that some time they would have a desert garden at the beach. With this object in mind they searched along the old trails of Orange county to find an old wagon wheel to be used as the center of their cactus plantings. Having failed to find the wheel in this county they began a search through little traveled country in San Diego county where they were fortunate enough to find an old wheel on Palomar mountain. They have more than 100 varieties of cacti. Later in the season the dahlias which the Danielsons pride themselves on will be in blossom. At the lower left Mrs. LeVella McKay, 202 West Seventh street, Balboa, has demonstrated what can be done with a sandy front yard. She has divided the space into geometrical designs in which she has planted bright flowered annuals. Several of the squares and triangles still are unplanted. At the right are a part of the gardens of the W. W. Crothers, 311 Island avenue, for many years residents of Santa Ana. A tamarack tree late in blooming, a shady pool and exotic lilies are among the beauties of this garden.

Orange County Gardening

By Mrs. H. Cardozo Sloan, Corona Del Mar

Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

EXTRA! EXTRA! All About Aphids!

Have you, on some fine spring morning while strolling down your garden path, noticed on the tender tip of new rose growth a solitary pale green plant louse? Have you, perhaps, your heart attuned to the joyousness of the spring morning, thought tolerantly, "Oh, well, he is only one bug, perhaps there won't be any more"—and gone your way without killing him?

There, my dear gardening friend, is where you made a mistake. Three mistakes, in fact. The first was in the sex of your aphid—it was a she, not a he. The second was in thinking she might remain a solitary aphid—the fallacy of this belief will soon become evident. And the third was in not promptly squashing the life out of her.

Let us loo k deeper into the family history of this innocent appearing little green aphid. Shortly before you saw her she was hatched from a fertilized egg which, had been laying around the premises since last fall. That egg hatched a female aphid. All the aphid eggs hatched females. Why, then, is not our heroine destined to live and die a spinster and the aphid family perish from the earth? How nice if it could be so.

Green Aphid
But Nature has decreed otherwise. Our spring-hatched female aphid is endowed with the most formidable powers of reproduction. Without aid or intervention on the part of any male aphid, without even the necessity of laying an egg, she produces living young. And these children are like herself, wingless females with the same powers of reproduction. Therefore, when Nature takes her course with your solitary green aphid, it is easy to understand that practically the next time you walk down the garden path, instead of one aphid, the rose stem is thick with them. Now and then, when the accommodations get too crowded, a winged female is produced, to make it easier for her to seek another branch or bush, which she promptly proceeds to populate. And not until the skill of autumn approaches do the egg laying females and the males appear, produced in the same manner. These proceed to lay fertile eggs, or, at least, the females lay the eggs which the males have fertilized, thus, between them, laying the foundations for another crop of self-equipped reproducing females next spring.

The Greeks had a word for this, parthenogenesis, and this biological phenomena occurs in a few other insects. In aphides the parthenogenetic development of females has been known to continue for four years before any males were produced.

Use Fine Spray
So, my friend, you see the urgent necessity of extinguishing every aphid you see with the utmost promptness. A strong fine spray from the garden hose will often clean them off. But a safer method is a spray of Black Leaf 40, or some of the numerous mixed sprays which contain nicotine.

And, by the way, sometimes one is confused by reference to "aphids" and to "aphides." An aphid is a plant louse belonging to the genus aphid, which is the genus of sap sucking insects. So our common garden pest is both an aphid and an aphid. By whichever you call her, her vicious sap sucking habit, her winged ability to migrate, and her enormous powers of reproduction make her one of the most serious of our plant pests.

Some Easy Campanulas
About once a year you may expect my enthusiasm for Campanula poscharskyana to spill over into print. This is without question the best as well as the easiest of the larger-flowered forms of the small campanulas. It is most often grown as a rock garden plant, but one which I have in my garden suggests it may be used most charmingly in other ways. Last spring we put up a box on the wall of our lath house as a sort of demonstration of a shady window box. In this we planted several begonias, a number of ferns, a couple streptocarpus, some trailing lobelia, and one plant of Campanula poscharskyana. All of which flourished.

Errors In Use Of Plant Food Pointed Out

When grass is burned by an application of plant food, it's usually due to the fact that the food has become wet while in contact with the green leaves. For example, a sufficient number of any of these plants may be started in a flat tray of soil placed in a south window of the dwelling, or cigar boxes filled with fine soil will answer very well for starting these early plants. In case it is not convenient to grow the plants in the house a small hotbed or cold-frame can often be constructed, or plants purchased at the seed-store.

Our southern folks know all about turnip greens and no southern garden would be considered complete in the late winter and early spring without its patch of turnips that are used mainly as greens. Plain, old-fashioned curled mustard makes good early greens and the newer mustard-spinach or tendergreen as it is often called is even better. The tendergreen grows so quickly that it is ready for use in less than four weeks after the seed is sown. Every now and then somebody takes a knock at spinach and says that its virtues as a spring greens have been very much overrated. Spinach is, however, one of our best early greens and it can stand a lot of devaluation and still hold a prominent separated in the spring to plant a whole row as a border edging. Begins to Bloom

C. garzania is commencing to bloom. This is another easy and pretty one. Glossy, dark green little leaves in a compact rosette, throwing out sprays of light blue starry flowers.

C. istriaca, another of the prostrate forms, larger leaved than garzania, also has a little blue star-shaped blossoms. It makes a very pretty tuft of foliage. I know these four campanulas are easy, for they have all grown in my lath garden with rather indifferent care. A number of more difficult species and varieties I lost last year from overcrowding by more luxuriant plants and by overwatering. I am very much hoping C. pusilla alba will survive devastation by gophers and rabbits, for I love this little fairy-like campanula with tiny white bells like miniature lily of the valley blossoms. The taller campanulas, the Canterbury bells, for instance, have long been favorites in the summer border. These smaller species are attractive in their foliage all the year round, hence are very desirable in the garden. Most of these alpine prefer a slightly gritty soil, very well drained, and some, but not too deep shade. It would be a very pleasant gardening hobby to collect the various species of these charming little Campanulas.

ANNUAL LUPINS THRIVE

If you have trouble growing perennial lupines, try the annual varieties.

The annual lupines are not so fussy and grow easily from seed with spikes of bloom almost as fine as the perennial types, and have the advantage of blooming the first year from seed. As they are not commonly grown the annual lupines will offer a novelty in annuals for many gardens well worth a trial. See that it has plenty of water during the hottest spells through the summer. The downy foliage is ornamental, with the long leaflets radiating from a common center like an umbrella.

These annuals have a fine range of colors in blues, pinks and white varieties. There is also a yellow variety of soft shade. They prefer partial shade, best place where they will get the morning sun, and be shaded from the afternoon blaze. There are both tall and dwarf varieties. The tall sorts give the longest spikes and are better for cutting, while the dwarf types are better for bedding.

Plant the seed about a quarter inch deep and transplant as soon as a true leaf develops. They are rather hard to transplant, but as the germination of the seed is uneven it is best to sow in the seed bed and move to permanent quarters later.

Annual lupines make unusually fine cutting material. Use them for a background, but don't give them too rich a fare.

Vegetables Furnish Us Vitamin Needs

Our markets are now well supplied with fresh, green vegetables throughout the year, thus giving those who depend upon purchasing their requirements abundant opportunity to maintain a more or less balanced diet. There are many families, however, that either do not have access to the markets during the winter or can not afford to purchase an abundant supply of green winter vegetables and the spring of the year finds the members of these families greatly in need of fresh green food.

Farm gardens and town lot gardens are the main dependence of thousands of families for their supply of fresh vegetables. An early start in the home garden can often be made by sowing seeds of cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes, peppers and egg plant in the house. For example, a sufficient number of any of these plants may be started in a flat tray of soil placed in a south window of the dwelling, or cigar boxes filled with fine soil will answer very well for starting these early plants. In case it is not convenient to grow the plants in the house a small hotbed or cold-frame can often be constructed, or plants purchased at the seed-store.

EVERYONE CAN HAVE WINDOW BOX GARDEN

Porch and window boxes sometimes afford the only opportunity the apartment dweller has to grow flowers. On the other hand, they are extensively used in suburbs for the decoration of houses. In either case, satisfaction will be increased if, in planning them, it is remembered that in effect they are architectural ornaments; and should harmonize in size, shape and color with the house.

Window box is colorful indoors and out.

A window box should be at least 10 inches wide and eight inches high; and not much more than three feet in length. Where wide windows are to be fitted, it is better to have the box built in sections. The box should have some

Annuals

IN PREPARING the soil for the flats in which you start your seeds, screen it carefully, using a coarse screen at the bottom and the very fine at the top. Cover the seed with soil screened through the regular window screen.

WATER THE SEEDS in your flats through a piece of coarse burlap. This will prevent washing the soil from above them, and will give the needed moisture.

ANNUALS such as California Poppies, Nasturtiums, etc., that do not transplant easily should be sown where they are to bloom. Just as soon as they are large enough to handle, they should be thinned out to prevent overcrowding.

HAVE SOME of the old fashioned shrubs and flowers. To most there is a certain attractive atmosphere that attends lilacs and mignonette and the old standards.

AS A CLASS, annuals prefer more sun and a lighter soil than do perennials. They are also generally far more fragrant.

WILT RESISTANT asters are now in the catalogs. Even where there is no wilt disease, they are preferable because of their strength and vigor.

THE BRILLIANCE of Poppies is not surpassed by any other annual and they will add to the color of your garden. They fit in nicely between the June perennials and the later annuals.

MARIGOLDS are always desirable and they are persistent in bloom right up to frost. The new Golden Eaglet is particularly attractive. It has been adopted as the official flower of the Girl Scouts of America.

ZINNIAS are warm weather plants and must be sown in warm soil. Best results are obtained by sowing the seeds in the ground where the plants are to flower.

place in our list of desirable green vegetables.

Hot weather soon sends the spinach and the mustard shooting to seed then we can begin on the early cabbage and beet greens. For summer greens there is nothing quite equal to Swiss chard, a sort of beetless beet that grows practically all to tops and makes a very small root. Swiss chard, of which the variety known as Lucullus is most desirable, stands hot weather remarkably well if kept watered and the tender young leaf stems and leaves may be pulled off and used as greens while the plants will continue to produce more stems and leaves until fall.

Gardeners and cooks should remember that no matter how good and tender the greens, or how full of mineral salts and vitamins, the best of greens can be ruined in the cooking. Don't pour off the water in which you cook your greens but gently simmer it down so that the mineral salts are retained in the greens. Overcooking results in the loss of the green color and attractiveness of greens and the finished product may often be served so attractively as to make the food more popular.

There is something inspirational about the Lombardy poplar. Its tall length draws the eye upward. Probably the reason they are used so much in low countries is that the soil is over-wet. But human reason. Most of us know the psalm of David, beginning, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills." In those flat countries there are no hills, so a man pausing in his plowing, or a woman from her work, may lift tired eyes to their poplars, and so draw strength.

petunias are good for window boxes, especially Golden Gleam which makes fairly long vines, and its bushy type offspring, Golden Globe. Other flowers suitable for boxes in a sunny location are: ageratum, dwarf cannas, cuphea, geraniums, heliotrope, lobelia, mignonette, neriembergia, petunias, achyranthus, acalypha, dracaena indivisa, crotons, grevillea and sweet alyssum.

Trailing plants which do well in sunny exposures include: English ivy, ivy geranium, Kenilworth ivy, ground ivy, ice plant, thunbergia, trailing fuchsia, trailing lantana, trailing lobelia, vinca major, wandering Jew, and the very best of all trailing plants for window boxes, the balcony type of petunia.

For shady locations these are recommended: Aspidistra, Boston ferns, fancy leaved caladiums, asparagus sprengeri, impatiens, pteris ferns, begonia, small palms and tuberous rooted begonias. Flowers for the window or porch box should be chosen with the color of the house in mind. Best effects are obtained when the flowers provide a contrasting but harmonious color to that of the house. Instead of red flowers on a red brick house, white would be more pleasing. Red flowers would look well with a gray house; and on a cream or yellow house, blue flowers would be attractive.

GARDEN TREE PRODIGIES

BY LYDIA C. DAVIS
Landscape Architect

We all know the Eucalyptus trees which have grown so long in California that they seem like natives. There are so many varieties now cultivated, ranging from shrubs of six feet to 15 feet and trees of 20 feet to 150 feet, and adapted to a variety of conditions, that it is hard to pick individuals. One or two of the new dwarf varieties keep the infant blue of their leaves, and so can make an interesting color contrast in a large shrubbery planting, or may be used as specimen plants. Some of these small kinds also have a new color for eucalyptus flowers—yellow.

The acacias have quite a variety of leaf shapes and colors, but all have the small, fluffy yellow flowers. They range in size from 15 feet to 60 feet, and the low-growing ones make good screens or backgrounds. One of the trees is Acacia mollis, the Black Wattle, which will double its height each year for awhile. Its leaves are fern-like, of a dark green, making a lovely contrast with the bright green of the new shoots. Acacia dealbata, the Silver Wattle, is about the same, except that the leaves are bluish-green, and some consider that it grows even faster.

A small tree which does well here, and even better nearer the ocean, is Lagunaria patersoni. It has olive-green leaves, large pink flowers in the summer, and grows quickly into a shapely tree. One may be seen to the south of the office building of the Fairhaven cemetery, at the beginning of the long shrubbery border.

We usually do not think of pines as being fast growers, but the native Monterey pine, Pinus radiata, is one, as also is Pinus canariensis, which is more beautiful and grows larger. It is considered the best for small places. The Monterey pine is usually not very long-lived away from the coast.

Among the trees which lose their leaves in winter, is the Chinese Elm, Ulmus pumila. It will make a large, spreading tree in three or four years, and can stand some alkali in the soil. The flowering peaches are fast-growing small trees, and for this reason, and their habit of flowering on one year shoots, are the best to plant when sprays are wanted for cutting. The more one cuts, the more there will be the next year, especially if all the main branches are pruned to about two-thirds of their length after the flowers fade. This forces out new shoots to bloom the coming spring.

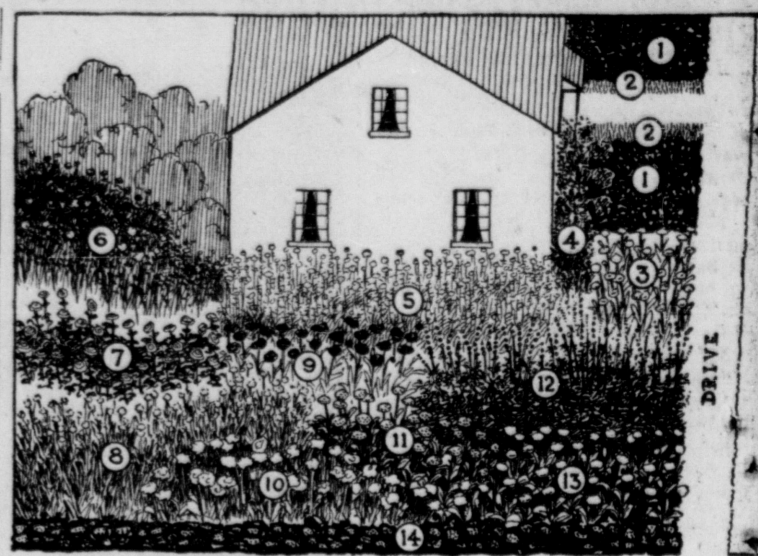

Then there are the Lombardy poplars, which fill a place all of their own. No tree fits so well with certain types of architecture, or gives accent to plantings of rounded trees and shrubs. In many of the low, flat parts of England, France, and Belgium there are no other trees to be seen, so a few should always be used with houses of those countries to give the proper atmosphere. An example is the English style home of Clifton B. Steele at 2304 N. Park Blvd., which is made more beautiful by the poplars around it. Then their upright and uniform character enables them to be used in formal ways, as at the Ray Goodell home, 2041 Greenleaf street, or to accent a peaked roof or a tall chimney. But they are too large for small places, so a good substitute is Eugenia myrtifolia, or Eugenia hookeri, both evergreen and fast growing. The last is rather tender, but has nice purple fruits from which a good jelly can be made.

As sometimes happens, especially in New England, the house entrance is to the side as in the sketch above. And presupposing that this side is toward the south, the suggestions shown above would encircle the west end with good effect.

First the few feet of walk from house to drive are bordered with one row of chives, which make a pretty edging whether in flower or out; they must be cut to the ground after flowering, and will be found useful in the salad bowl as well as in the garden. In the spaces giving on these rows use marigold Lemon Queen and nasturtium Golden Gleam. Toward the front of the house are the gay annuals cosmos, larkspur Blue Spire, scarlet poppy Flanders (double), blue cornflower, calendula Sunshine and another, Ball's Orange, and at the edge giving on the street Phlox Drummondii, Fiery Scarlet. . . . While back, before the shrub planting of bush honeysuckle (Lonicera alba) the tall nicotine Crimson Bedder should stand near zinnias Salmon Rose while double white poppy should bring that planting forward toward the cornflower, poppy, and cosmos of the front.

Parsley sown before the chives on the very edge of the walk would make an excellent foreground for the herbs.

GOOD GARDENING

BY DONALD GRAY
Register Gardening Consultant

Instead of trying to grow the common vegetables in a small plot of ground, why not try some of the more unusual varieties, those that are expensive to buy but easy to grow.

Here is a list of such vegetables that can be grown by the average gardener:
Corn Salad (Variety "Broad Leaved")—Spoon-shaped leaves, used like any salad leaf. Sow seeds in good garden soil from early spring to September, and handle like lettuce. An application of nitrate of soda solution will speed growth.

Chinese Cabbage or Celery Cabbage (Variety "Wong-Bok")—Delicious for cole slaw and generally used in salads for its agreeably pungent flavor. When boiled it becomes more palatable than ordinary cabbage. Requires cool season and rich moist soil for best growth. Early spring where summers are cool, and August where summers are hot is the best time for setting out the plants.
Brussels Sprouts (Variety "Long Island Improved")—A tall growing single stalk containing many compact cabbage-like buds 1½ inches in diameter. A good late fall vegetable to depend upon when most others are over. Treat as a crop of late cabbage. When setting out, pinch off a few of the leaves, plant eight inches apart in rows two feet apart. As the plant matures, cut off some of the lower leaves to avoid crowding the sprouts.

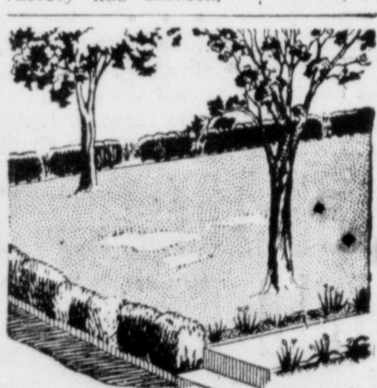

Broccoli (Variety "Early Green Italian")—Rather tall growing and appears as a gray-green loose knit cauliflower. A tender vegetable with pleasant taste. Sow seeds in hotbed in February or March, transplant to garden in May; or sow in seedbed in June or July, and transplant a month or six weeks later. Broccoli enjoys cool and moist locations.

Swiss Chard (Variety "Fordhook Giant")—During hot weather it replaces spinach and is easy to grow. Sow seeds from March to May. The hardy plants will yield until frost. Rows can be 16 to 20 inches apart; thin out the seedlings to one foot apart in the row. Sow one ounce of seed to 100 feet. Vary the cream colored and asparagus with these large white leaf ribs.

Okra Variety "White Velvet"—A too-little used vegetable in northern states. Excellent for soups and stews when picked in the young tender stage. When old, the pods become tough. Sow seeds in rows, thin out to two feet apart each way. Likes summer heat. See that the soil is good, but not too good, else more leafage than pods will be developed. Do not sow the seeds until the soil is warm.

"Wich Island"—Known as Oyster Plant, has a root like a carrot or parsnip, has a fine flavor of oysters and is used in soups and stews. Usually it is grown for fall and winter use. Sow seeds early in shallow drills, in rows one foot apart. Thin out to 5 or 5-inch spaces. Be sure the soil is mellow, rich and deep, and leave the root in the ground in winter for spring use.

Collards (Variety "Georgia")—A variety of kale. Kale has crinkled, curled leaves, while this variety has smooth.

MIDNIGHT OIL ERA CREEPS ON STUDENTS HERE

Two weeks remain before the era of midnight oil, strong coffee, and wet towels introduces itself to students of Santa Ana Junior college.

Today the college office announced final examination dates as, from Friday, June 11, to Thursday, June 17, and posted the complete examination schedule.

One hundred and 61 final tests will be held during the six-day period. They will be held from 8 to 11 a. m., from 12:30 to 2:30 p. m., and 3 to 5 p. m.

Final examinations are mandatory in all courses at the college, except in laboratory courses and in these they are at the option of instructors. Exams cover the entire semester's work.

Passing grades in the finals are required for passing the course. Students must take examinations at the appointed place and time in order to get credit for the course.

UNION CAMPS AT CITY'S EDGE

Waging a relentless campaign to organize employees of the Ford Motor company, the United Automobile workers nevertheless stayed out of Dearborn when they leased the two buildings shown below for unionization headquarters. The buildings, defunct banks, are located on the Detroit side of the street which separates that city from Dearborn, and are about as close to the Ford plants as it was possible to get without being within Dearborn city limits. Insets show opposing generals in the union battle—Homer Martin, left, U. A. W. president, and Henry Ford.

STATE MUST DO OWN WINDOW WORK

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 28.—(UP)—The state of California will have to wash its own windows, do its own gardening and lawn-mowing and undertake all similar work with its own employees, the third district court of appeals ruled today.

The case, an important test of the right of state agencies to contract non-civil service labor, was instituted by Finance Director Arlin E. Stockburger, who asked a writ of mandate to force the state controller to pay a $291.66 claim of the American Building Maintenance company.

The company contracted with the finance department to wash windows in the state capital and other state buildings here. The controller refused to allow the company's claim on the ground that if this claim were valid, nothing could prevent hiring of non-civil service workers for all types of janitor service, gardening, clerk duties, typing and similar work. The court concurred in this view and denied the writ.

BUSINESS UP, MORE MARRY
CLEVELAND (UP)—County officials say a pronounced upturn in marriage license requests indicates returning prosperity. The 1936 report of Frank Zizelman marriage license clerk, shows 10,787 licenses issued during the year. The total in 1935 was $670.

The Dominion of Canada had an estimated total of 2,318,900 horses in 1936, as compared to 2,331,300 in the preceding year.

ORANGE COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS TO WIN PRIZES

Boys and girls of Orange county may get out their artistic temperaments and "go to work" for fun and prizes, according to announcement today of the Orange County Free library which has sponsored a Home Craft contest for elementary school children during the week of June 14 to 19.

"How about the fine model sail boat you have been making, or that wonderful engine which runs by itself?" sponsoring officials ask. "If you're a girl, perhaps you have some grand marionettes you'd like to show off."

Contents At Branches
The craft work entered by the children will be placed on display at the local community branch libraries for the entire week. Contests will be held in the following branch libraries: Brea, Costa Mesa, El Modena, Garden Grove, Laguna, La Habra, Los Alamitos, Midway City, Oceanview, Olive, San Clemente, Seal Beach, Tustin and Westminster.

All entrants should observe the following rules:

1. Any child is eligible who was enrolled in an elementary school during the year 1936-37; 2. home craft shall be interpreted to mean any article made for recreation outside of school hours, such as model airplanes and boats, puppets, toys, bird houses, doll dresses, doll furniture, objects carved from wood, woven scarfs, etc.; 3. only one craft piece may be entered by any one child and this must be of average size, or not too large to be displayed on a table with other articles.

Don't Forget Date

4. All entrants to the contest must bring their craft work to their local branch library for display the first of the week beginning June 14; 5. attached to each object must be a tag, approximately 11-2x3 inches, stating plainly the first and last names of the child who made it, his age, and home address.

Four awards for the best craft work will be made on the last day of the contest at each community branch by specially appointed judges. 1. To a boy 10 years of age or over; 2. to a girl ten years of age or over; 3. to a boy under ten years of age, and 4. to a girl under 10 years of age.

ADOPT AMENDMENT ON GASOLINE TAX

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 28.—(UP)—Future attempts to divert funds received from the state's gasoline tax to other than highway purposes would be prevented under terms of a constitutional amendment adopted by the assembly.

The proposal, already passed by the senate, will be voted on by the electorate at the next general election in 1938. It specifically limits use of the gasoline tax revenues to highway construction and maintenance, but provides if the "in lieu" tax on automobiles is repealed, bond issues with which roads formerly constructed shall be retired from the gasoline levy. The bonds now are redeemed with receipts from the "in lieu" tax.

The lower house also passed a bill by Sen. W. R. Knokland which would create a highway safety commission composed of state employees. Investigation of accident causes and a report to the next legislature on suggestions for their prevention were listed among the duties of the commission.

State To Exhibit Products In N. Y.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 28.—(UP)—California participation in the exposition to be held in New York following the Golden Gate International exposition at San Francisco in 1939 was approved by the assembly today.

Sen. Walter McGovern's bill giving the Golden Gate Exposition commission authority to acquire and place exhibits outside the state was passed by the lower house and sent to the governor. Under contemplation at the New York exposition.

G. E. Employees To Get Pay Increases

ONTARIO, Cal., May 28.—(UP)—Employees of the General Electric company plant here yesterday received their third pay increase since January with announcement of Plant Superintendent W. H. Tangeman that a new increase of $12,000 a year had been granted. The increase, which affects 144 of the 600 local employees, boosts the annual payroll to $749,000. The total payroll increase for the year is $47,700.

JIMMIE FIDLER IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, May 28.—The most exciting report to prick my ears in months is the story that Beverly Hills is built over pools of oil. Hold your seats! This is only hearsay, and I have no geologist's report to offer in proof. But it is fun to twiddle with the fantastic possibilities, so let us suppose that Beverly Hills is really afloat on a sea of oil.

Approximately half of the screen colonists reside there. A large percentage of them live in mansions that cost from seventy-five thousand to a quarter-million dollars. Some own half-acre lots; others like Harold Lloyd and Mary Pickford own many acres. What will happen if there is oil, and when the city's very old ordinance against drilling expires? Will the stars jeopardize their estates and drill?

And if they do, won't it be a little too much for Greta Garbo, drawing half-million annually from the movies, sprouts an oil well in her back yard? Will Groucho Marx hook up his shower bath with a crude oil gusher and thus give his house guests a new kind of surprise? Happy thought, perhaps some star will donate a lot to the Old Actors' Home, and it will become an oil field and all the screen veterans will ride in gold-plated limousines again.

I was loitering in Clark Gable's dressing room today when he telephoned Carole Lombard. After some priceless give-and-take kidding, he invited, "How about doing a little truckin' with me to-night?" Carole apparently accepted, and after they had exchanged goodbyes (long drawn out goodbyes they were too), he said to me, "She's thinking in terms of truckin' at the Trocadero. But I'm going to ride her down the boulevard in my station wagon, and pull into a sandwich stand for dinner." Now I can hardly wait to hear what happens, for I can vision Carole in chiffons and ermine for the Troc, seated beside Gable in his station truck munching a hamburger with onions.

THE CORN FLAKES MY FAMILY LIKES BEST!

"Kellogg's Corn Flakes are tops with us. For crispness and flavor, no imitation comes even close!"

The goodness of Kellogg's can't be duplicated. They're better made—better flavored—better packed. The only corn flakes kept oven-fresh right to your table by the patented WAXTITE inner bag.

Ready to serve with milk or cream. Sold by all grocers. An outstanding value. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

events. I recently saw a $50 watch raffled for 200 chances at a dollar a throw. Dozens of workers solicit orders for holiday turkeys, chickens and eggs. Christmas cards are sold on sets by scores of minor employees. Others peddle home-made cookies, cakes and candies, and of course the stars who buy these tid-bits open them immediately and pass them around the set.

When twelve New York models were brought to Hollywood not long ago for a color picture, they were ordered to report for work each morning with their faces scrubbed clean, absolutely without makeup. Technicolor experts then applied powder and paint after the girls were costumed.

I happened to be standing near three of the girls and overheard a syrupy blonde chirp, "This going around in public without makeup gives me the creeps. I feel positively nude!" What struck me as funny was that this same curvaceous blonde models ladies' silk undies for magazine advertisements. MGM studio put one of those

"GARBO LOVES TAYLOR" billboards for "Camille" near a girls' school in Hollywood. I passed there today and saw this amusing agreement scrawled on the board in lipstick: "So do we." Beneath these words were about twenty signatures in girlish handwriting. Copyright, 1937, McNaught-Synn, Inc.

PRIEST WHO EXPLORED THE MISSISSIPPI

THE Mississippi river, which Ferdinand de Soto discovered in 1541, was a mystery to white men until Pere Jacques Marquette, young Jesuit priest, ventured down the stream in 1673, with Louis Joliet and a party of five white followers.

Father Marquette, born in 1637, had gained the affection of the Indians around Lake Michigan and now sought to pacify the tribes to the south, while locating the mouth of the "Father of Waters."

In two birchbark canoes, the seven explorers set sail. First the Illinois Indians, then other tribes, were made friends, while the explorers dared the dangerous currents of the river. Finally, learning from the Indians where the water flowed to, and that hostile Spaniards awaited them, they turned back. Before they reached their destination, Marquette died.

This event marks the first of the series of stamps which the United States issued in 1898, on the occasion of the Trans-Mississippi Exposition in Omaha.

Young Authorails For Orient

WESTMINSTER, May 28.—Lynn Thomas, local 21 year old writer who travels to secure material for subjects, left Port Los Angeles this week on a trip to the Orient aboard the steamship President Hoover. Thomas works his way on his various ocean trips and joined the President Hoover on the present trip to San Francisco the first of the week and was privileged to have a few hours visit at home with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas who were at the dock for his sailing, Manila, China, Borneo and many of the South Sea points will be on the ship's route on this seven weeks' trip.

Several trips were made aboard the Lurline by young Thomas, who on the Hawaiian route wrote a story on "Flying in and Around Hawaii" which was accepted, with several pictures by the "Popular Aviation" magazine, which has accepted several other stories on similar subjects written by him.

A prehistoric dragonfly, uncovered in Kansas, is believed to be a representative of the largest species of insects that ever inhabited the earth. It lived in the Permian Age, about 150,000,000 years ago, at a time when there were no birds or mammals in existence.

DRIVE CAREFULLY - SAVE A LIFE -

WHY WORK?

When Roosevelt says that "in actual practice, it (referring to social progress) has been effectively advanced only by the passage of laws by the state legislature or the national congress", it would seem foolish to work.

The fifty million people who have been striving to produce social progress have evidently all been wrong. There is certainly no use working, if Roosevelt's statement is right—that all social progress has been effectively advanced only by passage of laws by state legislature or national congress.

We believe he is absolutely wrong; that it has been the workers, one and all, who have produced all social progress and that the laws never created any social progress but only permitted the workers to add to their own social progress.

GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE

Fulfillment of another dream of California Argonauts is realized today as the Golden Gate Bridge across the entrance to San Francisco harbor is formally opened.

The greatest overwater structure in all the world the Golden Gate Bridge will stand—through the ages, amid the sea, the sun, the fog and wind, supremely majestic, alluringly beautiful, benignly friendly as she helps guide the destinies of men from many nations.

Many there were who said it never could be done. But there she stands today an inspiring monument to the men of vision, the men who wouldn't say no.

To the traveler the Golden Gate Bridge may be just another bridge. To the ships that sail the seven seas it may be just another gigantic span to pass under. But to those pioneers who have looked forward for years to today it is a vindication of their faith.

The courage of the pioneer who came across the prairies in covered wagons, leaving in their wake the bodies of loved ones must have coursed through veins of the pioneers who envisioned the bridging of the Golden Gate.

What pride must swell the hearts of the engineers as today they look upon their handiwork. The indomitable will of engineers to conquer was never more exemplified than in this masterpiece.

The main center span of this "Queen of Spans" is the largest single unit of any suspension bridge in the world. It is 4200 feet long, 700 feet longer than the George Washington Bridge over the Hudson river. The two giant towers, one off San Francisco's Presidio shore and the other on the Marin county bluff to the north, are 746 feet high. The total bridge width is 90 feet, divided into a 60-foot roadway, with six lanes for vehicular traffic and two 10½-foot clear width sidewalks.

The grand total length, including the two approach roads, or from Waldo Point in Marin county to the Marina Gate of the

There are two side spans—1125 feet each—and if these are added to the 4200 feet of the main center span, there is a total length of the bridge proper of 6450 feet, or one and one-fifth miles.

Many there are who shall come and go across her friendly breast, whose staunch heart lies beating to the tenor of the tide, beneath the silver ripple of her robe—some shall be friends and some shall be foes, but all shall pause to do homage to this glorious queen who stands supreme, her head held high in dewy clouds.

OUR FOREFATHER'S TRIALS

We glean from the Christian Science Monitor's special article on the Constitutional Convention 150 years ago some of the trials of our forefathers.

The confederation was having great difficulties in getting enough revenue even to pay interest. The report shows that the confederation had issued requisitions for $10,000,000 in 1782 and the same amount in 1783. Yet the total income for five years in January, 1787, was less than $2,500,000.

The original plan was to finance the confederation in proportion to the value of the land within each state, but there was no authority to enforce these requisitions and as a result each state seemed to vie with each other in how little they could pay and how long they could delay payment.

Some of the bonds of the confederation were down to 10 per cent of face value. The total debt of the confederacy was above $40,000,000. This was about $12.50 per capita.

Robert Morris, superintendent of finance for Congress, resigned as superintendent saying, "to increase our debt while the prospect of paying them diminishes does not consist with my idea of integrity."

We now owe more than $250 for every person, or more than twenty times as much per capita as we did when our government was formed. The question of sharing government expenses does not seem to have been solved by the amendment to the Constitution by attempting to tax people in proportion to ability to pay. It does not seem to enable us to pay our bills.

FREIGHT LOADINGS

A report indicates that freight loadings are now 15 per cent more than last year but still 20 per cent less than the 1922 and 1929 averages. While it is true that trucks have probably taken some of the freight from the railroads, yet the increase in population should at least counterbalance any loss to trucks. It would thus seem we are at least 20 per cent behind any freight loading of what we had in 1922 and 1929 averages, but with modern methods of utilizing the forces of nature we should be increasing above our old average rather than being satisfied with merely reaching it.

REGISTER CLEARING HOUSE

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.)

Editor Register: We are having some excellent Santa Ana Register editorials, genuine information, in regard to conditions in Public Schools and the Federal Educational Forum established by Mr. Roosevelt and his sponsors at public expense, to prepare us for the "new order of things" he said he was undertaking.

A short time ago, the editor of "Current Events" (an educational publication), stated a test was given to determine pupils' knowledge of public affairs and 300,000 students in three hundred or more cities of the U. S. took examinations—and results—many giving the following names as to who is Chief Justice: Borah, J. Edgar Hoover, Lemke, Goering, Einstein. President of the American Federation of Labor—Stalin—and John Lewis of Youngstown, Ohio. Dictator of Russia—Perkins; Socialist Premier of France, Helen Keller; Secretary of State—Einstein; Republican candidate for President in 1936—J. Edgar Hoover. Romeo and Juliet was written by Eugene O'Neill. The editor stated, this condition reflects a serious fault in our present school system, not preparing students for good citizenship, writers comment.

Not at all strange that some students should name radicals in Mr. Roosevelt's chariot, for "birds of a feather flock together."

What does this condition indicate for some of our teachers in public schools, what kind of school boards and college heads also? Data from middle-west finds matters even more serious than in California. Teachers who are loyal to our public school system as founded and loyal to our government, of this grand and outstanding republic, teachers, who are giving more, and sacrificing, for greater achievement of pupils, higher ideals, good citizenship and patriotism, are being told their services are at an end this year. People who read the papers will note the change taking place. Even Santa Ana does not escape these mysterious changes. One valuable and very loyal aid in our schools, just recently received word of his dismissal, and was like a bolt of lightning out of clear sky. They asked the reason why? Were services not satisfactory? The reply—yes services are good; then why the dismissal? To this question they were refused a reply. Is the true answer, Socialism, Communism, Marxism, Fascism, all mixed up in the pie to gradually oust the loyal teachers or any person connected with the schools who are fighting for their existence? Investigation is absolutely necessary and only by people who are in sympathy with upholding this Republic and our schools. Whatever the ism's it is penetrating far deeper than people realize.

One of our largest church dignitaries stated the public schools are godless schools and was high time that church intervened. It was through church that the Bible was thrown out of public schools (many years ago) because they argued the schools were sectarian. The Bible is out and kept it forever thus. Let religion be taught in the home and private institutions, forever keeping state and church divided, for wherever union of state and church has been practiced, in any degree, resulted in a state of spiritual decay, chaos and revolution, also any law that would compel one religious group to pay taxes to support another group's religious schools, is contrary to both the State and National institutions. The enrollment of public school children into religious groups would eventually take away their freedom and create a spirit of intolerance, narrow minds and obstinate attachment to particular creeds, party or opinion, hindering a child's progress in his formative years, and at the same time destroying the continuity of our public school system. Shall we go backward or forward, the grave problem facing the United States and the world today?

Our New Age of progressive education in schools will eventually lead to their destruction, if radical books supplant our own text books. Harold Ruge, professor of Columbia University, is quoted in the Communist "Daily Worker" paper, Dec. 6th, 1933 for his pro-Soviet views. He served on the (Communist) Progressive Education Association, director and advisory board in 1934, also, John Dewey served on the same board of directors. Read the small book, "A Call to the Teachers of the Nation", by the Committee of the Association—one declaration—"If the teachers are to play a positive and creative role in building a better social order, they will have to emancipate themselves completely from the domination of the business interests of the nation, cease cultivating the manners and associations of bankers and promotion agents...take up boldly the challenge of the present, recognize the corporate and inter-dependent character of the contemporary order and transfer of the democratic tradition from individualistic to collectivist economic foundations." George S. Counts, a lecturer, a translator from Russian and writer of Eulogistic preface of Lin's "New Russia's Primer." Glance through the book sections of our large Sunday papers and note the many communist books mentioned in synopsis.

If any one desires to write and send ten cents to the U. S. Government Printing Office, (office of "Education Bulletin") you can get a copy of U. S. Bulletin of instructions on Forums, entitled "Education for Democracy", put out by J. W. Studebaker, head of the Roosevelt Forum Project and lecture schedule. Out of the 23 speakers on 1934-35 programs, there was at least one conservative, thus adding the "pepper" which entitles such Forums to claim they present all angles of controversial subjects—especially to interest NON-Radicals and obtain their attention for the more amply presented radical or socialist side. According to an article in the "Awakener" (purchased in newstands in L. A. or other literature mentioned) date, Jan 1st, 1936, a paragraph in part, "while theoretically the concept of the open forum seems to be in accord with the American town meeting tradition, in practice, forums in America have usually drifted into the control of radical propagandists who have rigged the programs in order to favor socialist speakers and points of view. There have been some admirable exceptions to this experience, notably, Ford Hall in Boston."

Even though there are some people we could not classify as radicals, yet, are paying for application of remedies in radicalism, aiding the Forum by lending their names and financial support.

If these numerous writers and lecturers were seeking to enlighten the public, they would accept the many challenges which they have received, to meet their critics in exhaustive discussion, but they dare not do so for no one knows better than they do, that their mixture of therapeutics will eventually destroy our schools, our Government, and IS THEIR PLAN.

It is the danger of exposure that makes cowards. If they really sought to establish truth, they would jump at such an opportunity. The brightest minds and facile pens would have full and free access to the thousands, and millions who read papers not afraid to print the truth.

Let the teachers who are being discharged, declare positively, the methods now in force in schools. We know that truth rejoices in joint controversy, but, error cringes and slinks away, and the light of truth would quickly expose it to public scorn and ridicule.

Let us organize to save our schools, our Republic, for "Our Liberties We Prize and Our Rights We Will Maintain," should be the most forward thought.

Thinking American, and we can save the cardinal principles of Americanism from the aliens.

Yours for AMERICA as founded by our forefather's now and for "A Thousand Years My Own Columbia."

Why should not the editor have a word of praise for his vigilant fight to uphold our schools, Constitution, our Government and warning the people of the grave dangers that are confronting the nation.

It truly seems that you are endowed with an instinctive sagacity for sifting the truth from false doctrines afloat today. Upon investigation you are exceptionally accurate—the external circumstances, the pretense and association do not mislead you. You sense the main point, object or gist of pertinent issues, always seeking right and truth. Your editorials and your counsel is needed more and more in this great fight for liberty...besides, doing more to arouse thinking people to a greater state of active thinking. The Register Clearing House is greatly appreciated by thousands of people in Santa Ana, and quite sure the people of Santa Ana value the editor of the Santa Ana Register, as a man of great integrity.

Yours very sincerely,
MRS. T. J. COTTINGHAM,
925 N. Olive, Santa Ana.

"Bring your account books, in return. You can't have him growing up with that mean streak in him. If he wants candy let him take his turn in buying it."

"Yes sir," said Peter, doubtfully.

The doubt was not lost on father and he was interested in seeing the next month's record. It was about the same. Peter had spent all of his, Patsy had spent practically none of his. "Did you buy Patsy's candy this month, too Peter?"

"No. You see mother heard me telling Patsy that he had to take turns buying candy if he wanted any, so she bought some and Patsy ate that."

"He didn't get any from you?"

"A little. Sometimes if we were out and he couldn't get any home I gave him a share. I had to do that."

"Patsy, how about it? You still sponging on the others? You won't have a friend in the world if you keep on this way."

"O, yes, I will, dad. Gail Lorrey and I are going partners in the egg business. We get along first rate. I have lots of fun with him. We start delivering eggs this week. We'll about double our money."

"I see. Then perhaps you don't need an allowance from me?"

"O, gee! I could say I did. I was going to ask you to increase it this week seeing we had to spend so much at the start off."

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

RELAXATION—

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Two exactly opposite ideas are being gleaned from what President Roosevelt has been saying about continuing his supreme court tussle. He has said half a dozen new order cases are to be decided by the court in the distant future and indicated he lacks confidence that the court will uphold all his legal viewpoints. Some say this means he will continue his drive; others say it suggests he will wait to see.

What he has done lately, however, is subject to but one conclusion.

Example one—The White House has flooded congress with important new legislative subjects, (wages and hours, farm control, SEC strengthening, and hydro-electric power conservation is yet to come), but, at the outset of this court argument, the announced program was to keep the court subject before congress to the exclusion of all other business, until final action was forced.

Example two—Senators noticed the relaxation of inside White House pressure immediately after the bill was defeated, 10 to 8, by the senate judiciary committee.

Wise congressional authorities believe the legislation will be kept suspended in midair as long as possible, and, if possible, permanently.

NOTE—A change is noticeable also in Mr. Roosevelt's personal demeanor. He no longer pounds his desk, shouting danted words and compromise suggestions, but appears affable and pleased with the world. His wages and hours message was worded as mildly as any message he ever sent to congress.

DISTURBANCE—

Eminent officials have their fingers in their ears, awaiting an explosion within the radio commission. Charges and counter charges, involving personalities mostly, are going the round of the inner circle. A detonation cannot be long delayed, although some expert efforts now are being made to avoid it.

Acting Vice-Chairman Stewart resigned the other day for the announced purpose of taking a better outside job, but a contributing factor was that the rooms of the commission are too small to hold some of the conflicting element. Possible successor: Ex-Congressman Driscoll of Pennsylvania.

COOPERATION—

Further recent British steps to ease the flowing tide of gold toward the United States are evident. They are the result of broad official hints from Washington which managed to reach the right parties in London.

Concern over gold has thus continued to wane in official quarters. In the minds of officials here, the problem is definitely tied to financial speculation in this country. That is, they now agree excess imports of gold primarily reflected foreign buying in the American high grade bond markets. (Not armament buying, etc.) Since speculative activity has been moderate lately, gold imports have fallen off.

This is only a hiatus.

TAXES—

No one seems to know anything about a new tax bill this session. Congressional fiscal leaders say they will not stand for one. At the same time, responsible treasury authorities are noticeably itching to revise administrative features of the present law.

They will certainly seize any opportunity to submit a bill making important administrative changes toward the close of the session if they have reason to believe there is half a chance of getting it through.

While waiting, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau is personally conducting himself by conducting a drive in income tax payers, checking and double checking the returns, particularly of New Yorkers. This seems to be the main subject of private discussion in the financial district.

NOTES—

There is talk in Texas quarters (but unconfirmable here) that son Elliott might be persuaded to run for governor of the largest state.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau is understood to be looking for that Chesapeake and Ohio railroad book-keeper who made a $50,000,000 mistake and did not discover it for five years. Men like that are hard to find.

The Rockefeller estate will not be entirely bare. Members of the New York Stock Exchange are contributing the usual $15 apiece to raise about $20,000 death gratuity.

Individual economists differ as widely as lawyers, but even some in the new order are expressing some doubt as to whether Mr. Roosevelt is getting the right economic advice. For instance, his wages and hours message expressed the desire of putting "a floor" underneath the existing living standard by federal decree of a minimum wage level and maximum hours. There is another school of thought which holds he might let floor repairs go and turn attention to the ceiling, with a view to adding another story to the house.

Better Jobs FOR ALL

—By R. C. HOILES

Sharing Work

It is evident that the changing of the Supreme Court is for the purpose of establishing minimum wages and maximum hours for work.

The theory among Karl Marx, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, John Lewis, William Green, and Harry Bridges is that there is a scarcity of work. For this reason, they want work shared.

These men do not seem to realize that the worker produces his own wages; that his producing wealth that is transferred into wages in no way interferes with other workers producing wealth that is transferred into wages.

It would be a Utopia to most of us if we could increase our living standards by reducing the amount of work we could do. We know of no one who wants to work. All that people want is the fruits of work. It certainly would be a dream to be able to by law add to our national income by reducing work or by sharing work. It is simply an hallucination and wish-picture that has been tried time after time and always resulted in eventually losing our freedom.

The wise man learns from other people's experience, the next wisest man learns from his own mistakes and the gullible never learn even from their own mistakes.

We must learn eventually that purchasing power and living standards, do not come from money wages, as the educational leaders, brain trusters and politicians would lead us to believe, but come from actual production. The more that is produced, the higher our real wages and our living standard can be.

Where's the Proof, Mr. Walker?

Mr. Walker in the Register "Clearing House" makes the statement that, if true, would certainly justify taxes on income and inheritance. He says, "industry always has been fully capitalized in this country." If that be true, then there is no reason in the world why all the taxes should not be paid out of capital and profits.

The only reason all taxes should not be paid out of capital or income is that there is a scarcity of capital in the United States, if we are to have good wages for all workers.

It seems that Mr. Walker does not differentiate between the words "plenty" and "more."

It is true that there is "more" capital per worker in this country than in any other country in the world. That is the reason wages are higher in this country than in any other country in the world but that certainly is not evidence that there is "plenty" of capital in the United States.

If there is plenty of capital, Mr. Walker, why has not the Government been able to balance the budget for the last seven years? If there is plenty of capital why should people work and save to produce more? If there is plenty of capital, let's take it and balance the budget and thereby stop inflation, stop counterfeiting "credit" dollars. These counterfeiting "credit" dollars, Mr. Walker, are constantly reducing the purchasing power of the workers and of those workers who have saved in the past and have their savings in the form of credits.

We doubt very much whether Mr. Walker knows what capital really is, or certainly he would never make such an absurd statement that there has always been plenty of capital in this country. His arguments on the income tax being based on a premise so erroneous as this, it is "natural" to should pay tax in proportion to see how he believes that people their ability to pay. And if there is plenty of capital and the inefficient should have special privilege and not pay their proportionate share of the government's costs for the protection the government renders to them.

It is easy to see with his starting point that there is plenty of capital why he wants the delicate, complicated instruments that serve humanity be taken from the efficient in order that the inefficient may be relieved of their just share of supporting the Government. How could this, in the long run, add to the general welfare unless there was all the wealth capital needed?

But, if there is plenty of capital, as Mr. Walker says—but he gives no evidence of this excepting that there is more capital here than in the rest of the world, which is no evidence—then his theory is sound; otherwise, fallacious.

Little Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

Pop was undumping his pipe in the china ash tray and ma said, Not so ruff, Willyum, I don't want anything to happen to that ash tray after all these years. Given to us as a wedding present by Artchy Liggett, and of all people who did I meet downtown this afternoon but Artchy himself, she said.

In person and not a picture? My my, pop said, and ma said, He still has that same shock of curly brown hair, do you remember, Willyum?

I cant say I do, pop said, and ma said, Why Willyum you must, you used to act so jellish whenever I mentioned his thick brown curls. You used to imagine I was casting undue aspersions on your own hair, you silly thing, just because it was inclined to be a little thin on top, even then, she said.

It's all news to me, pop said. If I ever had anything but contempt for a man with curls, I don't remember the time, he said, and ma said, He payed me in the compliment of telling me I don't look a day older, of course I didn't believe him but naturally I didn't argue about it. He really looks about the same himself, because of his hair, I suppose. He asked me about your hair, and whether you had any left, and I deliberately told him a lie and said your hair seemed to come in thicker after we were married, wasn't that nice of me? ma said.

Why didn't you tell him I'd been scalped by Indians and didn't have a hair left, that would have pleased him more, pop said, and ma said, Why Willyum, how unjust, he never had anything but the nicest things to say about you. You were the one that was always knocking him, don't you remember? Willyum Potts I believe you're still jellish of Artchy Liggett, she said.

How can I still be what I never was? pop said. It's this confounding ash tray that I don't like and never did, he said.

And he quick threw it in the fireplace and it broke all up with a bang, making pop feel better and ma worse.
